Defense Begins In Pope Trial

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

People who have known Duane Pope for most of his life took the witness stand Wednesday afternoon as attorneys opened their defense of the young Kansan, accused of the early summer slayings and bank robbery at Big Springs.

Pope's attorneys, Robert Crosby and Wallace Rudolph, have said they will stake his entire defense on the contention he was insane at the time of the crime.

They told a Federal District Court jury of ten men and two women that testimony will portray their client as a shy, reserved boy who grew up from a trouble-free childhood to win the respect of the community.

Urge To Kill

And they said expert psychiatric testimony will prove that Pope possesed a schizoid personality and an inability to express hostilities which caused in him an urge to kill he could not suppress.

The prosecution, which rested its case Wednesday morning, disagrees. In asking for the death penalty, the government has pictured Pope as a cold mass killer who knew exactly what he was doing all the time.

"He was one of the most outstanding students I have had in my years of teaching," said Mrs. Margaret Magnuson. She said that Pope had slightly above average grades "because he studied hard and applied himself."

The former Roxbury (Kan.) High School teacher said that Pope, despite his shyness, tried out for and won the leading part in a class play his junior year.

Mrs. Magnuson said Pope played the role of a disguised school superintendent who robbed a bank. "He did an excellent job," she said. "He put himself wholeheartedly into the part of the superintendent."

Other witnesses testified that Pope "kept things to himself," "wasn't one that followed the crowd," "never expressed anger," and although a good athlete, was not aggressive on the field.

Ivan Henne, cashier of the Roxbury State Bank, told jurors that Pope had frequent dealings with the bank and had made loan payments regularly until the Big Springs incident June 4.

Henne said that Pope had not been behind on any payments and that payments on a $700 loan taken out by Pope and his brother, Dennis were ahead of schedule.

Four-Sport Letterman

A former classmate of Pope's who testified about his background broke out in tears as she left the courtroom.

U.S. Atty. Theodore Richling, chief prosecutor, cross-examined only one of the six defense witnesses. He questioned Henne with reference to Pope's checking account at the bank.

Henne replied that the account, "which showed a slight overdraft," had been closed out by his mother, Mrs. Earl Pope, with a "$40-60 deposit on June 6 or 7."

Crosby and Rudolph have estimated that it will take over a week to produce their testimony.

KJELDGAARD . . . assisted from court.

Robbery Survivor Describes Events

The only survivor of the June 4 bank robbery at Big Springs Wednesday described events surrounding the fatal shooting of three fellow employes and his own narrow escape from death.

Franklin Kjeldgaard, 26, assistant cashier of the Farmers State Bank, was wheeled into Federal District Court in a dramatic appearance as the government's last witness in the trial of Duane E. Pope, who stands accused of the holdup.

'Certainly Do'

When asked if he recognized who fired the shots, he replied "I certainly do," and pointed directly at the 22-year-old Kansan.

Then in a matter-of-fact voice he related to the jury what had happened at the bank during the late morning of that summer day.

A young man in a dark suit came into the bank about 11:30 a.m. and asked for a loan to develop some land, Kjeldgaard said.

When told he would have to inquire about that type of loan elsewhere, the man pulled a gun and announced the hold-up.

Kjeldgaard said that Pope "seemed to be in complete control of himself—he knew exactly what he was doing. At no time before he pulled the gun was I suspicious."

3 Others There

Present at the time were the younger Kjeldgaard's uncle, Andreas Kjeldgaard, bank president, Glen Hendrickson, cashier, Mrs. Lois Ann Hothan, bookkeeper and Franklin.

Franklin said the man asked them to put all the money in the cash drawer in his briefcase and then asked Mrs. Hothan to get money from the vault.

When she hesitated, the robber said harshly, "Lady, this is no joke." "She was terrified, of course," Kjeldgaard testified, "but she went into the vault and came back with a bundle of $1 bills."

Ordered To Lay

He then ordered us to all lay down on the floor," Kjeldgaard said. "I expected him to leave and make his get-away because we did exactly what he told us," but instead the young cashier noticed out of the corner of his eye a hand place a gun against his uncle's back.

Kjeldgaard said he heard the first shots and heard his uncle moan. The gunman then stepped over to the younger man.

"He pressed the gun hard into my back and pulled the trigger," Kjeldgaard related. "I felt a tremendous pain all the way down to my toes. It was the last feeling in my legs since."

Like Hypodermic

He continued: "The gun was then pressed against my neck. The shot felt like a hot hypodermic needle. I thought I was dying."

Franklin testified he remained conscious to hear the other shots and that after the robber fled he got up "in push-up position" to trip the burglar alarm.

He said he then fell back over his dead uncle and remained on the floor until help came. "It seemed like a thousand years."

'Do Something'

Kjeldgaard said he remembered someone saying, "We have got to do something for Frank—he is the only one we can do anything for."

During the testimony the eyes of Pope and Kjeldgaard did not meet, although the survivor looked at the accused gunman as he was wheeled from the courtroom.

Kjeldgaard was the 50th and final witness called by the prosecution in an effort to convince the jury that Pope committed the killings methodically and with premeditation.

After his testimony U.S. Attorney Theodore Richling announced that the government would rest its case. Defense attorney Wallace Rudolph's motion that Judge Robert Van Pelt direct a verdict of not guilty was overruled by Van Pelt.

Congressmen Plan Queries

. . . WHAT HAPPENED FIRST?

Washington (UPI)—Government investigators moved swiftly Wednesday to determine whether "someone pulled the wrong switch" or a mechanical mishap caused the massive power breakdown that plunged millions of Northeasterners into a nightmare of darkness.

Chairman Joseph C. Swidler of the Federal Power Commission, under orders from President Johnson to come up with some answers, launched the investigation. Congressional probes also were planned.

"When you look at the possibilities, one of them was that a piece of equipment broke down. Another possibility is that it wasn't operated right, conceivably, someone pulled the wrong switch," Swidler said.

The federal investigation would start with pinpointing the cause of the blackout and end with recommendations that would prevent a similar disaster.

Residents of an 80,000-square-mile area experienced the extraordinary night without electricity. Hit by the power failure were parts of New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Vermont, Pennsylvania along with parts of Ontario and Quebec.

FBI, Pentagon

Aiding Swidler in the search are the FBI, the Defense Department, the Justice Department and other agencies. Their representatives met with Swidler Wednesday along with officials of the power systems involved in the blackout. Another meeting is set for Thursday.

Swidler said, "We may never trace where it started."

But he hoped to have a preliminary report offering at least some clues ready for the President by weekend.

"Whatever happened yesterday is water over the dam," he told newsmen after the meeting. "It is useful only as it guides us for the future. What this demonstrates is the need for ever greater care, for ever greater reliability and sophistication of equipment for enlargement of reserves not only in generating equipment but also for design of equipment for overload and emergency equipment."

So far, he said there was no evidence that the faulure was the result of a deliberate act.

There always was the possibility of a similar blackout in the future, he said.

Dispatched Wednesday to power companies involved in the power failure was an FPC list of 19 questions attempting to pinpoint the triggering cause. One question: "What happened first?"

Officials of only two of the power companies involved attended Wednesday's meeting, but representatives of all the companies will attend Thursday's session.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, and his House counterpart, Rep. Walter Rogers, D-Tex., plan congressional investigations of the power failure.

Mustn't Reoccur

"We must be certain that it does not occur again," Magnuson said.

Swidler said, "Like all historic inquiries, we may never quite agreee on precisely what happened. We have heard a number of explanations already, not entirely consistent. Because the fault might have been human error, we may never trace where it started. But, we are going to do our best."

Swidler said investigators had not determined the time or locality of the first power failure.

An industry participant in the meeting — L.F. Lischer, vice president of the Commonwealth Edison Co.—said one wrongly pulled switch would "not normally" be able to produce such widespread damage.

Lischer said that "normally, a system would be able to tolerate" one such mishap, falling back on reserve energy. But "sometimes you get a combination or a sequence of events, automatic and manual."

Two Aluminum Firms Retreat On Price Issue

Washington (AP) — Aluminum Co. of America and Reynolds Metals Co. Wednesday night rescinded — in one-two order — aluminum price increases that government officials had attacked as inflationary.

Alcoa withdrew its one-half-cent-a-pound increase on aluminum ingots and one cent-a-pound on fabricated products after discussions with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

In an unusual night press conference, McNamara hailed the firm's decision as "a patriotic act."

About two hours after Alcoa's announcement, a Reynolds Metals Co. spokesman issued a statement saying: "We are rescinding the price increases announced Oct. 29 and Nov. 5. We have no other recourse."

But Reynolds, as well as Alcoa, still maintained the price increases were justified.

In California, Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corp., another industry leader, said: "We will have no opportunity to consider this until Thursday."

There was no immediate comment from President Johnson at Johnson City, Tex., but McNamara said he had informed the President of the development and described him as "very pleased."

Johnson had been reported angered when the companies first announced the price hikes, and the federal government appeared on another collision course with big business. The government ordered the disposal of 1.4-million tons from the nation's aluminum stockpile.

President John F. Kennedy and steel companies ran headlong into a price controversy in 1962 — and Kennedy won a rescission.

McNamara said officials of Kaiser and Reynolds indicated to him by telephone that they would join in the negotiations on the stockpile disposal. But he said "they haven't discussed their prices with me."

Kaiser, Reynolds and Alcoa account for about 80% of the nation's aluminum production.

One reporter asked McNamara whether the threat to sell 200,000 or more tons from the stockpile was a club.

"I think we do an injustice to say they would act only when clubbed," McNamara said. "These men are responsible leaders of the business community. They don't have to be clubbed."

McNamara said the military establishment will buy between 300,000 and 400,000 tons of aluminum next year —10 to 15% of production.

This, he said, is about 150,000 to 200,000 tons bigger than before the South Viet Nam war.

McNamara said that the Alcoa discussions were "initiated by them, not by me."

Indio, Calif. (UPI) — The prosecution produced three witnesses to testify that Gail Neal was afraid of estranged husband Thomas Neal, and feared he might try to kill her.

Pacifist Is Dead Of Burns

New York (AP)—A young pacifist who set himself afire in front of the United Nations to protest war died Wednesday of burns.

Roger LaPorte, 20, a volunteer in the Catholic Worker Movement, became the third American to die that way this year.

Like the others, he had poured a fluid on his clothing and ignited it. He was burned over 95% of his body, and doctors at Bellevue Hospital thought it remarkable he lived as long as he did—more than 21 hours.

They said he hadn't been in much pain because the nerve ends were burned.

The youth had attended a Catholic seminary and once wanted to join the Trappist Order. Recently he was studying at Hunter College here. He is survived by his parents and a brother, Jerry, 29.

NU Student Purges Self Of Contempt

Federal District Judge Robert Van Pelt told University of Nebraska journalism student Gene Gaddie Wednesday "you have purged yourself" of contempt in the questioning of Duane E. Pope case jurors.

The judge Tuesday cited Gaddie for contempt after learning the 30-year-old student had telephoned seven jurors the night before to determine how trial duty was affecting their private lives.

Gaddie appeared before Judge Van Pelt Wednesday and read a statement in which he said that he thought the questions he had asked the jurors were permissable.

He said he would not have talked to them if he had known it was wrong.

Gaddie told the judge he wanted to appologize to him and the jury and said he hoped he had not interfered with Pope's right to a fair trial.

The jurors earlier had said the calls would not affect their impartial consideration of the case.

Van Pelt told Gaddie Wednesday. "I am now convinced there was no willful intent to influence the jury."

Under the circumstances, he added, there was "probably no contempt as such."

University journalism professor Neale Copple, who appeared with Gaddie, described the student as hard-working and, if anything, too conscientious.

Eisenhower Chest Pains Come Again

Ft. Gordon, Ga. (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower suffered another attack of heart pains late Wednesday — "more prolonged and of longer duration" than the first — and was placed back in an oxygen tent.

This setback followed word earlier that the former president was making a good recovery from what his physicians called a mild attack of angina pectoris or heart pains.

In fact, they said, he should be able to play golf again in two weeks.

His physicians said the attack that sent Eisenhower into the Army hospital in Tuesday's early hours was from a coronary insufficiency, or a lack of enough blood flowing to the heart muscles. They said it was not a heart attack, as the term is used ordinarily, such as Eisenhower suffered in 1955.

Zomba, Malawi (AP)—Prime Minister Hastings Banda introduced a bill in parliament Wednesday amending Malawi's penal code to permit the public hanging of persons convicted of capital offenses.

CPPD Submits Proposal To AEC For Reactivating Hallam N-Facility

Consumers Public Power District announced Wednesday that it has submitted a proposal to the Atomic Energy commission for a cooperative program to return the Hallam nuclear power facility to operation.

If accepted, the proposal would lead to the signing of a contract for repairing the faulty moderator elements and placing the plant back into operation by late 1966.

Under the proposal, the AEC would be asked to expend $250,000 for repairing the faulty moderator elements and an additional $1 million for repair and maintenance work involving heating, ventilating, instrumentation and control systems.

Cancelled

The earlier operating agreement was cancelled by the AEC in September, and Consumers' investment in the nuclear facilities was returned last month. These funds will be used to construct a conventional boiler to provide a second firm power supply source at Hallam.

Under terms of the CPPD proposal, the reactor would be operated in parallel with the conventional boiler so that either one or the other would be in a position to produce electric energy to supply the district's energy demands.

Consumers would not make any further investment in the nuclear facilities at Hallam.

Staff discussions have been held between CPPD and the AEC to discuss the proposal. However, no date can be given for any further action by AEC, Consumers said.

Important

The use of sodium as a coolant for large power reactors is of increasing importance to the AEC program for future power systems, CPPD's announcement stated.

These systems, known as breeder reactors due to the fact that they produce more fuel than is consumed in the production of electric energy, are the subject of extensive research and development efforts needed to bring the systems to commercial feasibility in the early 1970's, Consumers said.

NU Student Purges Self Of Contempt

Federal District Judge Robert Van Pelt told University of Nebraska journalism student Gene Gaddie Wednesday "you have purged yourself" of contempt in the questioning of Duane E. Pope case jurors.

The judge Tuesday cited Gaddie for contempt after learning the 30-year-old student had telephoned seven jurors the night before to determine how trial duty was affecting their private lives.

Gaddie appeared before Judge Van Pelt Wednesday and read a statement in which he said that he thought the questions he had asked the jurors were permissable.

He said he would not have talked to them if he had known it was wrong.

Gaddie told the judge he wanted to appologize to him and the jury and said he hoped he had not interfered with Pope's right to a fair trial.

The jurors earlier had said the calls would not affect their impartial consideration of the case.

Van Pelt told Gaddie Wednesday, "I am now convinced there was no willful intent to influence the jury."

Under the circumstances, he added, there was "probably no contempt as such."

University journalism professor Neale Copple, who appeared with Gaddie, described the student as hard-working and, if anything, too conscientious.

Eisenhower Chest Pains Come Again

Ft. Gordon, Ga. (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower suffered another attack of heart pains late Wednesday — "more prolonged and of longer duration" than the first — and was placed back in an osygen tent.

This setback followed word earlier that the former president was making a good recovery from what his physicians called a mild attack of angina pectoris or heart pains.

In fact, they said, he should be able to play golf again in two weeks.

His physicians said the attack that sent Eisenhower into the Army hospital in Tuesday's early hours was from a coronary insufficiency, or a lack of enough blood flowing to the heart muscles. They said it was not a heart attack, as the term is used ordinarily, such as Eisenhower suffered in 1955.

Public Hanging Bill Introduced

Zomba, Malawi (AP)—Prime Minister Hastings Banda introduced a bill in parliament Wednesday amending Malawi's penal code to permit the public hanging of persons convicted of capital offenses.

Some people, he said, had committed hideous crimes beyond description and the only way people would know they were really dead would be to hang them publicly.

CPPD Submits Proposal To AEC For Reactivating Hallam N-Facility

Consumers Public Power District announced Wednesday that it has submitted a proposal to the Atomic Energy commission for a cooperative program to return the Hallam nuclear power facility to operation.

If accepted, the proposal would lead to the signing of a contract for repairing the faulty moderator elements and placing the plant back into operation by late 1966.

Under the proposal, the AEC would be asked to expend $250,000 for repairing the faulty moderator elements and an additional $1 million for repair and maintenance work involving heating, ventilating, instrumentation and control systems.

Cancelled

The earlier operating agreement was cancelled by the AEC in September, and Consumers' investment in the nuclear facilities was returned last month. These funds will be used to construct a conventional boiler to provide a second firm power supply source at Hallam.

Under terms of the CPPD proposal, the reactor would be operated in parallel with the conventional boiler so that either one or the other would be in a position to produce electric energy to supply the district's energy demands.

Consumers would not make any further investment in the nuclear facilities at Hallam.

Staff discussions have been held between CPPD and the AEC to discuss the proposal. However, no date can be given for any further action by AEC, Consumers said.

Important

The use of sodium as a coolant for large power reactors is of increasing importance to the AEC program for future power systems, CPPD's announcement stated.

These systems, known as breeder reactors due to the fact that they produce more fuel than is consumed in the production of electric energy, are the subject of extensive research and development efforts needed to bring the systems to commercial feasibility in the early 1970's, Consumers said.

Youth Recovering From Gun Wound

Plainview (AP) — A 13-year-old Plainview boy was shot in the abdomen when a hunting companion's .410 gauge discharged.

The youth, Sterling Hardisty, was reported in good condition at Plainview General Hospital.

Young Hardisty and Steve Thomsen, 13, were hunting in a field east of the Hardisty home and decided to sit down, Thomsen said. As they did so, Thomsen's gun discharged.

Steps Taken In Nebraska To Reduce Risk Of Power Paralysis

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

There is no economical way to guarantee an integrated electric power system against blackout.

But, steps can be taken—and they have been taken in Nebraska—to reduce the risk of a paralyzing power failure similar to the one which blacked out the Northeast Tuesday.

Power leaders have determined Nebraska needs in the past three years.

Action has been taken by Nebraska utilities, the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation and Iowa utilities to reduce the risk of future area-wide blackouts.

"It will minimize the possibility of a complete blackout," according to Howard Ericksen of Columbus, executive manager of the Nebraska Public Power System.

"It will tend to protect Nebraska to the maximum," noted Don Schaufelberger, operations director of Consumers Public Power District.

The agreements call for "shedding of load" in predetermined amounts when energy frequency begins to drop as the result of a severe disturbance within the system.

Such load-shedding procedures may result in short-term outages for some customers, but will help hold the electric system together and help prevent long-term, area-wide blackouts.

Won't Pinpoint

Both Ericksen and Schaufelberger declined to pinpoint which customers would be shed first to protect the system.

Loads will be shed manually at the present time, but automatic equipment will soon be installed to handle the task.

In addition, Ericksen noted, two major transmission lines have been added by NPPS and they should help strengthen the system.

A major blackout normally results from a chain of events triggered by some major loss of transmission or generation facilities.

"There are far more benefits to interconnection than disadvantages," Ericksen said.

"You may get a blackout at some time, but interconnection may save a system many times without a customer ever knowing it, and this has happened."

Interconnection permits one system to come to the aid of another in the case of unit failure or major demand.

BLACKOUT IN BRIEF

By The Associated Press

POWER—Completely off from Buffalo to eastern Canada for periods up to 10 hours. All of New York City except Staten Island blacked out from 4:28 p.m. to 2:35 a.m. CST.

EFFECTS — Commuter trains, subways and elevators became prisons for 900,000 persons. All were rescued. But the transportation tieup lasted long after power was restored. Delays still were reported in New York City subway and commuter train service late Wednesday. One man died in a fall down a darkened stairway in New York.

CAUSE — A breakdown somewhere in the huge interconnecting grid system linking power supplies in the Northeastern states. The exact spot of the breakdown had not been determined Wednesday afternoon.

OUTLOOK — Investigations ordered by President Johnson and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

What World Sees In Blackout Analyzed

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Because the potentialities of a global cold war are much on their minds, people around the world probably will attach political and military significance to the power failure which plunged much of the East into hours of darkness.

Politically, some might construe it as damage to U.S. prestige.

Many people abroad probably have been shocked that such a thing could happen, of all places, in the United States, a nation proud of its technological know-how; one where everything mechanical is confidently expected to perform in the American tradition of precision.

Haunting Arms Question

On the military side, the event could raise for many a haunting wonder about the possibilities of a vulnerable America—an America which for at least one night seemed highly vulnerable.

In foreign capitals, the word sabotage came quickly to many lips and found its way speculatively into the press. Such speculation likely will die hard, despite apparent official agreement in Washington that no sabotage was involved.

The blackout news, conveyed to many people in Europe, Asia, Africa and Latin America in huge headlines, thus in some minds becomes a military fact. It remains so for them even though the U.S. defense department announced that an emergency generating system, put to an unexpected test, kept a network of military communications with Northeastern bases intact during the power crisis.

Latins Shuddered

In Latin America, newspapers spoke of a paralyzed New York, and the swift reaction of the man in the street seemed to be to shudder at the thought that it might be the prelude to a big war.

In Japan, many people and some newspapers speculated about sabotage and cold war. In Europe, enormous headlines told readers of "chaos" on the U.S. eastern seaboard and reported panic—which was nonexistent—in New York.

Worry in high places at the very idea that the big blackout could have happened was implicit in the President's swift order for a broad investigation.

Red Jeers Probable

There probably will be jeers from the communist world.

The fact that the blackout happened at all in the United States must be a matter for widespread astonishment among knowledgeable people around the world. Some Americans may long be asked: "Remember when the lights went out?"

Suppose it had happened in Russia on the same scale. Suppose some bug in the works at some point or other immobilized the richest, most populous, most industrialized and most strategically important area of the Soviet Union and darkened its biggest city for 10 long hours.

Surely the question would arise in the West—whether the blackout was accident or not—whether Soviet power installations were potentially easy targets for saboteurs. And undoubtedly, heads would roll in Moscow.

Rickover Calls It 'Timely Warning'

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

Washington (UPI) — As Vice Adm. Hyman G. Rickover sees it, "This thing last night was a providential warning."

The "deep lesson" to be learned from the Northeast power failure, he told United Press International, is realization of "how precarious matters are in all areas of a technological society."

Rickover said he was not referring solely to power to light cities and run machines and industries. He was talking also about the entire complex of modern civilization which depends for its survival on such things as ample water supplies, sewage disposal systems, and transportation facilities.

Other Perils

He was talking not just of the inconvenience and menace of power blackouts but also of other less dramatic dangers stemming from 20th Century technology—foul air, polluted streams and lakes, dangerous drugs, poisoned soil, and damage to animal, fish, and insect species vital to man's welfare.

Rickover, who directed development of nuclear engines for ships and once was chief electrical officer of the Navy, said, "We take too much for granted; we haven't learned to appreciate our blessings."

Tuesday night's regional power blackout shocked the whole nation. But "in any society as technologically complex as ours," Rickover said, "we must expect these things unless we plan on a national basis to anticipate them."

Cites War Incident

Rickover recalled a naval incident of World War II which resulted, he said, in licking the threat of power failures afloat and ashore.

The battleship North Dakota was under attack by Japanese warships in the South Pacific. As a result of a shell hit, the battleship's power system was knocked out for 14 minutes. In that period it couldn't maneuver or fight back.

This, too, was a providential warning. It "highlighted the problem," Rickover said, "and we redesigned the power system for ships so it couldn't happen again."

The new system was applied also to naval shore stations, and today's naval atomic power plants have standby electrical sources consisting of diesel generators which start automatically when normal power goes off.

Talk To Group

By coincidence Rickover was addressing the National Electrical Manufacturers Association here Tuesday night a few hours after the lights went out in New York and Boston.

Primitive man, Rickover said, spent half his lifetime in the dark. When the sun went down his productive day was done. Now electricity, by illuminating the night, has lengthened "the span of conscious life."

In his talk, written before the blackout, Rickover also said:

"I can think of no single material blessing I would rather have than electric light, and if I had to do without modern conveniences, this is the last one I would willingly forego."

Udall Says Weak Ties To Blame

Kansas City (AP) — The power failure that blacked out much of the Northeast Tuesday night was not aggravated by the pooling of power but because "there were not strong enough inter-ties between systems," Secretary of the Interior Steward Udall said Wednesday.

The secretary, here to address the 34th annual convention of the National Reclamation Association, said the gigantic power failure should serve as a warning to utility companies to "take a good look at their systems and reappraise them."

"This system," Udall said referring to the failure, "had very weak interconnecting lines. The pooling of power reserves is the key and solution to these problems."

Gov. Nils Boe of South Dakota said the northwestern part of his state receives 14 inches rainfall a year and the southeast corner—along the Minnesota-Iowa border—has an annual rainfall of slightly more than 24 inches.

Cooperation Asked

Boe said South Dakota had given up one-half million acres of land to provide reservoirs for the storage system that releases 17 to 30 million acre feet of water daily to states downstream.

"We only ask your cooperation that we be allowed to use some of this water ourselves. We're happy to store it for you but we would like a better rate or return on our investment—we have no other place to look for water than on the Missouri, a river of gold."

Gov. Frank B. Morrison of Nebraska said the No. 1 water problem in his state "is the lack of necessary structures for the control of water supplies with which we are blessed."

Major Problem

Morrison said six million acre feet of water flows out of Nebraska each year. He said a major problem is finding economically feasible sites for dams and reservoirs where multi-purpose structures may be installed.

"One serious problem in this connectin," he said, "is overcoming the objections of residents of the community where multi-purpose reservoirs are to be installed since the benefits from such a structure do not accrue to the people in the immediate area of the structure."

Conway, N.H. (UPI)—There is an 11-year-old boy in this community on the edge of the White Mountain National Forest who, for a while, was firmly convinced he knew exactly what caused Tuesday night's blackout.

Jay Hounsell was walking home from school when he picked up a stick and, as boys are prone to do, started banging it along fences and telephone poles as he walked along.

At 4:28 p.m. CST, he hit a street-light pole with his stick, and at that precise moment all the street lights went out.

It took Jay's mother some time to convince him that he was not responsible for plunging everything into blackness.

Record Smashing Corn Yield Hiked To 67 Bus.

. . . Sorghum Crop Drops 4 Bus. Per Acre

By the Associated Press

Nebraska's 1965 corn crop, once farmers got to picking it urned out to be better than it looked

That's why the U.S. Department of Agriculture Wednesday boosted from 66 to 67 bushels per acre the estimate of yield this year, Kenneth Logan of the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics reported.

Indicated on the basis of Nov. 1 conditions is a total harvest of 250,982,000 corn bushels.

At the time of the 66 bushel estimate a month earlier, little of the corn had been picked, Logan noted. But by the close of October "almost half of the crop was out of the field and farmers knew what they were getting. It was running just a little better than they had thought."

The sorghum crop, on the other hand, deteriorated and the yield estimate dropped by four bushels per acre.

'Frost Hurt Sorghum'

"Frost in September hurt a lot of sorghum," said Logan, "particularly in the west, southwest and central portions. It caused a lot of lightweight sorghum and caught many fields that had been planted late because of rain and just hadn't matured. Some of it isn't worth cutting."

A month ago, the department figured the corn production at 247,236,000 bushels, or 66 bushels to the acre.

In 1964 Nebraska harvested 214,032,000 bushels of corn, 52 to the acre. The 1959-63 average production was 303,161,000.

The average yield of 67 bushels to the acre would be a record high, 6.5 bushels higher than the previous mark set in 1962.

The department estimated a dry bean production of 1,140,000 pounds at 1,500 per acre. The estimate a month ago was for 950,000 pounds at 1,250 an acre.

Soybeans Unchanged

Nebraska's soybeans crop was figured at 24.5 bushels to the acre, a total of 16,978,000 bushels—unchanged from a month earlier.

The sorghum estimate dropped from 59 bushels to the acre a month ago to 55 of Nov. 1 conditions. Total production was placed at 131,065,000 bushels, compared with 140,597,000 a month earlier.

Record Smashing Corn Yield Hiked To 67 Bus.

. . . Sorghum Crop Drops 4 Bus. Per Acre

Nebraska's 1965 corn crop, once farmers got to picking it, turned out to be better than it looked.

That's why the U.S. Department of Agriculture Wednesday boosted from 66 to 67 bushels per acre the estimate of yield this year, Kenneth Logan of the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics reported.

The department estimated a dry bean production of 1,140,000 pounds at 1,500 per acre. The estimate a month ago was for 950,000 pounds at 1,250 an acre.

Soybeans Unchanged

Nebraska's soybeans crop was figured at 24.5 bushels to the acre, a total of 16,978,000 bushels—unchanged from a month earlier.

The sorghum estimate dropped from 59 bushels to the acre a month ago to 55 of Nov. 1 conditions. Total production was placed at 131,-065,000 bushels, compared with 140,597,000 a month earlier.

Meanwhile, the Nebraska Association of County Agricultural Agents paid tribute to the J. L. Brandeis Co. of Omaha "for meritorious public service in the field of agricultural education."

Hugo Kahn, general manager of Brandeis' Gold's Division of Lincoln, accepted a certificate of commendation presented by the Nebraska agents group. The citation to the firm noted that "J. L. Brandeis Co. has fulfilled the objectives and ideals of Agricultural Extension work in many ways."

Nelson and Mrs. Bredenkamp rolled up the highest number of placings in various divisions in competition among agricultural agents and home Extension agents, respectively.

Contest winners were announced Wednesday afternoon during the annual Nebraska Extension Conference in session at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education.

Marilyn Lunner, Department home economics editor who was in charge of the contest, said there were 156 entries from 34 counties.

Role Of Government

By WILLIAM O.DOBLER

With some people, if a project involves the government, it is automatically bad. These people cannot understand or appreciate the government as a representative of the people, working with the people and doing for the people collectively those things which they cannot do themselves. Another automatic reaction of such people is to link government with oppressive controls over the people.

With government action, they claim, come government controls and that is bad.

Government's Position

Such reasoning is in error on two points. For one, government action does not always dictate government controls and secondly, when there are controls they are often to the advantage of the public. Time and again, programs run into this philosophical discussion and hinge on its final outcome. Such was the case at the last meeting of the City-County Health Department in connection with two proposed public programs—fluoridation and non-hospital-related nursing service. In the case of both programs, there were those who favored them but opposed any role for government in the implementation of either.

This is a curious phenomenon that simply tends to deny society as a whole the fruits of mankind's advanced knowlege. The board did go on record, by a bare majority, in favor of fluoridation and for a study of public attitudes on the subject.

Some opposition to the action, however, was based on disagreement with any government role in a fluoridation program. It can be argued that fluoridation is available to anyone who wants it without adding it to the city's water supply. The argument is true but has some shortcomings. The important thing is that not many people will avail themselves of fluoridation unless it is added to the public water supply.

Thus, to eliminate the government from any role in the program is to eliminate the benefits of fluoridation to a vast number of people. That sacrifice is too much to pay for preservation of a philosophical political theory that has little real merit to begin with. The presence of fluorine in amounts such as would be added to the public water supply constitutes not even the possibility of danger to anyone. Millions of Americans are exposed to and take drugs and other things that have a far more potential danger than fluorine.

No human being can possibly drink enough fluoridated water to hurt him. Clearly, the fluoridation of the water supply is a public health service that is much more a public responsibility than a private one. This does not mean that it is a public responsibility with which all agree. Some do think it is not a public responsibility but this can be said of a multitude of things that are currently being done by the government. Maybe mosquito elimination on private property ought to be private business, too, in the eyes of some people but the Health Department takes a big hand in mosquito control. Unfortunately, we have to vote in Lincoln on the subject of fluoridation, an unusual requirement for a public health measure, but this requirement at least takes care of the claim of government interference. If fluoridation would get a favorable vote, it could hardly be called interference.

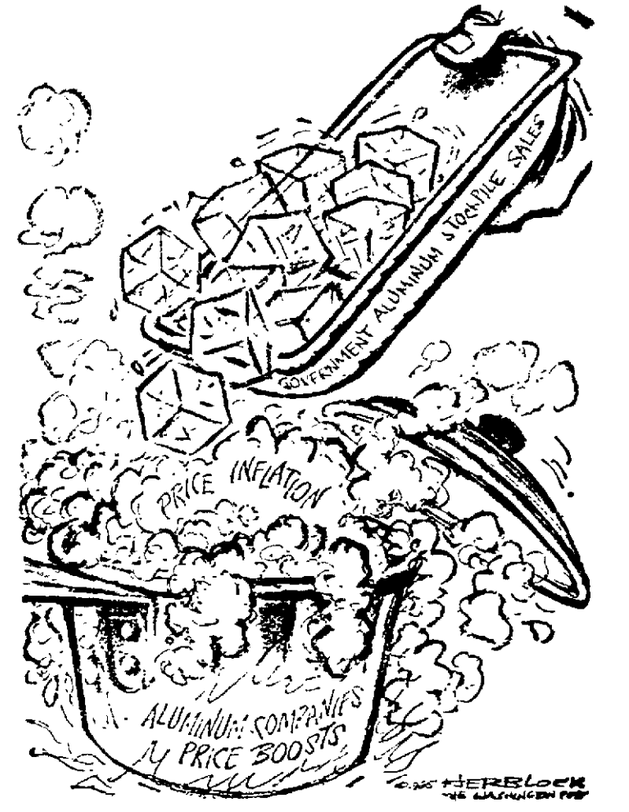
Strangely in some ways, Health Department Director Dr. G. R. Underwood who favors fluoridation argued against a visiting nurse service with his agency as sponsor. In the case of the nursing program, Dr. Underwood believes that it is medical treatment that should not be administered or sponsored by the government.

We can see the distinction Dr. Underwood draws between fluoridation as preventive medicine and nursing as medical treatment but we wonder if the distinction is worth making. If the nursing program is in demand, with which the experts seem to agree, and is not being provided, where is the threat to the people if the service is sponsored by the Health Department?

It seems to us that we would simply end up with people having a nursing service available to them that is not now available and the evil of that we fail to understand. Dr. Underwood suggests that the nursing service be sponsored by some benevolent non-profit organization. If this were done, there could be little argument with it but why would it be any better or worse that way than under sponsorship of the Health Department? Benevolent, non-profit organizations are but a step away themselves in principle, purpose and action from government.

Where Is The Evil?

With some anticipation, it might be said that this is no argument for dictatorship or socialism. It is not argued here that government can and should do everything any more than one would argue that all people like bananas because some people like them. But it is also faulty to argue that since there are some things government should not do, it should not do anything.



Some Like It Cooler

JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Molner: I read an article stating that of 32 patients hospitalized for heart attacks, nearly half thought their chest pains were caused by indigestion. How is the layman to know the difference between coronary attacks and indigestion? Should one contact his doctor for any and all belly disorders, which many of us experience from time to time?—A.V.H.

Molner

No, I don't think every pain of the innards warrants rushing to the doctor, but too many people fail to realize that a stomach-ache can be serious.

The study you cite is a convincing example, but there are others. Frequently routine electrocardiograms show a heart that has been damaged, yet the patient, surprised at the question, says no, he's never had any "heart trouble." Sometimes he can recall a particularly painful attack of "indigestion." Other times he can't. He just knows he's had pains or cramps from time to time. Well, some of them were, indeed, heart attacks, although not severe enough to knock him off his feet.

The pain from a coronary can strike in the pit of the stomach, the lower breast bone area or other parts of the chest, or in the back. Since it can be anywhere in such a fairly large area, you ask how a layman can tell when it means a heart attack.

Well, let me ask the question a different way: Suppose the pain ISN'T a heart attack? Does that mean you should just be a stoic and ignore it? No.

Such pain can be from ulcer, gall bladder disease, hiatal hernia, constipation, gastritis, or just plain gluttonous eating. And I say that a walloping good stomach-ache is reason enough to consult your doctor. Tests then can then be made. Once reassured as to the cause of your distress, you certainly don't have to trot to the doctor for each ache.

A pain means something wrong, maybe serious or maybe trivial, and it doesn't seem sensible to me to ignore a hard stomach-ache unless you can be sure, at the beginning, that it's really a heart attack.

In fact, the similiarity between some gall bladder attacks and some heart attacks is so great that dissertations have been written on how to distinguish between them.

This question about whether to consult a doctor about every stomach-ache doesn't come from people who have once had a recognized heart attack. They usually start worrying when they get any kind of twinge from the chin to the belly button. They go to the other extreme.

But everybody can't have a heart attack. Some people must settle for gallstones, hiatal hernia, gastritis or even less glamours ailments. Still, these diseases are worth curing, too.

Dear Dr. Molner: My 3-month-old son loves to sit in front of the TV and will laugh and coo as long as I let him watch it. Is there any danger in this?—T.Y.

There is no physical danger. Probably no other danger, either, as long as he doesn't get in the habit of demanding TV all the time.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please discuss plateaus that occur while dieting. Hitting them has been my bugaboo after losing 30 pounds. Sometimes I will go several weeks before an additional loss.—R.M.V.

Most reducing, probably all reducing, involves these plateaus. You don't lose weight consistently or in a straight line.

In the beginning, the losses, and plateaus, are close together and you don't notice the pattern. Later you do.

Why does this happen? Well, as you use up excess fat, you also lose the amount of water which is bound to the fat cells. During the process, water is produced by the "burning" or consumption of the fat. So you have additional water to get out of your system.

The "crash diet," which is supposed to shed so many pounds in a week or two, prohibits salt, since it tends to hold water. You lose water rapidly when you give up salt. Hence the quickie diet seems to work like a charm for a short time—until you've gotten rid of excess fluid in your system. After that it suddenly doesn't work as well, as besides, when you go back to normal eating, you go back to salt too, and you regain the large amount of water and the very little bit of real weight that you lost.

When you stick with a low-calorie diet, after a time you use up excess fat (or some of it, anyway). You don't have as much flesh that has to be nourished and kept warm. So, actually, you need a somewhat different caloric intake—not quite as much.

If you are still overweight, when you hit these plateaus you can keep on losing.

All of the foregoing factors are among the reasons why I take a dim view of "crash diets," but I have seen very excellent results from slow, sane and comfortable reducing programs.

Dear Dr. Molner: How should I take the long hairs off a mole on my little girl's neck?—MRS. C.B.

Clip them with scissors. Do NOT try to pull the hairs, shave them, or remove them chemically. Snipping them off is the only safe way. (Unless you have your doctor remove the mole.)

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Gratitude Is Not A Business Virtue

WASHINGTON — This is the story of an American, born in Russia, whose adopted country gave him such opportunities that he became many times a millionaire, but who is now howling his head off because the government that helped him wants to hold down the price of aluminum.

It's the story of Leo Harvey, head of Harvey Aluminum. With it goes the story of his family which also received great benefits from the United States of America.

Leo Harvey, an energetic Russian immigrant, began to make big money on munitions contracts during the last war. At that time the Navy investigated and stopped his brother, Herbert Harvey, from sneaking offsized 20-mm shells past Navy inspectors. But the Navy didn't prosecute. And the Harvey family went on to more government contracts and bigger profits. The family also went on into politics, cosying up to both political parties and contributing substantially to each.

On the Republican side, the Harveys hired Tom Dewey, twice GOP candidate for President. On the Democratic side, Mrs. Carmine Warschaw, daughter of Leo, has been Southern California chairman while her brother Lawrence was once candidate to be Democratic national committeeman from California.

In 1955, Tom Dewey sent his law associate, James F. Nickerson, to Washington to persuade Eisenhower officials to give the Harveys a heads-they-win, tails-the-government-loses contract. The Harveys got an agreement to sell aluminum to the government for five years, plus a certificate of tax amortization on their new plant, plus an agreement that a power line would be built from The Dalles, Ore., to Bonneville to bring in cheap government power.

The power line was to cost Uncle Sam $2,200,000. But at the last minute watchful Rep. Clarence Cannon, D-Mo., knocked the item out.

On top of this, the government dug a 15-foot barge river to the Harvey aluminum plant at the Dalles, a channel which chiefly benefits the Harveys.

At that time, the government had a staggering stockpile of 765,000 tons of aluminum. Uncle Sam needed more aluminum like he needed a hole in his head. Despite this, Tom Dewey's law firm had managed to persuade the government to buy 200,000 tons of aluminum from the Harveys to add to the stockpile.

New Patriotic Drive

As we will see demonstrated this Veterans Day, a new spirit of patriotism has swept our land. And it has come about in a rather peculiar way. It has been nurtured by forces whose objectives are something quite different.

The draft card burnings and anti-Viet Nam demonstrations have aroused the patriotic feelings that usually lie dormant in a great many people. Most people do not wear their patriotism on their sleeves and this is good as it would tend to indicate that the feeling is more deeply felt and sincere.

But those who are protesting present U.S. involvement in Asiatic affairs have accomplished just the opposite result. Rather than bringing forth any great clamor of protest against the Viet Nam war, the protests have aroused active expressions of support among people of all ages and in all walks of life.

As a result this Veterans Day today will find unusual emphasis on support of current U.S. policy in Asia as well as commemoration of those who have died in past wars. The significance of this as well as its practical meaning should not be missed.

The entire episode testifies to the validity of the kind of individual freedom we enjoy in this nation. Our country's critics have not been forcefully silenced but they have been answered in a loud voice by the great majority of our people. Once again, our freedom of speech and of assembly have been tested and not found wanting.

Red China's Problem

The nations which desire Red China as a member of the United Nations have come forward with a resolution which they dimly hope will solve the problem.

The resolution calls for Red China's membership but leaves the future of Nationalist China too cloudy to be defined. This has been one of the barriers. Red China has always demanded that Nationalist China be either sharply demoted or expelled from the United Nations, for representing nothing. This compromise resolution hopes to separate the issues between Red and Nationalist China, and membership, and thus hopes to pick up sufficient new votes to admit Red China.

It may pick up a few affirmative votes, but an early canvass of UN attitude says there will not be enough of them to win the day for Red China. It is to be hoped that it will end thus, for Red China has still failed to learn a fact. That fact is that it is hating the world for what it did to itself and in that state of mind it can be nothing but a trouble maker.

Hundreds of years ago China locked out the world. It withdrew to itself, refused new ideas, rejected communication and fell badly behind. It was too big a nation to die, but fell victim to the impact of progress. It not only did not accept change, it began blaming the progressive world for its low state. Now its efforts toward modernization have been distorted into a way of getting even. In short its revolution has only intensified its wrong way thinking.

The United Nations exists for the purpose of increasing communication between nations for the purpose of peace. Red China still wants no communication but revenge in the form of destruction of the more progressive societies. In view of that there is no basis for membership.

The Public Ethic

The State of Colorado has for some time maintained a pension system for its retired employes. The pensions are not large. They provide far too little to sustain the retired person. But when the sum is added to social security the beneficiary is slightly better off.

The last session of Congress allowed a 7 per cent increase in Social Security payments, largely to see the retired person through the added costs of the Medicare program.

The Colorado state administration seeing this extra money coming in promptly cut its own pension allowances by enough so that the state could absorb the seven percent Social Security increase. The result is that the retired state employe is receiving only what he always did and out of it he must pay the Medicare charges. The state of Colorado picked up a nice piece of change.

Thirty one other states have done the same thing, more or less.

This caused Sen. George Smathers, D. Fla., to complain. It is sufficient to cause all honest Americans to complain, too. This has been an abiding state custom in almost all public welfare departments and it is a form of dishonesty. The Congress did not vote the seven percent social security increase to benefit states, but to ease the problem of the retired individual.

Nebraska itself in times past has engaged in such questionable practices as transferring balances in its welfare program to the road building department and to other non-welfare divisions of government, generally without much publicity and without much complaint. Politically it is considered a good device to keep taxes down. But it is ethically wrong.

Space Tests Are Becoming Confusing

NEW YORK—The National Space Agency had a bad break when it could not go through with Gemini-6, the attempt to link a Gemini capsule with an Agena rocket that was to have been put in orbit one lap earlier than the Gemini's takeoff. The Agena committed spatial hara-kari, and the most important test of our astronaut project had to be scrubbed.

But rather than try-try again, which could not have been insurmountable, NASA swiftly and brightly announced that it was going forward with Gemini-7, whose chief program is to test the effect of 14 days of weightlessness. That's six more days than is planned for the trip to the moon and return sometime around the end of this decade.

Just how Gemini-7 applies to that project has never been made clear to this reporter, particularly since Astronauts Cooper and Conrad proved that man can function quite well over the eight days needed for the lunar round-trip.

Gemini-6, on which the critical understanding of positive rendezvous in space depended, was to be held at some indefinite later date. But, lo and behold, we suddenly were told that the two good men who had trained so hard for that flight, and were best able to carry it out—Schirra and Stafford--would be wasted on a much less useful mission. A game of tag with Gemini-7.

Provided, of course, that launching pad 19 could be repaired in time to permit Gemini-6 to take off after Gemini-7 before Gemini-7's two weeks were up.

But hold! NASA had new plans calculated to jazz up the double-header — which the Russians smoothly achieved three years ago. Stafford would get out of his seat in Gemini-6, "walk" over to Gemini-7 and visit for a spell. That, apparently, would force the Russians to their knees, whimpering for mercy.

Suddenly — signals off. No, said NASA, it had changed its mind about Stafford's visit. Not time enough to get him outfitted. Umbilical cords for extra vehicular activity between spacecraft don't grow on trees, you know. Dec. 8 was coming up very soon, and that's when Gemini-7 was going to go.

Just a moment. Make that Dec. 6, NASA amended. Got to get those boys back to earth, and shaved, showered and debriefed in time for their Christmas shopping. Right?

All in favor of buying a new Agena for Schirra and Stafford to chase in space and rendezvous with, raise their right hand. That's what they trained for. That's what the whole moon project is based upon. We still don't know whether we can pull it off, and the multi-million dollar ad lib of Dec. 6, if that's to be the date, simply won't adequately give us the answer

Warsaw Pact Seeks To Offset NATO

NEW YORK — Soviet and East European strategy to undermine NATO has never been so intensive, keyed to the massive propaganda outcry that the United States is plotting to arm West Germany with nuclear weapons. What is not talked about by the communist bloc is that missiles capable of carrying nuclear warheads have been distributed by Moscow to its allies in the Warsaw Pact, formed originally by the Soviet Union as a military counter-alliance to offset Bonn's entry into NATO. The East European members of the Warsaw Pact are, of course, East Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Bulgaria and Romania.

Naturally, there is no exact information on the categories of missiles and in what numbers they have been placed at the disposal of the East European armies. it is known that all of them have a tactical Soviet missile adaptable to delivering nuclear warheads at a range of about 175 miles. But Soviet military leaders have been careful to retain control by keeping warhead stocks from East European armies, and by keeping only Soviet generals in command of the higher-ranking posts of Warsaw Pact allies.

This is where the rub comes in, and in time we may hear more audibly about the growing demands of East European political and military leaders for more power of decision in command operations of the Warsaw Pact. The reason Moscow created the Warsaw Pact, other than countering West German partnership in NATO, was to force a grip on the East Europeans — to reinforce and cement the more questionable hold imposed on captive nations by the local communist party. But the current trend toward independent action in economic if not political fields by the East Europeans has begun to loosen communist party cohesion on the political front.

The commander-in-chief of the Warsaw Pact forces all around is Soviet Marshal Grechko, and they say he is one tough guy. An example of how he handles the East Europeans is availabie in a recent speech by him praising his allies but with this one-way clincher:

"The security of the socialist (communist) countries is guaranteed by the nuclear-missile might of the Soviet Union."

Since modern armies are cannon-fodder without nuclear weapons, none of the Warsaw Pact allies could possibly misunderstand Grechko's notice as to who is the boss. But this will hardly prevent the communist political leaders in East Europe—under heaviest pressure from their military powerhouses—from nagging Moscow for more say-so in operational activities of the Warsaw Pact. It is a matter of pride with them, and also of primary importance to them in their dealings on foreign policy with the Western powers. Yet the fear of this rising pressure to surrender nuclear control to some East Europeans may be the very cause of the fanatical outcry by Soviet propaganda against any form of joint nuclear control in NATO.

Military experts will tell you that fundamental reorganization of a complicated alliance like the NATO or the Warsaw Pact requires tremendous planning and procedure on every political, economic and military level. To avoid this, Moscow even in 1960 sought to placate the East European members of the Warsaw Pact by joining them in one huge military maneuver lasting two weeks.

Since 1963, Moscow has tried to kid the East European military leaders along even more by letting them have command of the joint maneuvers. At the same time, Soviet military weapons and equipment of latest design were provided more extensively to blend the Soviet and Warsaw Pact armies more evenly into the overall picture. But that has not eliminated the rumbles and restiveness of Warsaw Pact members over their lack of balanced say-so in decisions and top commands.

U.S. disarmament representative William C. Foster needled the Russians on the question of nuclear warhead control. He pointed out at a U.N. session that the Soviet Union ought to make clear who has control of missiles in East Europe capable of carrying the warheads. To date there has been no answer, and don't hold your breath for one.

All of it boils down to the same lesson we have learned about Soviet disarmament proposals in U.N. over the past 20 years. Each seeks to delude us into stripping ourselves of defensive power without adequate safeguards. That is what Moscow wants with NATO: deprive it of nuclear weapons so that the Warsaw Pact crowd can have them from the Soviet Union when the time is at hand to knock out the U.S. with nuclear weapons.

That sacrifice is too much to pay for preservation of a philosophical political theory that has little real merit to begin with. The presence of fluorine in amounts such as would be added to the public water supply constitutes not even the possibility of danger to anyone. Millions of Americans are exposed to and take drugs and other things that have a far more potential danger than fluorine.

No human being can possibly drink enough fluoridated water to hurt him. Clearly, the fluoridation of the water supply is a public health service that is much more a public responsibility than a private one. This does not mean that it is a public responsibility with which all agree. Some do think it is not a public responsibility but this can be said of a multitude of things that are currently being done by the government. Maybe mosquito elimination on private property ought to be private business, too, in the eyes of some people but the Health Department takes a big hand in mosquito control. Unfortunately, we have to vote in Lincoln on the subject of fluoridation, an unusual requirement for a public health measure, but this requirement at least takes care of the claim of government interference. If fluoridation would get a favorable vote, it could hardly be called interference.

Strangely in some ways, Health Department Director Dr. G. R. Underwood who favors fluoridation argued against a visiting nurse service with his agency as sponsor. In the case of the nursing program, Dr. Underwood believes that it is medical treatment that should not be administered or sponsored by the government.

We can see the distinction Dr. Underwood draws between fluoridation as preventive medicine and nursing as medical treatment but we wonder if the distinction is worth making. If the nursing program is in demand, with which the experts seem to agree, and is not being provided, where is the threat to the people if the service is sponsored by the Health Department?

It seems to us that we would simply end up with people having a nursing service available to them that is not now available and the evil of that we fail to understand. Dr. Underwood suggests that the nursing service be sponsored by some benevolent non-profit organization. If this were done, there could be little argument with it but why would it be any better or worse that way than under sponsorship of the Health Department? Benevolent, non-profit organizations are but a step away themselves in principle, purpose and action from government.

Where Is The Evil?

With some anticipation, it might be said that this is no argument for dictatorship or socialism. It is not argued here that government can and should do everything any more than one would argue that all people like bananas because some people like them. But it is also faulty to argue that since there are some things government should not do, it should not do anything.

New Patriotic Drive

As we will see demonstrated this Veterans Day, a new spirit of patriotism has swept our land. And it has come about in a rather peculiar way. It has been nurtured by forces whose objectives are something quite different.

The draft card burnings and anti-Viet Nam demonstrations have aroused the patriotic feelings that usually lie dormant in a great many people. Most people do not wear their patriotism on their sleeves and this is good as it would tend to indicate that the feeling is more deeply felt and sincere.

But those who are protesting present U.S. involvement in Asiatic affairs have accomplished just the opposite result. Rather than bringing forth any great clamor of protest against the Viet Nam war, the protests have aroused active expressions of support among people of all ages and in all walks of life.

As a result this Veterans Day today will find unusual emphasis on support of current U.S. policy in Asia as well as commemoration of those who have died in past wars. The significance of this as well as its practical meaning should not be missed.

The entire episode testifies to the validity of the kind of individual freedom we enjoy in this nation. Our country's critics have not been forcefully silenced but they have been answered in a loud voice by the great majority of our people. Once again, our freedom of speech and of assembly have been tested and not found wanting.

Red China's Problem

The nations which desire Red China as a member of the United Nations have come forward with a resolution which they dimly hope will solve the problem.

The resolution calls for Red China's membership but leaves the future of Nationalist China too cloudy to be defined. This has been one of the barriers. Red China has always demanded that Nationalist China be either sharply demoted or expelled from the United Nations, for representing nothing. This compromise resolution hopes to separate the issues between Red and Nationalist China, and membership, and thus hopes to pick up sufficient new votes to admit Red China.

It may pick up a few affirmative votes, but an early canvass of UN attitude says there will not be enough of them to win the day for Red China. It is to be hoped that it will end thus, for Red China has still failed to learn a fact. That fact is that it is hating the world for what it did to itself and in that state of mind it can be nothing but a trouble maker.

Hundreds of years ago China locked out the world. It withdrew to itself, refused new ideas, rejected communication and fell badly behind. It was too big a nation to die, but fell victim to the impact of progress. It not only did not accept change, it began blaming the progressive world for its low state. Now its efforts toward modernization have been distorted into a way of getting even. In short its revolution has only intensified its wrong way thinking.

The United Nations exists for the purpose of increasing communication between nations for the purpose of peace. Red China still wants no communication but revenge in the form of destruction of the more progressive societies. In view of that there is no basis for membership.

The Public Ethic

The State of Colorado has for some time maintained a pension system for its retired employes. The pensions are not large. They provide far too little to sustain the retired person. But when the sum is added to social security the beneficiary is slightly better off.

The last session of Congress allowed a 7 per cent increase in Social Security payments, largely to see the retired person through the added costs of the Medicare program.

The Colorado state administration seeing this extra money coming in promptly cut its own pension allowances by enough so that the state could absorb the seven percent Social Security increase. The result is that the retired state employe is receiving only what he always did and out of it he must pay the Medicare charges. The state of Colorado picked up a nice piece of change.

Thirty one other states have done the same thing, more or less.

This caused Sen. George Smathers, D. Fla., to complain. It is sufficient to cause all honest Americans to complain, too. This has been an abiding state custom in almost all public welfare departments and it is a form of dishonesty. The Congress did not vote the seven percent social security increase to benefit states, but to ease the problem of the retired individual.

Nebraska itself in times past has engaged in such questionable practices as transferring balances in its welfare program to the road building department and to other non-welfare divisions of government, generally without much publicity and without much complaint. Politically it is considered a good device to keep taxes down. But it is ethically wrong.

Gratitude Is Not A Business Virtue

WASHINGTON — This is the story of an American, born in Russia, whose adopted country gave him such opportunities that he became many times a millionaire, but who is now howling his head off because the government that helped him wants to hold down the price of aluminum.

It's the story of Leo Harvey, head of Harvey Aluminum. With it goes the story of his family which also received great benefits from the United States of America.

Leo Harvey, an energetic Russian immigrant, began to make big money on munitions contracts during the last war. At that time the Navy investigated and stopped his brother, Herbert Harvey, from sneaking offsized 20-mm shells past Navy inspectors. But the Navy didn't prosecute. And the Harvey family went on to more government contracts and bigger profits. The family also went on into politics, cosying up to both political parties and contributing substantially to each.

On the Republican side, the Harveys hired Tom Dewey, twice GOP candidate for President. On the Democratic side, Mrs. Carmine Warschaw, daughter of Leo, has been Southern California chairman while her brother Lawrence was once candidate to be Democratic national committeeman from California.

However, it was under the Republicans that the Harveys got some of their juiciest help from the generous government which gave them a haven.

In 1955, Tom Dewey sent his law associate, James F. Nickerson, to Washington to persuade Eisenhower officials to give the Harveys a heads-they-win, tails-the-government-loses contract. The Harveys got an agreement to sell aluminum to the government for five years, plus a certificate of tax amortization on their new plant, plus an agreement that a power line would be built from The Dalles, Ore., to Bonneville to bring in cheap government power.

The power line was to cost Uncle Sam $2,200,000. But at the last minute watchful Rep. Clarence Cannon, D-Mo., knocked the item out.

On top of this, the government dug a 15-foot barge river to the Harvey aluminum plant at the Dalles, a channel which chiefly benefits the Harveys.

At that time, the government had a staggering stockpile of 765,000 tons of aluminum. Uncle Sam needed more aluminum like he needed a hole in his head. Despite this, Tom Dewey's law firm had managed to persuade the government to buy 200,000 tons of aluminum from the Harveys to add to the stockpile.

Space Tests Are Becoming Confusing

NEW YORK—The National Space Agency had a bad break when it could not go through with Gemini-6, the attempt to link a Gemini capsule with an Agena rocket that was to have been put in orbit one lap earlier than the Gemini's takeoff. The Agena committed spatial hara-kari, and the most important test of our astronaut project had to be scrubbed.

But rather than try-try again, which could not have been insurmountable, NASA swiftly and brightly announced that it was going forward with Gemini-7, whose chief program is to test the effect of 14 days of weightlessness. That's six more days than is planned for the trip to the moon and return sometime around the end of this decade.

Just how Gemini-7 applies to that project has never been made clear to this reporter, particularly since Astronauts Cooper and Conrad proved that man can function quite well over the eight days needed for the lunar round-trip.

Gemini-6, on which the critical understanding of positive rendezvous in space depended, was to be held at some indefinite later date. But, lo and behold, we suddenly were told that the two good men who had trained so hard for that flight, and were best able to carry it out—Schirra and Stafford—would be wasted on a much less useful mission: A game of tag with Gemini-7.

Provided, of course, that launching pad 19 could be repaired in time to permit Gemini-6 to take off after Gemini-7 before Gemini-7's two weeks were up.

But hold! NASA had new plans calculated to jazz up the double-header — which the Russians smoothly achieved three years ago. Stafford would get out of his seat in Gemini-6, "walk" over to Gemini-7 and visit for a spell. That, apparently, would force the Russians to their knees, whimpering for mercy.

Suddenly — signals off. No, said NASA, it had changed its mind about Stafford's visit. Not time enough to get him outfitted. Umbilical cords for extra vehicular activity between spacecraft don't grow on trees, you know. Dec. 8 was coming up very soon, and that's when Gemini-7 was going to go.

Just a moment. Make that Dec. 6, NASA amended. Got to get those boys back to earth, and shaved, showered and debriefed in time for their Christmas shopping. Right?

All in favor of buying a new Agena for Schirra and Stafford to chase in space and rendezvous with, raise their right hand. That's what they trained for. That's what the whole moon project is based upon. We still don't know whether we can pull it off, and the multi-million dollar ad lib of Dec. 6, if that's to be the date, simply won't adequately give us the answer.

JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Molner: I read an article stating that of 32 patients hospitalized for heart attacks, nearly half thought their chest pains were caused by indigestion. How is the layman to know the difference between coronary attacks and indigestion? Should one contact his doctor for any and all belly disorders, which many of us experience from time to time?—A.V.H.

Molner

No, I don't think every pain of the innards warrants rushing to the doctor, but too many people fail to realize that a stomach-ache can be serious.

The study you cite is a convincing example, but there are others. Frequently routine electrocardiograms show a heart that has been damaged, yet the patient, surprised at the question, says no, he's never had any "heart trouble." Sometimes he can recall a particularly painful attack of "indigestion." Other times he can't. He just knows he's had pains or cramps from time to time. Well, some of them were, indeed, heart attacks, although not severe enough to knock him off his feet.

The pain from a coronary can strike in the pit of the stomach, the lower breast bone area or other parts of the chest, or in the back. Since it can be anywhere in such a fairly large area, you ask how a layman can tell when it means a heart attack.

Well, let me ask the question a different way: Suppose the pain ISN'T a heart attack? Does that mean you should just be a stoic and ignore it? No.

Such pain can be from ulcer, gall bladder disease, hiatal hernia, constipation, gastritis, or just plain gluttonous eating. And I say that a walloping good stomach-ache is reason enough to consult your doctor. Tests then can then be made. Once reassured as to the cause of your distress, you certainly don't have to trot to the doctor for each ache.

A pain means something wrong, maybe serious or maybe trivial, and it doesn't seem sensible to me to ignore a hard stomach-ache unless you can be sure, at the beginning, that it's really a heart attack.

In fact, the similiarity between some gall bladder attacks and some heart attacks is so great that dissertations have been written on how to distinguish between them.

This question about whether to consult a doctor about every stomach-ache doesn't come from people who have once had a recognized heart attack. They usually start worrying when they get any kind of twinge from the chin to the belly button. They go to the other extreme.

But everybody can't have a heart attack. Some people must settle for gallstones, hiatal hernia, gastritis or even less glamours ailments. Still, these diseases are worth curing, too.

Dear Dr. Molner: My 3-month-old son loves to sit in front of the TV and will laugh and coo as long as I let him watch it. Is there any danger in this?—T.Y.

There is no physical danger. Probably no other danger, either, as long as he doesn't get in the habit of demanding TV all the time.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please discuss plateaus that occur while dieting. Hitting them has been my bugaboo after losing 30 pounds. Sometimes I will go several weeks before an additional loss.—R.M.V.

Most reducing, probably all reducing, involves these plateaus. You don't lose weight consistently or in a straight line.

In the beginning, the losses, and plateaus, are close together and you don't notice the pattern. Later you do.

Why does this happen? Well, as you use up excess fat, you also lose the amount of water which is bound to the fat cells. During the process, water is produced by the "burning" or consumption of the fat. So you have additional water to get out of your system.

The "crash diet," which is supposed to shed so many pounds in a week or two, prohibits salt, since it tends to hold water. You lose water rapidly when you give up salt. Hence the quickie diet seems to work like a charm for a short time—until you've gotten rid of excess fluid in your system. After that it suddenly doesn't work as well, as besides, when you go back to normal eating, you go back to salt too, and you regain the large amount of water and the very little bit of real weight that you lost.

When you stick with a low-calorie diet, after a time you use up excess fat (or some of it, anyway). You don't have as much flesh that has to be nourished and kept warm. So, actually, you need a somewhat different caloric intake—not quite as much.

If you are still overweight, when you hit these plateaus you can keep on losing.

All of the foregoing factors are among the reasons why I take a dim view of "crash diets," but I have seen very excellent results from slow, sane and comfortable reducing programs.

Dear Dr. Molner: How should I take the long hairs off a mole on my little girl's neck?—MRS. C.B.

Clip them with scissors. Do NOT try to pull the hairs, shave them, or remove them chemically. Snipping them off is the only safe way. (Unless you have your doctor remove the mole.)

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

PIERRE J. HUSS

Warsaw Pact Seeks To Offset NATO

NEW YORK — Soviet and East European strategy to undermine NATO has never been so intensive, keyed to the massive propaganda outcry that the United States is plotting to arm West Germany with nuclear weapons. What is not talked about by the communist bloc is that missiles capable of carrying nuclear warheads have been distributed by Moscow to its allies in the Warsaw Pact, formed originally by the Soviet Union as a military counter-alliance to offset Bonn's entry into NATO. The East European members of the Warsaw Pact are, of course, East Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Bulgaria and Romania.

Naturally, there is no exact information on the categories of missiles and in what numbers they have been placed at the disposal of the East European armies. it is known that all of them have a tactical Soviet missile adaptable to delivering nuclear warheads at a range of about 175 miles. But Soviet military leaders have been careful to retain control by keeping warhead stocks from East European armies, and by keeping only Soviet generals in command of the higher-ranking posts of Warsaw Pact allies.

This is where the rub comes in, and in time we may hear more audibly about the growing demands of East European political and military leaders for more power of decision in command operations of the Warsaw Pact. The reason Moscow created the Warsaw Pact, other than countering West German partnership in NATO, was to force a grip on the East Europeans — to reinforce and cement the more questionable hold imposed on captive nations by the local communist party. But the current trend toward independent action in economic if not political fields by the East Europeans has begun to loosen communist party cohesion on the political front.

The commander-in-chief of the Warsaw Pact forces all around is Soviet Marshal Grechko, and they say he is one tough guy. An example of how he handles the East Europeans is available in a recent speech by him praising his allies but with this one-way clincher:

"The security of the socialist (communist) countries is guaranteed by the nuclear-missile might of the Soviet Union."

Since modern armies are cannon-fodder without nuclear weapons, none of the Warsaw Pact allies could possibly misunderstand Grechko's notice as to who is the boss. But this will hardly prevent the communist political leaders in East Europe—under heaviest pressure from their military powerhouses—from nagging Moscow for more say-so in operational activities of the Warsaw Pact. It is a matter of pride with them, and also of primary importance to them in their dealings on foreign policy with the Western powers. Yet the fear of this rising pressure to surrender nuclear control to some East Europeans may be the very cause of the fanatical outcry by Soviet propaganda against any form of joint nuclear control in NATO.

Military experts will tell you that fundamental reorganization of a complicated alliance like the NATO or the Warsaw Pact requires tremendous planning and procedure on every political, economic and military level. To avoid this, Moscow even in 1960 sought to placate the East European members of the Warsaw Pact by joining them in one huge military maneuver lasting two weeks.

Since 1963, Moscow has tried to kid the East European military leaders along even more by letting them have command of the joint maneuvers. At the same time, Soviet military weapons and equipment of latest design were provided more extensively to blend the Soviet and Warsaw Pact armies more evenly into the overall picture. But that has not eliminated the rumbles and restiveness of Warsaw Pact members over their lack of balanced say-so in decisions and top commands.

U.S. disarmament representative William C. Foster needled the Russians on the question of nuclear warhead control. He pointed out at a U.N. session that the Soviet Union ought to make clear who has control of missiles in East Europe capable of carrying the warheads. To date there has been no answer, and don't hold your breath for one.

All of it boils down to the same lesson we have learned about Soviet disarmament proposals in U.N. over the past 20 years. Each seeks to delude us into stripping ourselves of defensive power without adequate safeguards. That is what Moscow wants with NATO: deprive it of nuclear weapons so that the Warsaw Pact crowd can have them from the Soviet Union when the time is at hand to knock out the U.S. with nuclear weapons.

My column extolling the miracle of jet travel has sparked echoing paeans. Many mature readers join me in saying that because they can remember horse-and-buggy days, the find heightened awe in modern aeronautical achievements.

"Along with you," writes Robert J. Brodbeck of Cincinnati, Ohio, "I think of jet travel as the greatest technological advance of our time. Recently my wife and I had the good fortune to make a trip to Europe. We used jet both ways.

"I shall never forget the exhilaration of the flight from New York to Lisbon. More frequent and fatigued passengers slept, but I remained wide awake through the brief night and savored every moment of this my first jet flight over the Atlantic. "As we neared Portugal and dropped out of the skies, Lisbon was a city jeweled with yellow and blue-green lights in the grey dawn. It was the most beautiful sight I had ever seen.

Many elders insist that age prevents them from learning as readily as they once could. But science does not support them. In a recent issue of Geriatrics, gerontologist Alfred Schwartz was asked, "Can a 70-year-old man in reasonably good health learn as readily as a 17-year-old boy?"

"Indeed he can," answered Dr. Schwartz, dean of the college of education at Drake University, Des Moines, Iowa, "provided he wants to and provided he's in the habit of learning. The fact that some older people today are not active intellectually is no reflection on their ability to learn. There is ample proof that learning ability does not automatically decline with age."

The doctor describes several research studies which leave one with the inescapable and happy conclusion that learning ability is not related to chronological age. But he concludes, "We have the serious problem of motivation in the elderly. If they really want to learn something, they can. But all too often their desire is casual and they aren't interested in putting forth the necessary effort."

Social Security gets sweeter with the passing years. Miss Ida Fuller, a former legal secretary, received the nation's first Social Security check way back in 1937 when she retired at 65. Her first monthly check was for $20.54.

She hasn't worked since, but over the years there have been gradual increases which have hiked payments to recipients.

Now that the latest seven percent increase has gone into effect Miss Fuller's Social Security benefit has tripled in value and is now paying her $60.90 per month.

Surprising medical facts about tension indigestion

Tests at a famous medical center show how one special formula beats even prescription-type products in fighting excess stomach acid, immediate cause of tension indigestion. This special formula is not an expensive drug, not difficult to get, but found in today's TUMS®. Stomach specialists know TUMS is no mere candy mint. In tests, today's TUMS fought stomach acid faster, more completely than even a prescription-type antacid costing six times as much. It is the medicine for tension indigestion. TUMS.

Industry Gets 4 Pollution Unit Spots

By RICHARD BUDIG
Star Staff Writer

Industry in Lincoln will hold four of nine available seats on the Mayor's Air Pollution Advisory Committee when that committee is officially formed by ordinance.

That decision was reached Wednesday by an advisory committee designed to set up the machinery for implementation of the air pollution committee.

George A. Lincoln, a member of the present committee, was instrumental in gaining the four seats for industry.

He took exception to the portion of the proposed ordinance, now under study, which gives the mayor broad powers in appointing air pollution committee membership.

To Establish Liaison

In support of Lincoln's suggestion, Committeeman John Mason pointed out that one of the purposes of the air pollution committee is to establish liaison between industry and the city.

Occupational requirements for holders of the remaining five seats were not specified. No action was taken on a recommendation by Committeewoman Mrs. Helen Boosalis that a doctor be a required member of the new committee.

Another administrative change was adopted which will remove the air pollution officer from the chairmanship of the committee. He will serve as its secretary and will be a non-voting member.

Subject To Approval

All persons appointed to the committee will be subject to approval by the City Council, it was further decided.

At least two, and possibly three, other ex-officio members will also be appointed and will serve as resource persons. One will be from the University of Nebraska, one from the city legal department and possibly one from the city planning department.

The committee held up further action on the proposed ordinance pending clarification of two clauses which deal with duties of the air pollution officer.

In other action, the committee tabled a proposal by Mayor Dean Petersen that high school students be invited to serve with the present group.

Next meeting of the committee was set for Jan. 3.

Group Will Seek Better Home For Lincoln Playhouse

The problem of providing new theater premises for the Lincoln Community Playhouse will be tackled by a newly organized Lincoln Community Playhouse Foundation, it was announced Wednesday.

The present home of the Lincoln Community Playhouse at 1802 L has limitations in staging area, working space and audience comfort which have long been recognized by Playhouse leaders and patrons.

Robert Magee, the first president of the organization, said that the first action by the new organization will be to set up a structure of committees to begin work on site selection, structural planning and fund raising.

"Possible cooperation with other cultural interest organizations in this building development program is also very much on our minds at the outset," Magee said.

Others elected as officers are James Hewitt, vice president; Mrs. J. Edmunds Miller, treasurer; and Tom Carroll, secretary.

Repair To Bridge Will Top $10,000

Nebraska City (UPI)—The City Council has been informed repair of the First Street bridge, broken down Sept. 27 by a heavy truck, will cost more than $10,000.

An insurance firm is expected to make up most of the cost.

Industry Gets 4 Pollution Unit Spots

By RICHARD BUDIG
Star Staff Writer

Industry in Lincoln will hold four of nine available seats on the Mayor's Air Pollution Advisory Committee when that committee is officially formed by ordinance.

That decision was reached Wednesday by an advisory committee designed to set up the machinery for implementation of the air pollution committee.

George A. Lincoln, a member of the present committee, was instrumental in gaining the four seats for industry.

He took exception to the portion of the proposed ordinance, now under study, which gives the mayor broad powers in appointing air pollution committee membership.

To Establish Liaison

In support of Lincoln's suggestion, Committeeman John Mason pointed out that one of the purposes of the air pollution committee is to establish liaison between industry and the city.

Occupational requirements for holders of the remaining five seats were not specified. No action was taken on a recommendation by Committeewoman Mrs. Helen Boosalis that a doctor be a required member of the new committee.

Another administrative change was adopted which will remove the air pollution officer from the chairmanship of the committee. He will serve as its secretary and will be a non-voting member.

Subject To Approval

All persons appointed to the committee will be subject to approval by the City Council, it was further decided.

At least two, and possibly three, other ex-officio members will also be appointed and will serve as resource persons. One will be from the University of Nebraska, one from the city legal department and possibly one from the city planning department.

The committee held up further action on the proposed ordinance pending clarification of two clauses which deal with duties of the air pollution officer.

In other action, the committee tabled a proposal by Mayor Dean Petersen that high school students be invited to serve with the present group.

Next meeting of the committee was set for Jan. 3.

Group Will Seek Better Home For Lincoln Playhouse

The problem of providing new theater premises for the Lincoln Community Playhouse will be tackled by a newly organized Lincoln Community Playhouse Foundation, it was announced Wednesday.

The present home of the Lincoln Community Playhouse at 1802 L has limitations in staging area, working space and audience comfort which have long been recognized by Playhouse leaders and patrons.

Robert Magee, the first president of the organization, said that the first action by the new organization will be to set up a structure of committees to begin work on site selection, structural planning and fund raising.

"Possible cooperation with other cultural interest organizations in this building development program is also very much on our minds at the outset," Magee said.

Others elected as officers are James Hewitt, vice president; Mrs. J. Edmunds Miller, treasurer; and Tom Carroll, secretary.

'Bonus' Must Start In '69 For Judges

Supplementary salaries for all district judges in Douglas and Lancaster Counties must start in January, 1969, the State Justice Department held Wednesday.

The last Legislature passed a bill requiring Douglas and Lancaster Counties to pay each of their district judges a supplemental salary of $1,500 annually.

The Justice Department said the salary "bonus" will be available to all Douglas and Lancaster district judges in 1969, even those who are serving terms which will not expire until 1971.

The department noted that the State Constitution prohibits an increase in the salary of any public officer during his term of office.

"However, the constitution also provides an exception in the case of officers elected or appointed to a court, board or commission having more than one member and the terms of one or more members commence and end at different times," the department said. "In such a case the compensation of all members of such court, board or commission may be increased or diminished at the beginning of the full term of any member thereof."

Tapes Survive New Attacks In Omaha Trial

Omaha (AP) — The controversial tape recordings offered by the prosecution in support of bribery charges against three Omahans survived another round of attacks in District Court Wednesday.

When the state concluded the playing of the 10th reel of taped conversation which it alleges took place in the hotel room of John B. Coleman, Chicago investor, it rested its case and the jury was excused while defense attorneys entered motions of objection.

District Judge John Murphy overruled the motions.

The motions called for rejection of evidence and for directed verdicts of acquittal for former city councilmen Stephen T. Novak and Ernest A. Adams and real estate man Ronald Abboud, all charged with soliciting bribes.

'Shakedown Attempt'

Coleman alleged this was part of a shakedown attempt made when he sought rezoning of a West Omaha tract for an apartment house project. The three men are being tried jointly.

Objections contended that much of the prosecution testimony must be classed as hearsay under the law and the tape conversations were illegally obtained.

James Green, attorney for Novak, contended that there was no proof that all of the equipment—tiny wireless microphones allegedly broadcasting to the next room where receivers and recorders were located — was capable of doing the job ascribed to it or that the equipment had in fact done this job.

Didn't See Them

He noted that witnesses had testified they did not see persons enter or leave Coleman's room and commented: "You can't see through walls."

Ephraim Marks, attorney for Abboud, contended that Coleman was in violation of the federal anti-racketeering law which deals with use of an interstate facility for the purpose of offering or receiving bribes and that electronic evesdropping is in violation of the federal Constitution.

He cited an instance where the courts held that a microphone similar to the ones allegedly employed in obtaining the information used in this case had been illegal when placed in a public telephone booth and that the courts have held a hotel room falls under the right of privacy statutes.

'Bonus' Must Start In '69 For Judges

Supplementary salaries for all district judges in Douglas and Lancaster Counties must start in January 1969, the State Justice Department held Wednesday.

The last Legislature passed a bill requiring Douglas and Lancaster Counties to pay each of their district judges a supplemental salary of $1 500 annually

The Justice Department said the salary "bonus" will be available to all Douglas and Lancaster district judges in 1969, even those who are serving terms which will not expire until 1971.

The department noted that the State Constitution prohibits an increase in the salary of any public officer during his term of office

However, the constitution also provides an exception in the case of officers elected or appointed to a court, board or commission having more than one member and the terms of one or more members commence and end at different times" the department said In such a case the compensation of all members of such court board or commission may be increased or diminished at the beginning of the full term of any member thereof"

Viet Nam War Takes New Twist

By RONALD I. DEUTSCH

Saigon, Viet Nam (AP) —The Vietnamese war has taken a dramatic twist: The Viet Cong are no longer running from the Americans.

The communists displayed their new boldness in three engagements in the past week. The enemy paid dearly in lives for the choice to fight rather than flee, but they took toll among the Americans.

It is no longer a lightweight sparring match—the two sides are slugging it out like heavyweights.

In the past seven days, more U.S. soldiers have died in the tropical jungles of South Viet Nam than in any week of battle since the Korean War.

Adopt New Tactics

Why the sudden change?.

The view here is that the Viet Cong have adopted new tactics to cope with U.S. ground offensives. Instead of melting into their jungle sanctuaries in the face of American combat troops, they are lying in wait just as they do against the South Vietnamese.

It happened Monday in War Zone D 30 miles notheast of Saigon after a long and brutal fight, U.S. paratroopers withdrew and the Viet Cong survivors were again alone in a jungle they have always roamed at will. But 400 or so of the Red guerrillas were dead, against American losses described as moderate.

It happened five days ago in the central highlands near the battle-scarred special forces camp at Plei Me, which the Viet Cong besieged for a week last month. One company of U.S. cavalrymen searching for the enemy found all they bargained for and another that went to its relief was hit from the front and rear in the jungle a few miles from the Cambodian border.

Chose To Fight

In both cases, the Viet Cong chose to fight the relief force in a major test of strength rather than pull out soon after making contact.

A week ago a company of American cavalrymen ambushed a column of North Vietnamese regulars in the highlands. They scythed down the center of the column with Claymore mines, grenades and automatic weapons, but the enemy retaliated with four furious counterattacks. The Red detachment broke it off only under a battering by American ground and air reinforcements.

Many U.S. soldiers who were under the impression they were better armed than the enemy are now thinking twice. The communists are showing they have as many automatic weapons as the Americans, perhaps even more—and the ammunition to sustain a long fight.

At the same time, by engaging Americans troops in close combat, the communists are hampering effective use of the United States, unchallenged artillery and air power.

Leaders Threatened

Belfast, Northern Ireland (UPI) — The homes of Northern Ireland's premier and other ministers have been placed under armed police guard to protect them against "serious threats of terrorist action," the government announced.

Tapes Survive New Attacks In Omaha Trial

Omaha (AP) — The controversial tape recordings offered by the prosecution in support of bribery charges against three Omahans survived another round of attacks in District Court Wednesday.

When the state concluded the playing of the 10th reel of taped conversation which it alleges took place in the hotel room of John B. Coleman, Chicago investor, it rested its case and the jury was excused while defense attorneys entered motions of objection.

District Judge John Murphy overruled the motions.

The motions called for rejection of evidence and for directed verdicts of acquittal for former city councilmen Stephen T. Novak and Ernest A. Adams and real estate man Ronald Abboud, all charged with soliciting bribes.

'Shakedown Attempt'

Coleman alleged this was part of a shakedown attempt made when he sought rezoning of a West Omaha tract for an apartment house project. The three men are being tried jointly.

Objections contended that much of the prosecution testimony must be classed as hearsay under the law and the tape conversations were illegally obtained.

James Green, attorney for Novak, contended that there was no proof that all of the equipment—tiny wireless microphones allegedly broadcasting to the next room where receivers and recorders were located — was capable of doing the job ascribed to it or that the equipment had in fact done this job.

Didn't See Them

He noted that witnesses had testified they did not see persons enter or leave Coleman's room and commented: "You can't see through walls."

Ephraim Marks, attorney for Abboud, contended that Coleman was in violation of the federal anti-racketeering law which deals with use of an interstate facility for the purpose of offering or receiving bribes and that electronic eavesdropping is in violation of the federal Constitution.

He cited an instance where the courts held that a microphone similar to the ones allegedly employed in obtaining the information used in this case had been illegal when placed in a public telephone booth and that the courts have held a hotel room falls under the right of privacy statutes.

NASON ON EDUCATION:

Cure For Needless Errors Eyed

By LESLIE J. NASON

Why does a pupil who makes A's on spelling tests misspell those same words in writing themes?

Why does a pupil who demonstrates his knowledge of grammar on an English test fail to follow these same rules in his own compositions?

Why does a pupil who knows his number combinations make so many careless errors in the solving of problems?

While these conditions generally are considered a lack of transfer of learning from one situation to another, this is not necessarily so. It is more a matter of crowding out the possibility of using the new learning in a different situation. The student's very concentration results in so-called careless errors.

Consider for example the good speller who misspells even simple words in his written work.

Attention Divided

When this boy takes a spelling test, his attention is centered on spelling. When he is writing compositions, however, he is no longer primarily concerned with spelling, but his attention now centers on the ideas that he is conveying through written work. He may well be a hard-working lad, intent upon doing a good job on the task at hand.

If he were less careful in his thinking about the subject matter, he would probably make fewer errors in spelling and grammar.

Control of handwriting requires so much thought that the control of spelling and grammar are crowded even further into the background. If the pupil lacks skill in handwriting, it demands so much of his attention that the tendency toward careless errors is compounded.

Handling Problem

I suggest a three-pronged approach to the problem.

1. A pupil, after doing his written exercise in his usual fashion, should edit the work. If it is an arithmetic exercise, he should look for the simple errors.

In rereading compositions with his attention centered on spelling, a pupil can locate and correct errors. When reading with only grammar in mind he can correct his own composition as easily as he can pass the grammar test.

2. The use of scratch paper notes on what he proposes to say in a composition may free his mind sufficiently to eliminate or at least minimize the number of errors.

3. The student who makes careless errors in composition usually lacks skill in handwriting. He should practice until he writes easily. On the surface, this would appear to call for a lot of hard work. Parents can, however, give their children reasonable assurance that if these practices are continued, their ability to write will improve so that soon their first copies will be satisfactory.

The habit of carefully rechecking work as well as the student's attitude toward perfection in his endeavors are things that transfer automatically from one study to another. Thus, the student who follows these procedures will gain both from the elimination of the immediate errors and the work habits developed.

School Can Be Established Before Receipt Of Land Title

The State Justice Department said Wednesday the State Board of Education can establish a state-supported trade school at the Sioux Ordnance Depot near Sidney prior to receipt of title to the land from the federal government.

The Justice Department said the school can be established under a "work use permit" with the federal government until permanent title to the land is secured, probably late next year.

The department said the "work use permit" must contain an assurance that the land "shall be conveyed to the state of Nebraska at no cost to the state."

State Education Commissioner Floyd Miller asked for a legal opinion on the state board's authority to proceed with establishment of the school, to be called the Western Nebraska Vocational and Technical Schoool.

Dr. Miller said state and federal officials will proceed immediately to draft a "work use permit" but he said it appears the school will not begin classes until next October at the earliest, although a start in January or February had originally been hoped for.

State Education Department officials have already developed a preliminary plan of operation for the school and have put a "freeze" on land, buildings and equipment at the depot, which is scheduled to be deactivated by June 30, 1967.

The last Legislature authorized establishment of the school and appropriated $150,000 to make it operational.

This spread is brand new.

Until now, when you wanted a peanut butter and bacon sandwich you had to fry the bacon until it crisped, drain off the fat, blot up excess drippings with paper towels, crumble the bacon in a mixing bowl, and add a generous amount of Skippy® Peanut Butter. Then you got a large spoon and stirred until it was well mixed and reasonably easy to spread.

Skippy has changed all that. New Skippy Peanut Butter with Smoky Crisps has taken the work and the mess and the cleaning-up out of making a peanut butter and bacon sandwich.

New Skippy Peanut Butter with Smoky Crisps has all the crunch, crackle and old-fashioned smokehouse flavor of bacon. But instead of bacon, Skippy has created little crisps of vegetable protein with remarkably true bacon flavor. These, mixed with Skippy, make a tasty spread—perfect for snacks, canapes, and sandwiches, even on meatless days.

So, for all you people who like the taste of a bacon and Skippy sandwich, try them together in new Skippy Peanut Butter with Smoky Crisps.

Try some and Skippy will send you 50 cents in cash!

We're so sure you'll like the exciting taste of new Skippy Peanut Butter with Smoky Crisps that we'll send you 50 cents in cash for just buying a jar—any size!

Simply send the label from a jar of Skippy Peanut Butter with Smoky Crisps, and the coupon provided here to Skippy Smoky Crisps, Box 742, Brooklyn, New York 11202. By return mail, Skippy will send you 50 cents in cash.

A week ago a company of American cavalrymen ambushed a column of North Vietnamese regulars in the highlands. They scythed down the center of the column with Claymore mines, grenades and automatic weapons, but the enemy retaliated with four furious counterattacks. The Red detachment broke it off only under a battering by American ground and air reinforcements.

Many U.S. soldiers who were under the impression they were better armed than the enemy are now thinking twice. The communists are showing they have as many automatic weapons as the Americans, perhaps even more—and the ammunition to sustain a long fight.

At the same time, by engaging Americans troops in close combat, the communists are hampering effective use of the United States, unchallenged artillery and air power.

NASON ON EDUCATION:

Cure For Needless Errors Eyed

By LESLIE J. NASON

Why does a pupil who makes A's on spelling tests misspell those same words in writing themes?

Why does a pupil who demonstrates his knowledge of grammar on an English test fail to follow these same rules in his own compositions?

Why does a pupil who knows his number combinations make so many careless errors in the solving of problems?

While these conditions generally are considered a lack of transfer of learning from one situation to another, this is not necessarily so. It is more a matter of crowding out the possibility of using the new learning in a different situation. The student's very concentration results in so-called careless errors.

Consider for example the good speller who misspells even simple words in his written work.

Attention Divided

When this boy takes a spelling test, his attention is centered on spelling. When he is writing compositions, however, he is no longer primarily concerned with spelling, but his attention now centers on the ideas that he is conveying through written work. He may well be a hard-working lad, intent upon doing a good job on the task at hand.

If he were less careful in his thinking about the subject matter, he would probably make fewer errors in spelling and grammar.

Control of handwriting requires so much thought that the control of spelling and grammar are crowded even further into the background. If the pupil lacks skill in handwriting, it demands so much of his attention that the tendency toward careless errors is compounded.

Handling Problem

I suggest a three-pronged approach to the problem.

1. A pupil, after doing his written exercise in his usual fashion, should edit the work. If it is an arithmetic exercise, he should look for the simple errors.

In rereading compositions with his attention centered on spelling, a pupil can locate and correct errors. When reading with only grammar in mind he can correct his own composition as easily as he can pass the grammar test.

2. The use of scratch paper notes on what he proposes to say in a composition may free his mind sufficiently to eliminate or at least minimize the number of errors.

3. The student who makes careless errors in composition usually lacks skill in handwriting. He should practice until he writes easily. On the surface, this would appear to call for a lot of hard work. Parents can, however, give their children reasonable assurance that if these practices are continued, their ability to write will improve so that soon their first copies will be satisfactory.

The habit of carefully rechecking work as well as the student's attitude toward perfection in his endeavors are things that transfer automatically from one study to another. Thus, the student who follows these procedures will gain both from the elimination of the immediate errors and the work habits developed.

Pakistan Minister To Speak Friday

Iftikhar Ali, minister of the Embassy of Pakistan in the United States, will speak at a Nebraska Wesleyan University convocation Friday.

School Can Be Established Before Receipt Of Land Title

The State Justice Department said Wednesday the State Board of Education can establish a state-supported trade school at the Sioux Ordnance Depot near Sidney prior to receipt of title to the land from the federal government.

The Justice Department said the school can be established under a "work use permit" with the federal government until permanent title to the land is secured, probably late next year.

The department said the "work use permit" must contain an assurance that the land "shall be conveyed to the state of Nebraska at no cost to the state."

State Education Commissioner Floyd Miller asked for a legal opinion on the state board's authority to proceed with establishment of the school, to be called the Western Nebraska Vocational and Technical Schoool.

Dr. Miller said state and federal officials will proceed immediately to draft a "work use permit" but he said it appears the school will not begin classes until next October at the earliest, although a start in January or February had originally been hoped for.

State Education Department officials have already developed a preliminary plan of operation for the school and have put a "freeze" on land, buildings and equipment at the depot, which is scheduled to be deactivated by June 30, 1967.

The last Legislature authorized establishment of the school and appropriated $150,000 to make it operational.

This spread is brand new.

Until now, when you wanted a peanut butter and bacon sandwich you had to fry the bacon until it crisped, drain off the fat, blot up excess drippings with paper towels, crumble the bacon in a mixing bowl, and add a generous amount of Skippy® Peanut Butter. Then you got a large spoon and stirred until it was well mixed and reasonably easy to spread.

Skippy has changed all that. New Skippy Peanut Butter with Smoky Crisps has taken the work and the mess and the cleaning-up out of making a peanut butter and bacon sandwich.

New Skippy Peanut Butter with Smoky Crisps has all the crunch, crackle and old-fashioned smokehouse flavor of bacon. But instead of bacon, Skippy has created little crisps of vegetable protein with remarkably true bacon flavor. These, mixed with Skippy, make a tasty spread—perfect for snacks, canapes, and sandwiches, even on meatless days.

So, for all you people who like the taste of a bacon and Skippy sandwich, try them together in new Skippy Peanut Butter with Smoky Crisps.

Try some and Skippy will send you 50 cents in cash!

We're so sure you'll like the exciting taste of new Skippy Peanut Butter with Smoky Crisps that we'll send you 50 cents in cash for just buying a jar—any size!

Simply send the label from a jar of Skippy Peanut Butter with Smoky Crisps, and the coupon provided here to Skippy Smoky Crisps, Box 742, Brooklyn, New York 11202. By return mail, Skippy will send you 50 cents in cash.

This offer is limited to one cash return per family.

This is Veterans Day. If you do not know a veteran to do something for, call me up. I will tell you some stories that will make your hair stand on end. I have been practicing on the kids and am getting better each year.

"Then the captain said, 'I can't send you up in that flaming coffin, son. Besides you've got your putters wound on backwards."

Fortunately, there's a lot of World War I pictures on TV. So they know what I'm talking about. World War II comes on after they are in bed. Too bad.

I was going to burn my draft card today — very "in" to burn draft cards. But (after getting the bills, I decided to burn a credit card.

I said at breakfast: "I'm going to burn a credit card. Publicly."

She said: "I never heard anything so foolish. What for?"

I said: "It's a kind of protest against capitalist imperialism. What are all these credit card people? Capitalists naturally. That's what I'm protesting."

She said: "Are you sure it isn't dishonest or something? Like those college boys with the draft cards?"

I said: "That's the whole point of protests. You don't worry about the legal end. It's a matter of conscience."

She said: "It's against the fire laws to use the incinerator after 12 noon. Try not to get ashes on your suit. And pass me the women's section, will you?"

☆ ☆ ☆

I gave her the society pages and said: "You don't use the incinerator for a protest. First you call the FBI and tell them what you're going to do.Then you call the newspapers to send photographers."

She said, "Good heavens, who do you think is getting married again?"

I said: "Then we call a mass meeting. With microphones. I tell the crowd I am a patriotic American. But the Diner's Club nudge is inhuman. At least this month is a killer. Who's getting married?"

"This one," she said. "You remember we met her once. This is her fifth husband."

"It's Veterans Day," I said. "Her husbands should form a Last Man club. With a bottle and all that. I think I'll burn it at noon."

I said: "The credit card! The card! I want to hold a big protest meeting and burn my Diner's Club card."

She said: "If you do that, how will you eat lunch?"

I said: "Well, maybe I'll burn the revolving credit plan card."

She said: "Wait until I charge two new couches and a lamp. You know we can't pay cash for them. And the revolving credit plan is so handy. Why don't you burn the American Express card?"

I said: "Are you out of your ever-loving mind? How could I charge my hotel bills?"

She said: "Why don't you look in the box where you keep all that old war stuff. Maybe you could find your old draft card and burn that. I'm sure the government wouldn't mind."

I said: "Are you trying to make me feel bad? How do you know but what the bugle may sound again? They may want an experienced veteran."

"Ha, ha," she said.

☆ ☆ ☆

Work Plan Okayed For Douglas Co.

Gov. Frank Morrison Wednesday announced that federal officials have approved a $648,000 work experience training program to be administered by the Douglas County Welfare Department.

The program will provide basic education, on-the-job training, necessary living and medical costs and child care expenses for 120 trainees, the governor said. The trainees in the program will be taken from the Douglas County Welfare rolls, he noted.

Gov. Morrison said the Omaha public schools, area vocational schools, Douglas County Hospital, Douglas County Health Department, State Labor Office and private and public employers will take part in the program, which was formulated by Douglas County interests.

The program will be completly financed with federal funds under the Economic Opportunity Act, he said.

He said the program will officially commence Nov. 15, although planning for implementation of the program has already begun.

The grant will extend to Oct. 31, 1966.

This is Veterans Day. If you do not know a veteran to do something for, call me up. I will tell you some stories that will make your hair stand on end. I have been practicing on the kids and am getting better each year.

"Then the captain said, 'I can't send you up in that flaming coffin, son. Besides you've got your putters wound on backwards."

Fortunately, there's a lot of World War I pictures on TV. So they know what I'm talking about. World War II comes on after they are in bed. Too bad.

I was going to burn my draft card today — very "in" to burn draft cards. But (after getting the bills, I decided to burn a credit card.

I said at breakfast: "I'm going to burn a credit card. Publicly."

She said: "I never heard anything so foolish. What for?"

I said: "It's a kind of protest against capitalist imperialism. What are all these credit card people? Capitalists naturally. That's what I'm protesting."

She said: "Are you sure it isn't dishonest or something? Like those college boys with the draft cards?"

I said: "That's the whole point of protests. You don't worry about the legal end. It's a matter of conscience."

She said: "It's against the fire laws to use the incinerator after 12 noon. Try not to get ashes on your suit. And pass me the women's section, will you?"

☆ ☆ ☆

I gave her the society pages and said: "You don't use the incinerator for a protest. First you call the FBI and tell them what you're going to do.Then you call the newspapers to send photographers."

She said, "Good heavens, who do you think is getting married again?"

I said: "Then we call a mass meeting. With microphones. I tell the crowd I am a patriotic American. But the Diner's Club nudge is inhuman. At least this month is a killer. Who's getting married?"

"This one," she said. "You remember we met her once. This is her fifth husband."

"It's Veterans Day," I said. "Her husbands should form a Last Man club. With a bottle and all that. I think I'll burn it at noon."

I said: "The credit card! The card! I want to hold a big protest meeting and burn my Diner's Club card."

She said: "If you do that, how will you eat lunch?"

I said: "Well, maybe I'll burn the revolving credit plan card."

She said: "Wait until I charge two new couches and a lamp. You know we can't pay cash for them. And the revolving credit plan is so handy. Why don't you burn the American Express card?"

I said: "Are you out of your ever-loving mind? How could I charge my hotel bills?"

She said: "Why don't you look in the box where you keep all that old war stuff. Maybe you could find your old draft card and burn that. I'm sure the government wouldn't mind."

I said: "Are you trying to make me feel bad? How do you know but what the bugle may sound again? They may want an experienced veteran."

"Ha, ha," she said.

☆ ☆ ☆

$1,000 Grant Awarded To NU Student

Fluent

Stewart, the son of Floyd Fluent of Hartington, is majoring in mechanical engineering and ranks high in his class academically (with a 7.3 average — 9.0 is perfect). He is a graduate of Coleridge High School.

The scholarship includes an additional $375 unrestricted grant-in-aid to the university.

In announcing the scholarship and grant, D. R. Remigio, manager of Goodyear's Lincoln plant, said that the University of Nebraska has been, for many years, a source of skilled personnel for business and industry. Recipients of the scholarships are selected by the schools participating in the program.

Goodyear's aid-to-education program for the 1965-66 academic year provides, in addition to scholarships and fellowships to selected institutions of higher learning, some $164,700 in unrestricted grants-in-aid, including direct grants to many state foundations of independent colleges.

$1,000 Grant Awarded To NU Student

Fluent

Stewart, the son of Floyd Fluent of Hartington, is majoring in mechanical engineering and ranks high in his class academically (with a 7.3 average — 9.0 is perfect). He is a graduate of Coleridge High School.

The scholarship includes an additional $375 unrestricted grant-in-aid to the university.

In announcing the scholarship and grant, D. R. Remigio, manager of Goodyear's Lincoln plant, said that the University of Nebraska has been, for many years, a source of skilled personnel for business and industry. Recipients of the scholarships are selected by the schools participating in the program.

Goodyear's aid-to-education program for the 1965-66 academic year provides, in addition to scholarships and fellowships to selected institutions of higher learning, some $164,700 in unrestricted grants-in-aid, including direct grants to many state foundations of independent colleges.

3 Elected Co-Chairmen Of Centennial Group

A Lincoln television executive, an Ogallala attorney and a Beemer farmer-feeder Wednesday were elected to two-year terms as co-chairmen of the Nebraska Centennial Commission.

They are A. James Ebel, general manager and vice president of KOLN-TV, Gerald McGinley of Ogallala and William Galbraith of Beemer, who has served as chairman of the commission for the past year.

The three will rotate as presiding officer by the commission for eight-month periods under a new set-up approved by the group.

Elected vice chairmen for one-year terms were Mitchell rancher Earl R. Cherry and former Omaha Mayor John R. Rosenblatt, now a public relations executive in Omaha.

Mrs. Kay Blackstone, a Red Cloud housewife, was re-elected secretary for a one-year term.

The commission selected the University of Nebraska Press as the publisher of a centennial picture history book. The University Press will submit a proposed contract at the next commission meeting.

The State Historical Society is preparing a manuscript for the book. Some 15,000 copies in both hard-cover and paperback forms are scheduled to go on sale in November, 1966.

Charter For Bank At Firth Draws No Opposition

No one opposed Gerald W. TeKolste's application for a state banking charter to establish a bank at Firth in southeast Lancaster County during a public hearing before State Banking Director Henry Ley Wednesday.

Ley took the application under advisement.

TeKolste, who now operates the Firth Cooperative Credit Association, said the proposed bank would have a total capital structure of $90,000.

3 Elected Co-Chairmen Of Centennial Group

A Lincoln television executive, an Ogallala attorney and a Beemer farmer-feeder Wednesday were elected to two-year terms as co-chairmen of the Nebraska Centennial Commission.

They are A. James Ebel, general manager and vice president of KOLN-TV, Gerald McGinley of Ogallala and William Galbraith of Beemer, who has served as chairman of the commission for the past year.

The three will rotate as presiding officer by the commission for eight-month periods under a new set-up approved by the group.

Elected vice chairmen for one-year terms were Mitchell rancher Earl R. Cherry and former Omaha Mayor John R. Rosenblatt, now a public relations executive in Omaha.

Mrs. Kay Blackstone, a Red Cloud housewife, was re-elected secretary for a one-year term.

The commission selected the University of Nebraska Press as the publisher of a centennial picture history book. The University Press will submit a proposed contract at the next commission meeting.

The State Historical Society is preparing a manuscript for the book. Some 15,000 copies in both hard-cover and paperback forms are scheduled to go on sale in November, 1966.

Charter For Bank At Firth Draws No Opposition

No one opposed Gerald W. TeKolste's application for a state banking charter to establish a bank at Firth in southeast Lancaster County during a public hearing before State Banking Director Henry Ley Wednesday.

Ley took the application under advisement.

TeKolste, who now operates the Firth Cooperative Credit Association, said the proposed bank would have a total capital structure of $90,000.

Hearing To Be Jan. 3rd On Districting Challenge

The Nebraska Supreme Court Wednesday set Jan. 3 for hearing Scottsbluff Sen. Terry Carpenter's challenge of the second reapportionment bill passed during the 1965 Legislature.

Carpenter's attorneys must file their written brief of arguments with the court by Dec. 6 and the State Justice Department by Dec. 22.

Decision in the case probably won't come until late January or early February after the early January hearing.

The court announced the timetable for the Carpenter case after the Justice Department learned the U.S. Supreme Court has deferred a decision on the first reapportionment bill passed during the last session.

The department appealed to the U.S. high court after a Federal District Court panel decision invalidating the first bill. The dispute over the validity of the first bill would become moot if the Nebraska Supreme Court upholds the second measure.

Carpenter challenged the constitutionality of the second bill principally because the reapportionment legislation (LB926) calls for the crossing of county lines in realigning the legislative districts.

Legislators resorted to crossing county lines after the federal court panel said the first reapportionment bill, LB628, failed to meet the "one-man, one-vote" criterion of the U.S. Supreme Court.

Keenan Added To Road Deaths

The State Accident Records Bureau has added the name of Herbert Keenan of Benkelman to the list of 1965 Nebraska traffic fatalities.

Mr. Keenan, 61, died Oct. 17 from injuries suffered seven days earlier when the pickup truck in which he was riding collided with a car on a Dundy County road six miles east of Benkelman.

COED
to be late winter bride

There will be considerable interest along Greek Letter Row in the announcement made this morning by Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Quaring of St. Paul, of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Janell Rogene, to Terry L. Francl of Omaha, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Francl of Palmer.

The wedding is planned for February.

Miss Quaring is a senior at the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority, of which she is serving as president, and Omicron Nu, Home Economics honorary.

Mr. Francl is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and is a member of Alpha Gamma Rho, and now is associated with an Omaha business firm.

TALK

The talk these days is Thanksgiving —and the game—and the guests—and the parties. That doesn't mean that a goodly crowd won't gather in the stadium at Stillwater, Okla., come Saturday afternoon—But people are looking ahead and doing things in the way of party planning.

Thanksgiving eve (Wednesday, Nov. 24) won't be without festivities if we may quote what we've written in our little black book.

That is the evening that Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schorr, III, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sidles, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Howey will be joined by Mr. and Mrs. Dan Cook of St. Louis, Mo., as party hosts and hostesses.

The affair will pay courtesy to Miss Laura Armour and Brad Cook, both of Chicago, who will be the Thanksgiving weekend guests of Mr. Cook's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George B. Cook.

As you already know, the wedding of Miss Armour and Mr. Cook is planned for January.

A moment ago we mentioned Stillwater, Okla., and Saturday's game with Oklahoma State—The football activity may be away from home but the members of the Merrimyx Dancing Club are having their own activity when they have a 'Go Big Red' party on Saturday evening in the ballroom at Hotel Cornhusker. The dinner dance is the first of the season for this dancing club, and the arrangements are in the hands of a committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Yaussi, chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. M. Duane Holman, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jacobs, Mr. and Mrs. Clark McCabe and Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Leese.

We understand that the club will greet three couples who have returned to the Merrimyx fold after an absence — They are Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gates, Dr. and Mrs. James A. Green and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wylie. Brand new members to be presented Saturday evening include Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Coatney, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hilyard, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lutz and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne West.

Guest couples at the party will be Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Sulc, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Dean, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Rumbaugh and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dickinson.

* * *

It's a Bavarian party for the Starlighters Club when they dine and dance at The Knolls on Saturday evening. The committee includes Mr. and Mrs. Duane Olson, chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Atess, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bodensteiner and Mr. and Mrs. James Ferris.

Clubs To Hear Guest Speakers

Chi Omega Alumnae and their guests will attend a special program, "A Panel of American Women," which the alumnae group is sponsoring at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, at Bethany Christian Church, 6620 Aylesworth.

Mrs. John Gourlay will moderate the panel, and the speakers, who will tell of their own experiences of American life for women with varying backgrounds, will include Mrs. Donald Williams, Mrs. Maurice Pomerantz, Mrs. William Griffin and Mrs. Phil York.

Mrs. Karl Loerch is chairman of the hostess committee and will be assisted by Mrs. James Angelcyk, Miss Joeline Beck, Mrs. E. L. Beranek, Mrs. Lane Birkel, Mrs. Ed Coffey, Mrs. Ronald Doan, Mrs. John Olsen, Mrs. Charles Piper, Mrs. Allan Quik and Mrs. Theodore Roesler.

The members of the Alpha Tau Omega Auxiliary will hear a guest speaker on Friday when they will meet for a 1 o'clock luncheon at the home of Mrs. Roy Randolph, 2940 Williams.

Addressing the group on the ATO building project will be Don Falk.

Meeting for luncheon on Saturday will be the Lincoln PEO Round Table. In charge of reservations for the 12:30 o'clock luncheon, to be held at the YWCA, is Mrs. Edward H. Smith.

University of Nebraska football coach, Bob Devaney, will be the program speaker next Tuesday evening at the annual father-student dinner at Irving Junior High School, to be held at 6:15 o'clock in the school cafeteria.

Presiding as master of ceremonies will be Don Bryant, University of Nebraska sports information director.

NEWS of the busy suburban areas

Social activities are tapering off this week and giving the members of the various suburban social sets a chance to stay in where it's warm and to rest up before the busy Thanksgiving vacation arrives.

Many families are planning to motor to the east, west, south and north to join their relatives on "Turkey Day."

So what is the social news about this morning?—Well we can tell you that two Park Manor families are planning to head for Stillwater, Okla., on Friday to view the football game between Nebraska and Oklahoma State—and there also is a variety of get-togethers that deserve mentioning.

PARK MANOR

But, we would like to begin this mornings report by announcing a newcomer to the Park Manor area and to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Strasheim.

The arrival date is marked down on Sunday Nov. 7 and the very young chap who made his appearance on that date was Mr. and Mrs. Strasheim's new son, John David. John David is just four days old today and on Friday he will be making a public appearance when Mr. and Mrs. Strasheim bring their new baby home for the approval and attention of the relatives which include John David's three brothers, Tommy, Jimmy and Steve.

Now on to the news of those going to Stillwater, Okla. for the Saturday game.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Leland plan to depart for their weekend destination early Friday morning. The couple's first stop will be in Ponca City, Okla. where they will be the house guests of Mr. Leland's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Leland during their three day stay. On Saturday, the foursome will be on its way from Ponca City to the game in Stillwater.

We mentioned a second family involved in the exodus to Stillwater and so now we will tell you that Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Whitcomb will also be leaving Friday morning so that they will be right "on time" for the football game. Mr. and Mrs. Whitcomb will be accompanied to the game by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Holmquist.

Checking back on news of the past weekend, we discovered that Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Gruhn had house guests. Mr. Gruhn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walt Gruhn came from Ogallala for a Friday-to-Sunday visit.

NORTHEAST HEIGHTS

Mrs. Floyd E. Barnett will entertain the Women's Group from the Vine Congregational Church this afternoon. Mrs. Barnett will hostess a dessert luncheon after which there will be a business meeting.

PERSHING HEIGHTS

The dedication of a new community school in Homer attracted the Gerri' V. Tyler, Jr. family last Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Tyler and their children, Gerry, David, Steven, John and Mark, were guests of Mr. Tyler's brother-in-law, Robert Gaston, who is the superintendent of schools in the Homer area.

Girl Scout Appointment

Mrs. Clifford Hardin, membership-nominating chairman for the Jay-Husker Council of Girl Scouts, has announced the appointment of Mrs. Winton Buckley to the council's board of directors.

Mrs. Buckley will serve as troop organizer chairman.

ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Do you think parents should PAY their children for getting good grades? Somehow I can't seem to convince myself that it's right, but other parents do it and get results, so maybe I'm wrong. Our son needs some sort of motivation to do better in school. Richard has as much intelligence as any of his classmates who make the honor roll, yet he barely gets by and it doesn't seem to bother him. My husband thinks we should offer him money as an incentive. Richard is only 14, but he's saving for a car. Do you think $50 for every "A" he gets and $25 for every "B" is too much?

RICHARD'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I think the whole idea of PAYING a child for the privilege of getting an education is "too much." First, Richard needs to learn the value of KNOWING things, not HAVING things. It's all right to "reward" a child for a job well done—but "bribing" him for doing what he should do for nothing makes no sense at all. Mediocrity, when one can do better, calls for dicipline.

DEAR ABBY: I work, and live alone. I get very tired of eating out all the time, as I frequently invite a friend or two over to enjoy a home-cooked dinner with me. I appreciate having someone offer to help me with the dishes afterwards, but how would you like it if your guest took the dish towel out of your hands and said, "Get out. I'm doing the work!".

There are two people who push me out of my own kitchen this way and it irritates me. Should I just go in the other room and sit down? Or should I say, "This is MY home, and if you want to HELP me, fine; otherwise YOU go in the other room. I'm staying.

IRRITATED

DEAR IRRITATED: Your "helpers" mean well. They are just a trifle heavy-handed. Tell them if they want to "help" they're welcome, but YOU are in charge of K.P. in your own kitchen. And put some authority in your voice.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for a year. Before I was married I was a pretty sad case. (I guess you'd say I was "promiscuous.") My husband knew about this because I was going with him at the time. When we were first married, I lied to him a few times about where I was going. I really didn't cheat on him those times, but I was going with some girls I knew he didn't like. I've been 100 per cent true to my husband since our marriage and always will be. Well, he found out I lied to him, and now he won't trust me.

Yesterday our telephone rang three times. It was the same person calling a wrong number. My husband was sure it was a man for me and I was trying to cover up, so he said, "Why don't you call your boy friend back and tell him I'll be gone all day tomorrow?" Abby, I love my husband and want him to believe me, but how can I when he's so unreasonable and suspicious?

NOT TRUSTED

DEAR NOT: You earned your husband's distrust and now you will have to win back his confidence. This can be accomplished in only one way—performance. If you consistently tread the straight and narrow, in time your "bad" reputation will fade, and a better one will replace it. It can be done, but you must avoid not only evil, but the appearance of it.

Hearing To Be Jan. 3rd On Districting Challenge

The Nebraska Supreme Court Wednesday set Jan. 3 for hearing Scottsbluff Sen. Terry Carpenter's challenge of the second reapportionment bill passed during the 1965 Legislature.

Carpenter's attorneys must file their written brief of arguments with the court by Dec. 6 and the State Justice Department by Dec. 22.

Decision in the case probably won't come until late January or early February after the early January hearing.

The court announced the timetable for the Carpenter case after the Justice Department learned the U.S. Supreme Court has deferred a decision on the first reapportionment bill passed during the last session.

The department appealed to the U.S. high court after a Federal District Court panel decision invalidating the first bill. The dispute over the validity of the first bill would become moot if the Nebraska Supreme Court upholds the second measure.

Carpenter challenged the constitutionality of the second bill principally because the reapportionment legislation LB926 calls for the crossing of county lines in realigning the legislative districts.

Legislators resorted to crossing county lines after the federal court panel said the first reapportionment bill, LB628, failed to meet the one-man, one-vote criterion of the U.S. Supreme Court.

Keenan Added To Road Deaths

The State Accident Records Bureau has added the name of Herbert Keenan of Benkelman to the list of 1965 Nebraska traffic fatalities.

Mr. Keenan, 61, died Oct. 17 from injuries suffered seven days earlier when the pickup truck in which he was riding collided with a car on a Dundy County road six miles east of Benkelman.

COED
to be late winter bride

There will be considerable interest along Greek Letter Row in the announcement made this morning by Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Quaring of St. Paul, of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Janell Rogene, to Terry L. Francl of Omaha, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Francl of Palmer.

The wedding is planned for February.

Miss Quaring is a senior at the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority, of which she is serving as president, and Omicron Nu, Home Economics honorary.

Mr. Francl is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and is a member of Alpha Gamma Rho, and now is associated with an Omaha business firm.

TALK

The talk these days is Thanksgiving —and the game—and the guests—and the parties. That doesn't mean that a goodly crowd won't gather in the stadium at Stillwater, Okla., come Saturday afternoon—But people are looking ahead and doing things in the way of party planning

Thanksgiving eve (Wednesday, Nov. 24) won't be without festivities if we may quote what we've written in our little black book.

That is the evening that Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schorr, III. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sidles, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Howey will be joined by Mr. and Mrs. Dan Cook of St. Louis, Mo., as party hosts and hostesses.

The affair will pay courtesy to Miss Laura Armour and Brad Cook, both of Chicago, who will be the Thanksgiving weekend guests of Mr. Cook's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George B. Cook.

As you already know, the wedding of Miss Armour and Mr. Cook is planned for January.

A moment ago we mentioned Stillwater, Okla., and Saturday's game with Oklahoma State—The football activity may be away from home but the members of the Merrimyx Dancing Club are having their own activity when they have a 'Go Big Red' party on Saturday evening in the ballroom at Hotel Cornhusker. The dinner dance is the first of the season for this dancing club, and the arrangements are in the hands of a committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Yaussi, chairmen: Mr. and Mrs. M. Duane Holman, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jacobs, Mr. and Mrs. Clark McCabe and Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Leese.

We understand that the club will greet three couples who have returned to the Merrimyx fold after an absence — They are Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gates, Dr. and Mrs. James A. Green and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wylie. Brand new members to be presented Saturday evening include Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Coatney, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hilyard, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lutz and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne West.

Guest couples at the party will be Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Sulc, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Dean, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Rumbaugh and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dickinson.

It's a Bavarian party for the Starlighters Club when they dine and dance at The Knolls on Saturday evening. The committee includes Mr. and Mrs. Duane Olson, chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Atess, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bodensteiner and Mr. and Mrs. James Ferris.

Clubs To Hear Guest Speakers

Chi Omega Alumnae and their guests will attend a special program, "A Panel of American Women," which the alumnae group is sponsoring at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, at Bethany Christian Church, 6620 Aylesworth.

Mrs. John Gourlay will moderate the panel, and the speakers, who will tell of their own experiences of American life for women with varying backgrounds, will include Mrs. Donald Williams, Mrs. Maurice Pomerantz, Mrs. William Griffin and Mrs. Phil York.

Mrs. Karl Loerch is chairman of the hostess committee and will be assisted by Mrs. James Angelcyk, Miss Joelne Beck, Mrs. E. L. Beranek, Mrs. Lane Birkel, Mrs. Ed Coffey, Mrs. Ronald Doan, Mrs. John Olsen, Mrs. Charles Piper, Mrs. Allan Quik and Mrs. Theodore Roesler.

The members of the Alpha Tau Omega Auxiliary will hear a guest speaker on Friday when they will meet for a 1 o'clock luncheon at the home of Mrs. Roy Randolph, 2940 Williams.

Addressing the group on the ATO building project will be Don Falk.

Meeting for luncheon on Saturday will be the Lincoln PEO Round Table. In charge of reservations for the 12:30 o'clock luncheon, to be held at the YWCA, is Mrs. Edward H. Smith.

University of Nebraska football coach, Bob Devaney, will be the program speaker next Tuesday evening at the annual father-student dinner at Irving Junior High School, to be held at 6:15 o'clock in the school cafeteria.

Presiding as master of ceremonies will be Don Bryant, University of Nebraska sports information director.

Opening lead — eight of spades.

In choosing an opening lead against notrump, a defender should be guided more by what is best for the partnership than by just the indications of his own hand.

Defense is basically a partnership project and not the exclusive province of either defender. A joint effort will nearly always produce better results than a solo venture.

West decided against a club lead because there was too much danger that declarer might gain a trick by the lead. With hearts and diamonds ruled out by the bidding, West led a spade in an effort to hit partner's long suit. Both opponents had failed to bid spades and it seemed likely that East would have considerable length in that suit.

Declarer played low from dummy, losing the finesse to the king. East had no trouble reading the spade as a short suit lead and saw no future in continuing spades. He therefore shifted to a club, dummy's weakness.

South covered the eight with the queen, which lost to the king. West then returned the seven, taken by declarer with the ten.

South had no choice now except to lead hearts, but when he played the king, East took the ace, returned a club, and West's A-9 gobbled up the J-5 to defeat declarer one trick.

The defense was indeed excellent, and East - West were entitled to A for effort, but the fact is that South brought about his own downfall. He should not have taken the spade finesse on the opening lead.

All he had to do was take the ace of spades at trick one and then force out the ace of hearts. This would have assured him of nine tricks regardless of how the adverse cards were divided.

The principle that applies is a relatively simple one. You don't take a finesse just because it's there. A far more important consideration is making the contract, and that take precedence over everything else.

NEWS

of the busy suburban areas

Social activities are tapering off this week and giving the members of the various suburban social sets a chance to stay in where it's warm and to rest up before the busy Thanksgiving vacation arrives

Many families are planning to motor to the east, west, south and north to join their relatives on "Turkey Day."

So what is the social news about this morning?—Well we can tell you that two Park Manor families are planning to head for Stillwater, Okla., on Friday to view the football game between Nebraska and Oklahoma State—and there also is a variety of get-togethers that deserve mentioning.

PARK MANOR

But, we would like to begin this mornings report by announcing a newcomer to the Park Manor area and to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Strasheim.

The arrival date is marked down on Sunday Nov. 7 and the very young chap who made his appearance on that date was Mr. and Mrs. Strasheim's new son, John David. John David is just four days old today and on Friday he will be making a public appearance when Mr. and Mrs. Strasheim bring their new baby home for the approval and attention of the relatives which include John David's three brothers, Tommy, Jimmy and Steve.

Now on to the news of those going to Stillwater, Okla. for the Saturday game.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Leland plan to depart for their weekend destination early Friday morning. The couple's first stop will be in Ponca City, Okla. where they will be the house guests of Mr. Leland's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Leland during their three day stay. On Saturday the foursome will be on its way from Ponca City to the game in Stillwater.

We mentioned a second family involved in the exodus to Stillwater and so now we will tell you that Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Whitcomb will also be leaving Friday morning so that they will be right "on time" for the football game. Mr. and Mrs. Whitcomb will be accompanied to the game by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Holmquist.

Checking back on news of the past weekend, we discovered that Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Gruhn had house guests Mr. Gruhn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walt Gruhn came from Ogallala for a Friday-to-Sunday visit.

NORTHEAST HEIGHTS

Mrs. Floyd E. Barnett will entertain the Women's Group from the Vine Congregational Church this afternoon. Mrs. Barnett will hostess a dessert luncheon after which there will be a business meeting.

PERSHING HEIGHTS

The dedication of a new community school in Homer attracted the Gerri V. Tyler, Jr. family last Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Tyler and their children, Gerry, David, Steven, John and Mark, were guests of Mr. Tyler's brother-in-law, Robert Gaston, who is the superintendent of schools in the Homer area.

Girl Scout Appointment

Mrs. Clifford Hardin, membership-nominating chairman for the Jay-Husker Council of Girl Scouts, has announced the appointment of Mrs. Winton Buckley to the council's board of directors.

Mrs. Buckley will serve as troop organizer chairman.

ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Do you think parents should PAY their children for getting good grades? Somehow I can't seem to convince myself that it's right, but other parents do it and get results, so maybe I'm wrong. Our son needs some sort of motivation to do better in school. Richard has as much intelligence as any of his classmates who make the honor roll, yet he barely gets by and it doesn't seem to bother him. My husband thinks we should offer him money as an incentive. Richard is only 14, but he's saving for a car. Do you think $50 for every "A" he gets and $25 for every "B" is too much?

RICHARD'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I think the whole idea of PAYING a child for the privilege of getting an education is "too much." First, Richard needs to learn the value of KNOWING things, not HAVING things. It's all right to "reward" a child for a job well done—but "bribing" him for doing what he should do for nothing makes no sense at all. Mediocrity, when one can do better, calls for dicipline.

DEAR ABBY: I work, and live alone. I get very tired of eating out all the time, as I frequently invite a friend or two over to enjoy a home-cooked dinner with me. I appreciate having someone offer to help me with the dishes afterwards, but how would you like it if your guest took the dish towel out of your hands and said, "Get out! I'm doing the work!"

There are two people who push me out of my own kitchen this way and it irritates me. Should I just go in the other room and sit down? Or should I say, "This is MY home, and if you want to HELP me, fine; otherwise YOU go in the other room. I'm staying.

IRRITATED

DEAR IRRITATED: Your "helpers" mean well. They are just a trifle heavy-handed. Tell them if they want to "help" they're welcome, but YOU are in charge of K.P. in your own kitchen. And put some authority in your voice.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for a year. Before I was married I was a pretty sad case. (I guess you'd say I was "promiscuous.") My husband knew about this because I was going with him at the time. When we were first married, I lied to him a few times about where I was going. I really didn't cheat on him those times, but I was going with some girls I knew he didn't like. I've been 100 per cent true to my husband since our marriage and always will be. Well, he found out I lied to him, and now he won't trust me.

Yesterday our telephone rang three times. It was the same person calling a wrong number. My husband was sure it was a man for me and I was trying to cover up, so he said, "Why don't you call your boy friend back and tell him I'll be gone all day tomorrow?" Abby, I love my husband and want him to believe me, but how can I when he's so unreasonable and suspicious?

NOT TRUSTED

DEAR NOT: You earned your husband's distrust and now you will have to win back his confidence. This can be accomplished in only one way—performance. If you consistently tread the straight and narrow, in time your "bad" reputation will fade, and a better one will replace it. It can be done, but you must avoid not only evil, but the appearance of it.

John R. Carson Gets Task Of Creating State Plan For The Aging

Gov. Frank Morrison has assigned John R. Carson the responsibility of preparing a Nebraska state plan for the aging, Morrison's office said Thursday.

Carson said a state plan would be submitted prior to Jan. 1 to the approving federal agency under the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW).

Authorized

Nebraska's participation in the federal program under the Older Americans Act of 1965 was authorized by the Legislature with enactment of LB895, which becomes effective Nov. 18.

The bill provides for a 12-member Advisory Committee on Aging and authorizes the governor to receive federal funds and grants to carry on the program.

Committee members will be announced soon, according the Gene Budig, gubernatorial administrative assistant.

Carson said the state plan would "emphasize community planning and programming for the aging population," but declined "premature disclosure" of other details.

He said $76,000 in federal funds would be available to state and community projects on a 75% federal and 25% local matching money during the fiscal year ending next June 30 if the state plan gains federal approval.

Objectives

Carson said the federal legislation established an administrator on aging under HEW with these basic objectives:

—Make federal funds available to the states for demonstrating new ideas and concepts in meeting the needs of senior citizens.

Grants

—Make grants available to institutions of higher learning for research into the problems of aging.

—Training people in the field of geriatrics.

Sixty-Second Test Urged Before Holiday Driving

State Safety Coordinator Tom Ryan suggested Wednesday that Nebraskans planning Thanksgiving holiday trips give themselves a 60-second test on "five fundamental questions."

"A 'no' to any one of the five questions should be a cue to take corrective action before turning the ignition key," he said.

The questions:

1. Is the car in safe driving condition — especially brakes, lights, steering and tires?

2. Is the driver in safe driving condition as to physical ability and mental attitude?

3. Is there enough time to make the trip without rushing?

4. On long trips, have frequent rest breaks been mapped or scheduled.

5. Does every occupant have his seat belt fastened securely?

Ryan noted that the 1964 Thanksgiving holiday period last year resulted in 298 traffic accidents, killing four and injuring 195.

Federal Officials OK Hiring Of 24 In Education Dept.

State Education Commissioner Floyd Miller Wednesday reported that federal officials have approved the hiring of 24 new staff members by the State Education Department.

Salaries will be paid with federal funds available under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

Miller said the new staff members will include 13 full-time professional employes and 11 full-time clerical workers.

The last Legislature denied the department's request to use state funds to hire two of the professional consultants now permitted by federal funds.

CPPD Calls For Review Of Decision

Attorneys for Consumers Public Power District (CPPD) Wednesday told the Sate Supreme Court that the Nebraska Power Review Board ruled incorrectly early this year in granting Norris Public Power District authority to serve a fertilizer plant near Beatrice.

The CPPD attorneys said the Power Review Board should be ordered to reconsider its decision.

Norris, CPPD, Loup River Public Power District and the City of Beatrice all filed applications to supply wholesale power to the large Phillips Petroleum Co. plant now under construction.

The Loup District contracted to serve the $8 million plant, but the Power Review Board after lengthy hearings decided the business should go to Norris.

Loup has asked the Supreme Court to overrule the Power Review Board on the grounds the board has no jurisdiction in wholesale power matters. Loup wants the Supreme Court to approve the Loup-Phillips contract.

CPPD officials in their brief asked the high court to reject Loup's request but require additional hearings by the Power Review Board.

Zoning For 13th, H Structure Denied

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Zoning of the southwest corner of 13th and H which would enable promoters to build a $425,000 office and apartment building was denied in a unanimous vote Wednesday by the City-County Planning Commission.

Douglas Brogden, city planning director, said the land in the immediate vicinity is zoned for and used for E multiple dwelling except for the northeast corner which is used for an off-street parking lot.

Within a half block of the property, the area is zoned for business, he said.

Two Previous Requests

Two requests for business zoning previously had been made for the property at 13th and H, and both were denied by the commission and the City Council.

Brogden recommended denial of the request for the same reasons he had given on the other occasions.

David D. Tews appeared before the commission as an officer of D & D Investors, claiming that circumstances of the area had changed "considerably" since the last request for zoning change.

Since the location of the proposed city-county building has been decided for at 10th and J, office space would be in demand in the area, Tews said. The four-story building he described would have space for offices on the first floor and apartments in the upper floors.

Also Denied

The commission also denied, at the recommendation of Brogden, a change of zone for the northwest corner of 48th and Adams requested by Florence C. Benson and A. Clifford Anderson.

Benson and Anderson's petition was the third request received by the commission to change the zoning from B two family dwelling to G local business.

Norman Krivosha, supporting the request, took issue with Brogden's reasons for denial, declaring that there is not "ample land" zoned for business in University Place. He pointed out that until 1952, the area had been zoned G local business.

The first petition to change the corner back to that zoning was in 1954, he said.

Krivosha also argued that commercial zoning usually breaks at alleys, rather than at streets.

Commission member Pace Woods voted for denial of the request, but pointed out that he would favor the change if it were requested for both corners.

In other action the commission approved the preliminary plat of Pioneer Estates south of Van Dorn, west of Burlington with several provisions including the fencing of the property on the line between the plat and Pioneers Park.

Members also approved the final plat of A & H Industrial Park between 44th and 48th and Cornhusker Highway and Hartley St., imposing a building line on two lots since the city will have to acquire more right-of-way if the Northeast Diagonal is built.

Commission Member Ed Perry opposed the plat because it calls for the city to vacate a street which, he said, will be wanted and have to be acquired later.

Action was deferred on the preliminary and final plat of the Sias Industrial Center, north of Fletcher and east of 56th extended.

Commission chairman Ed Faulkner was re-elected to his post in the election of officers. Mrs. J. Edmunds Miller was chosen first vice chairman and Pace Woods was elected second vice chairman.

In other business, the commission:

—Approved a change of zone from A-2 single family to H-2 highway commercial at 11th and Cornhusker Highway, requested by Robert a. Lybarger.

—Deferred action on county change of zone from agricultural to business on property seven miles south on U.S. 77, east side requested by Albert Holland.

—Approved an amendment to the zoning ordinance allowing identifying signs in areas where previously prohibited.

—Approved an amendment to the zoning ordinance allowing parking between a building and side lot line of transitional lots provided the parking lot is protected by screening.

France Supporting China By Majority

United Nations, N.Y. (AP) — France spoke out for the first time in the United Nations Wednesday on behalf of seating Communist China, and declared the long-standing dispute should be settled by simple majority vote.

Echoing the reasoning of President Charles de Gaulle in establishing diplomatic ties with Peking last year, French Ambassador Roger Seydoux argued for Red China's admission as a matter of justice, political realism and historical inevitability.

Without Peking's participation, Seydoux told the 117-nation General Assembly on the third day of the China debate, there could be no solution to the vital issues of peace in South Asia and nuclear disarmament.

Delay Outcome

"Why delay the outcome of something that is a foregone conclusion by rehashing an old debate?" he asked.

With a reversal foreshadowed by French recognition of Peking, only Seydoux's request for a simple majority vote in the assembly contained any element of surprise. In 1961 the assembly decided the question was sufficiently important to require two-thirds approval, but it has not been decided yet whether the same rule should apply this year.

A U.S. spokesman described Seydoux's reasoning as curious, saying the importance he attached to seating Peking seemed an admission that it was "a very important question and not one to be decided by a simple majority."

Ambassador Salvador P. Lopez of the Philippines asked for a specific ruling from the assembly president, Amintore Fanfani of Italy, holding the China issue was of "undeniable importance" and required a two-thirds majority.

Diplomatic observers predict Mao Tze-tung's regime again will be barred from the United Nations, especially if the two-thirds rule is applied. It takes only a simple majority to demand a two-thirds vote.

When the assembly last debated the China issue in 1963, the United States mustered a 16-vote margin to defeat a move to oust President Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists and replace them with the Chinese Communists in all U.N. organs.

However, Peking's supporters have agreed on a resolution that would seat the communists without specifically calling for the expulsion of Nationalist China. By this tactic they hope to attract the votes of countries reluctant to expel the Nationalists.

Another speaker, Pakistan's Ambassador Syed Amjad Ali, also urged a simple majority vote, saying the question was merely a matter of accepting the credentials of the legitimate government of China. Without Peking's presence, the United Nations would be unable to settle Asian conflicts that contain the "seeds of disaster," he said.

Burglary Charge Brings Prison Terms For Two

Lancaster District Judge Elmer Scheele Wednesday sentenced two Offutt Air Force Base men to from 18 months to three years in the Nebraska Penal Complex on a burglary charge.

The pair, Anthony Franklin Cook and Robert E. Miller, both 19, had pleaded guilty Oct. 13 to breaking and entering Charlie's Texaco at 300 West O Sept. 19.

Church Of God Picks Directors

The First Church of God, 135 No. 31st, elected three new members to its board of directors at its annual meeting Wednesday night. Elected for three year terms were Winfield Howland, Mrs. Irene Dietrich and Mrs. Byrdie Throop.

The operating budget for the coming year was approved at $11,491 while the missionary fund was fixed at $2,600.

Pastor Leonard Hill said that the other church officers will be appointed at the first meeting of the board.

You just hang the small plastic container on the inside of your tank. Every time you flush, On Guard will dispense the right amount of cleaning ingredients. It tints the water a pleasing blue.

That's how you know it's clean.

Why should you clean your toilet bowl, when we can do it for you? And do a better job, at that. On Guard, from the makers of Airwick.

Opening lead — eight of spades.

In choosing an opening lead against notrump, a defender should be guided more by what is best for the partnership than by just the indications of his own hand.

Defense is basically a partnership project and not the exclusive province of either defender. A joint effort will nearly always produce better results than a solo venture.

West decided against a club lead because there was too much danger that declarer might gain a trick by the lead. With hearts and diamonds ruled out by the bidding, West led a spade in an effort to hit partner's long suit. Both opponents had failed to bid spades and it seemed likely that East would have considerable length in that suit.

Declarer played low from dummy, losing the finesse to the king. East had no trouble reading the spade as a short suit lead and saw no future in continuing spades. He therefore shifted to a club, dummy's weakness.

South covered the eight with the queen, which lost to the king. West then returned the seven, taken by declarer with the ten.

South had no choice now except to lead hearts, but when he played the king, East took the ace, returned a club, and West's A-9 gobbled up the J-5 to defeat declarer one trick.

The defense was indeed excellent, and East - West were entitled to A for effort, but the fact is that South brought about his own downfall. He should not have taken the spade finesse on the opening lead.

All he had to do was take the ace of spades at trick one and then force out the ace of hearts. This would have assured him of nine tricks regardless of how the adverse cards were divided.

The principle that applies is a relatively simple one. You don't take a finesse just because it's there. A far more important consideration is making the contract, and that take precedence over everything else.

Disagreement On Lincoln Air Base Land Use Is Resolved

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Disagreement over future lease of the property at the Lincoln Air Force Base on which the Nebraska Air National Guard operates was resolved by the Mayor's Advisory Committee of the Lincoln Opportunity Team Wednesday with an amendment to the land use resolution.

The proposed change limits the property sought by the City of Lincoln from the federal government after deactivation of the air base as the land which shall be declared excess by the Department of Defense.

Don Bradford, director of the Office of Economic Adjustment, had told Lincoln officials during his recent visit here that land used by the Air National Guard would not be declared excess in the process of returning city-owned and excess federal property to the city.

No Intention

Adjutant General Lyle Welch informed the Mayor's Committee Wednesday that Air Force officials told him there was never any intention of declaring Air Guard land excess.

The resolution with the added phrase states:

"All government owned real property at the base was acquired to facilitate aviation or to provide housing. Such uses being incidental to the continued best use of the city-owned property, all such property as shall be declared excess by the Department of Defense should be acquired in fee by the city, without unreasonable restriction."

The amendment will be presented to the team Monday morning with the Mayor's Advisory Committee recommending approval.

Welch objected to the resolution after it had been passed by a majority vote last Monday, warning that a city move to ask for land used by the Guard might force relocation of the unit.

Lincoln attorney Chauncey Barney resisted Welch's objection then, declaring that it would be to the long-term interest of the city to acquire all fees to all of the real estate, even though an interim lease would be to the National Guard.

However, Welch said he was satisfied with the adjustment of the language of the resolution Wednesday, and the rest of the committee agreed.

The Mayor's Advisory Committee also approved a preliminary map showing proposed land use of the deactivated base and reported it would also be presented to the full Opportunity Team Monday.

In other action the committee members started negotiations with the Department of Defense to obtain funds to pay a consultant who will be responsible for coordinating federal and local arrangements of the base and work with the Opportunity Team concerning long-range planning.

John R. Carson Gets Task Of Creating State Plan For The Aging

Gov. Frank Morrison has assigned John R. Carson the responsibility of preparing a Nebraska state plan for the aging, Morrison's office said Thursday.

Carson said a state plan would be submitted prior to Jan 1 to the approving federal agency under the U S Department of Health Education and Welfare (HEW)

Authorized

Nebraska's participation in the federal program under the Older Americans Act of 1965 was authorized by the Legislature with enactment of LB895, which becomes effective Nov 18

The bill provides for a 12-member Advisory Committee on Aging and authorizes the governor to receive federal funds and grants to carry on the program

Committee members will be announced soon, according the Gene Budig, gubernatorial administrative assistant.

Carson said the state plan would "emphasize community planning and programming for the aging population," but declined "premature disclosure" of other details

He said $76,000 in federal funds would be available to state and community projects on a 75% federal and 25% local matching money during the fiscal year ending next June 30 if the state plan gains federal approval.

Objectives

Carson said the federal legislation established an administrator on aging under HEW with these basic objectives

—Make federal funds available to the states for demonstrating new ideas and concepts in meeting the needs of senior citizens.

Grants

—Make grants available to institutions of higher learning for research into the problems of aging.

—Training people in the field of geriatrics.

Sixty-Second Test Urged Before Holiday Driving

State Safety Coordinator Tom Ryan suggested Wednesday that Nebraskans planning Thanksgiving holiday trips give themselves a 60-second test on "five fundamental questions."

"A 'no' to any one of the five questions should be a cue to take corrective action before turning the ignition key," he said

The questions

1. Is the car in safe driving condition — especially brakes, lights, steering and tires?

2. Is the driver in safe driving condition as to physical ability and mental attitude?

3. Is there enough time to make the trip without rushing?

4 On long trips, have frequent rest breaks been mapped or scheduled

Ryan noted that the 1964 Thanksgiving holiday period last year resulted in 298 traffic accidents, killing four and injuring 195.

State Education Commissioner Floyd Miller Wednesday reported that federal officials have approved the hiring of 24 new staff members by the State Education Department.

Salaries will be paid with federal funds available under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act

Miller said the new staff members will include 13 full-time professional employes and 11 full-time clerical workers.

The last Legislature denied the department's request to use state funds to hire two of the professional consultants now permitted by federal funds.

CPPD Calls For Review Of Decision

Attorneys for Consumers Public Power District (CPPD) Wednesday told the Sate Supreme Court that the Nebraska Power Review Board ruled incorrectly early this year in granting Norris Public Power District authority to serve a fertilizer plant near Beatrice.

The CPPD attorneys said the Power Review Board should be ordered to reconsider its decision.

Norris, CPPD, Loup River Public Power District and the City of Beatrice all filed applications to supply wholesale power to the large Phillips Petroleum Co. plant now under construction.

The Loup District contracted to serve the $8 million plant, but the Power Review Board after lengthy hearings decided the business should go to Norris.

Loup has asked the Supreme Court to overrule the Power Review Board on the grounds the board has no jurisdiction in wholesale power matters. Loup wants the Supreme Court to approve the Loup-Phillips contract

CPPD officials in their brief asked the high court to reject Loup's request but require additional hearings by the Power Review Board.

Substitute Teacher-Sharing Plan OKd

Substitute proposals for Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA) Title I funds were authorized Wednesday by an advisory committee to the schools in an effort to sidestep the teacher-sharing plan said illegal in an opinion by the State Justice Department.

The action of the Title I Advisory Committee directed Mrs. Anne Campbell, administrative assistant for government services, to rewrite the Lincoln project application seeking funds to provide remedial reading and speech education to children from low-income families.

Lincoln's proposal originally called for teachers paid by federal tax money to hold classes in certain private schools in the city which the Justice Department said violated the state constitution.

'Real Problem'

"It has become a real problem to write a proposal which satisfies state law and still maintains the intent of the federal legislation which requires equal aid to all children," Vice Supt. Arzell Ball said.

Committee members, including public and parochial school officials and community representatives, endorsed new guidelines for the remedial program expanding in-service teacher training, maintaining the idea of a Lincoln speech and reading center for teachers, but offering clinics in two public schools for the children instead of classes in several public and private schools.

Ball proposed to the committee that a secondary clinic at Whittier Junior High an an elementary clinic at Elliott operate during the school year for diagnostic and treatment purposes for severe cases of reading and speech deficiencies.

The clinics, he said, would test a child and set up a plan for treatment which may be handled on an individual basis, in small groups or perhaps even by the classroom teacher.

The $244,000 Title I proposal also included a summer school program, although this portion of the application is not affected by the Justice Department ruling because parochial school children would be enrolled in public schools, Ball explained.

Favored

Dual enrollment, which seems to be favored by state officials, would not be practical at this time for Lincoln, Ball said, noting that the schools hoped to have the program approved and under way by Jan. 1.

School officials and committee members agreed that too much time would be wasted transporting private school sudents to public schools for the remedial classes in addition to creating scheduling problems.

Dual enrollment might be more feasible next year if the project is renewed, Ball said, when scheduling can be arranged from the first of the year.

Workshops

Discussing the new proposal, advisory committee members expressed approval of the extended in-service training time for teachers, including the possibility of hiring a remedial reading specialist. They also suggested the possibility of intensive workshops in the summer.

The Title I Advisory Committee will review the written proposal before it is presented to the Board of Education, according to Ball.

Secret Service Changed

Washington (AP)—Chief James J. Rowley received the title of director Wednesday and Rufus Youngblood, head of the White House detail, became major realignment of the Secret Service.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler said the purpose of the reorganization is to provide "a more effective means of supervision over a service that is expanding in size and changing in methods."

The administration also reportedly wanted to enhance the image of the service that guards the President. Rowley's new title is the same as that of the head of the FBI, J. Edgar Hoover.

Strong Rivalry

In the past, there has been strong rivalry between the two services, but officials repeatedly have denied there is any friction. There have been strenuous efforts since the assassination of President John F. Kennedy to increase exchanges of information.

Asked about the new title for Rowley, a treasury official said Rowley preferred it and that it is the designation normally used for heads of intelligence organizations.

The first indication of the changes was a report from the temporary White House in Johnson City, Tex., that Youngblood would no longer supervise the White House detail.

Over-All Charge

Youngblood still will be in over-all charge of protective services for the presidential family in his higher post. He also will supervise the protection of the vice president, former Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower and Harry S. Trumen, and Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy.

Fowler also announced creation of three other assistant directors.

Three New Jobs

Walter H. Young will be in charge of protective intelligence, the section which seeks to ferret out potential assassins. Thomas J. Kelley, now an inspector, was named assistant director in charge of investigations of counterfeiting and forging of government checks. An assistant director for administration as yet to be appointed.

Thomas Lemuel Johns will succeed Youngblood as special agent in charge of the White House detail.

Bids On Striping Machine To Be Studied By City

Bids received Wednesday for a new paint striping machine to be used by the city traffic engineering department will have to be studied before any recommendation of acceptance can be made, according to Purchasing Agent Wayne Harvey.

Walt Industries Inc., of Huntingdon, Pa., submitted three bids of $11,500, $15,100 and $18,500, while Anderson Equipment Co., of Lincoln submitted a total bid of $14,386.

The city also took bids on individual items of a paint striping machine with the idea that the city might build its own, but no decision yet has been made, Harvey said.

Bids were also taken on cast iron pipe but each was on an individual item basis.

Red Guerrillas Kill 10 On Boat In Daikku, Burma

Rangoon, Burma (AP) — Communist guerrillas killed 10 passengers and wounded 8 when they attacked two launches at Daikku, a fishing town 100 miles northwest of Rangoon, the newspaper Mirror reported Wednesday.

The Mirror said the two launches were caught in an ambush Tuesday. The rebels retreated when government reinforcements arrived.

The Burmese army launched a massive drive against communist and tribal rebels last May and killed or scattered numerous bands. Rebel activity had declined recently.

How come? Because new Mighty C contains all the Vitamin C kids need to go on and grow on. In fact, just one glassful of Mighty C provides enough Vitamin C to supply a kid's daily requirement.

Fairmont Mighty C contains lots of other good things for kids, too. Twenty per cent more protein than regular milk, for instance. Plus Vitamin A and Vitamin D. Plus niacin and calcium. Plus iodine and riboflavin. Plus a great taste.

Be sure to make new Fairmont Mighty C the milk for your kids from now on. You can get it at your favorite store right now. Better bring the kids with you, though. It's just possible that no adult will be allowed to purchase Mighty C unless accompanied by a child.

Zoning For 13th, H Structure Denied

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Zoning of the southwest corner of 13th and H which would enable promoters to build a $425,000 office and apartment building was denied in a unanimous vote Wednesday by the City-County Planning Commission

Douglas Brogden, city planning director said the land in the immediate vicinity is zoned for and used for E multiple dwelling except for the northeast corner which is used for an off-street parking lot

Within a half block of the property, the area is zoned for business, he said

Two Previous Requests

Two requests for business zoning previously had been made for the property at 13th and H, and both were denied by the commission and the City Council

Brogden recommended denial of the request for the same reasons he had given on the other occasions

David D. Tews appeared before the commission as an officer of D & D Investors, claiming that circumstances of the area had changed "considerably" since the last request for zoning change.

Since the location of the proposed city-county building has been decided for at 10th and J, office space would be in demand in the area, Tews said. The four-story building he described would have space for offices on the first floor and apartments in the upper floors

Also Denied

The commission also denied, at the recommendation of Brogden, a change of zone for the northwest corner of 48th and Adams requested by Florence C Benson and A. Clifford Anderson.

Benson and Anderson's petition was the third request received by the commission to change the zoning from B two family dwelling to G local business

Norman Krivosha, supporting the request, took issue with Brogden's reasons for denial, declaring that there is not "ample land" zoned for business in University Place. He pointed out that until 1952, the area had been zoned G local business.

The first petition to change the corner back to that zoning was in 1954, he said.

Krivosha also argued that commercial zoning usually breaks at alleys, rather than at streets.

Commission member Pace Woods voted for denial of the request, but pointed out that he would favor the change if it were requested for both corners

In other action the commission approved the preliminary plat of Pioneer Estates south of Van Dorn, west of Burlington with several provisions including the fencing of the property on the line between the plat and Pioneers Park.

Members also approved the final plat of A & H Industrial Park between 44th and 48th and Cornhusker Highway and Hartley St., imposing a building line on two lots since the city will have to acquire more right-of-way if the Northeast Diagonal is built.

Commission Member Ed Perry opposed the plat because it calls for the city to vacate a street which, he said, will be wanted and have to be acquired later

Action was deferred on the preliminary and final plat of the Stas Industrial Center, north of Fletcher and east of 56th extended.

Commission chairman Ed Faulkner was re-elected to his post in the election of officers. Mrs. J. Edmunds Miller was chosen first vice chairman and Pace Woods was elected second vice chairman.

In other business, the commission

—Approved a change of zone from A-2 single family to H 2 highway commercial at 11th and Cornhusker Highway, requested by Robert a Lybarger

—Deferred action on county change of zone from agricultural to business on property seven miles south on U.S. 77, east side requested by Albert Holland.

—Approved an amendment to the zoning ordinance allowing identifying signs in areas where previously prohibited

—Approved an amendment to the zoning ordinance allowing parking between a building and side lot line of transitional lots provided the parking lot is protected by screening

France Supporting China By Majority

United Nations, N.Y. (AP) — France spoke out for the first time in the United Nations Wednesday on behalf of seating Communist China, and declared the long-standing dispute should be settled by simple majority vote.

Echoing the reasoning of President Charles de Gaulle in establishing diplomatic ties with Peking last year, French Ambassador Roger Seydoux argued for Red China's admission as a matter of justice, political realism and historical inevitability.

Without Peking's participation, Seydoux told the 117-nation General Assembly on the third day of the China debate, there could be no solution to the vital issues of peace in South Asia and nuclear disarmament.

Delay Outcome

"Why delay the outcome of something that is a foregone conclusion by rehashing an old debate?" he asked.

With a reversal foreshadowed by French recognition of Peking, only Seydoux's request for a simple majority vote in the assembly contained any element of surprise. In 1961 the assembly decided the question was sufficiently important to require two-thirds approval, but it has not been decided yet whether the same rule should apply this year.

A U.S. spokesman described Seydoux's reasoning as curious, saying the importance he attached to seating Peking seemed an admission that it was "a very important question and not one to be decided by a simple majority."

Ambassador Salvador P. Lopez of the Philippines asked for a specific ruling from the assembly president. Amintore Fanfani of Italy, holding the China issue was of "undeniable importance" and required a two-thirds majority.

Diplomatic observers predict Mao Tze-tung's regime again will be barred from the United Nations, especially if the two-thirds rule is applied. It takes only a simple majority to demand a two-thirds vote

When the assembly last debated the China issue in 1963, the United States mustered a 16-vote margin to defeat a move to oust President Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists and replace them with the Chinese Communists in all U.N. organs.

However, Peking's supporters have agreed on a resolution that would seat the communists without specifically calling for the expulsion of Nationalist China. By this tactic they hope to attract the votes of countries reluctant to expel the Nationalists.

Another speaker, Pakistan's Ambassador Syed Amjad Ali, also urged a simple majority vote, saying the question was merely a matter of accepting the credentials of the legitimate government of China. Without Peking's presence, the United Nations would be unable to settle Asian conflicts that contain the "seeds of disaster," he said.

Burglary Charge Brings Prison Terms For Two

Lancaster District Judge Elmer Scheele Wednesday sentenced two Offutt Air Force Base men to from 18 months to three years in the Nebraska Penal Complex on a burglary charge.

The pair, Anthony Franklin Cook and Robert E. Miller, both 19, had pleaded guilty Oct. 13 to breaking and entering Charlie's Texaco at 300 West O Sept. 19.

Church Of God Picks Directors

The First Church of God, 135 No 31st, elected three new members to its board of directors at its annual meeting Wednesday night. Elected for three year terms were Winfield Howland, Mrs. Irene Dietrich and Mrs. Byrdie Throop.

The operating budget for the coming year was approved at $11,491 while the missionary fund was fixed at $2,600.

Pastor Leonard Hill said that the other church officers will be appointed at the first meeting of the board.

Disagreement On Lincoln Air Base Land Use Is Resolved

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Disagreement over future lease of the property at the Lincoln Air Force Base on which the Nebraska Air National Guard operates was resolved by the Mayor's Advisory Committee of the Lincoln Opportunity Team Wednesday with an amendment to the land use resolution.

The proposed change limits the property sought by the City of Lincoln from the federal government after deactivation of the air base as the land which shall be declared excess by the Department of Defense.

Don Bradford, director of the Office of Economic Adjustment, had told Lincoln officials during his recent visit here that land used by the Air National Guard would not be declared excess in the process of returning city-owned and excess federal property to the city.

No Intention

Adjutant General Lyle Welch informed the Mayor's Committee Wednesday that Air Force officials told him there was never any intention of declaring Air Guard land excess.

The resolution with the added phrase states:

"All government owned real property at the base was acquired to facilitate aviation or to provide housing. Such uses being incidental to the continued best use of the city-owned property, all such property as shall be declared excess by the Department of Defense should be acquired in fee by the city, without unreasonable restriction."

The amendment will be presented to the team Monday morning with the Mayor's Advisory Committee recommending approval.

Welch objected to the resolution after it had been passed by a majority vote last Monday, warning that a city move to ask for land used by the Guard might force relocation of the unit.

Lincoln attorney Chauncey Barney resisted Welch's objection then, declaring that it would be to the long-term interest of the city to acquire all fees to all of the real estate, even though an interim lease would be to the National Guard.

However, Welch said he was satisfied with the adjustment of the language of the resolution Wednesday, and the rest of the committee agreed.

The Mayor's Advisory Committee also approved a preliminary map showing proposed land use of the deactivated base and reported it would also be presented to the full Opportunity Team Monday.

In other action the committee members started negotiations with the Department of Defense to obtain funds to pay a consultant who will be responsible for coordinating federal and local arrangements of the base and work with the Opportunity Team concerning long-range planning.

Grossart's Stop In McCook Fortunate Event For Junior College

. . . SUCCESS SURPRISING TO JUCO GRID COACH

By JOHN LEE
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

McCook—Something over two years ago Rex Grossart was on his way to see Colorado Coach Eddie Crowder about an assistant football coaching job. He never got to Boulder.

He stopped to visit in McCook, where he had once coached high school ball, and ended up with a contract in his pocket that said "McCook Junior College football coach and director of athletics for the school system."

Everyone—with the probable exception of Crowder—has been glad for the stopover.

And that includes the 4,000-plus fans who turn out to watch the Indians home games in this city of 9,000.

Grossart has kept them happy, particularly this season, by:

—A national No. 2 rating for six weeks running.

—Heading for the school's first undefeated season, with only Norfolk standing in the way.

—Excellent prospects for a bowl game.

While looking over preliminary inquiries for three post-season games—Pasadena's Junior Rose Bowl, Bakersfield, Calif., Potato Bowl and the National Junior College Bowl in Savannah, Ga.,—he admits this successful season "came as a surprise."

With only eight lettermen returning to start the campaign, and a "long and lean" front wall averaging 195 pounds, Grossart "didn't plan on a season like this."

"We have to be quick and fast or not survive," he explained.

And the Indians have more than survived. They've r a c k e d up 337 points against 53 for the opponents and become the first junior college to beat Air Force's junior varsity.

"We've got a bunch of kids that care and have a little bit of pride," says Grossart.

Citing a few of his comparative lightweights, who explode from a winged-T or double-slot formation, he points out halfback Roger Nitsch from Hayes Center, who was the nation's third leading scorer last week with 66.

But R o g e r ' s alternate, Scottsbluff freshman Doug Hollinger, caught him last week at 72, and "I don't know where they'll be this week."

Hollinger, a 155-pounder, works out with the second unit on offense, but first string defense—and has picked up five of his touchdowns defensively.

Bradshaw halfback Bob Goodridge, the team's third-high scorer, "is going to be a pro some day," predicts Grossart, and defensive guard and tri-captain Robert Roberts of North Platte is McCook's prime JC All-American candidate with 111 tackles.

Alternating as scrambling quarterbacks are Wally Agnew of Turtle Creek, Pa., and Mike Reed of Ft. Wayne, Ind., two of the dozen gridders from outside Nebraska. Which points up another Grossart policy.

"When I came," he said, "it was the other way around—35 out-of-state and nine Nebraskans. But we don't recruit out of state now."

His Beef State products have handed him 21 wins and six losses during the three seasons he's been here and have never dropped a contest to a junior college foe.

One of the non-Nebraskans is a Detroit boy named Mel White—yep, Freeman's little (6'1", 175-pound) brother, who's worked up to first unit defensive end this season, but Grossart chides, "He can't catch a cold in Alaska. When Mel catches a pass, everyone cheers."

Recognized as one of the nation's experts in weight training and body development, he wrote and lectured on the subject all over the West Coast during four years at Bakersfield Junior College, helped that football team to three bowls during that time and coached the track team to an equally-outstanding record.

"We have isomtrics before and after each practice," he pointed out. "I'm a great believer in it."

Crude bars are set up beside the practice field, and the boys have to strain against them as hard as they can for 10 seconds in each of five positions.

"The kids h a v e to condition themselves," Grossart explains. "And they're pretty religious about it."

"I think we matched the Air Force in physical conditioning, and that's pretty fantastic to be able to watch them."

He also takes modest credit for starting basketball star Wilt Chamberlain on weights during four years as football and track assistant at Kansas University.

Grossart is enjoying the job at McCook, where he started his coaching career in the high school. He went to York and Alliance before moving up to college ranks at KU.

SF's Mays Named NL's Most Valuable

Boston (AP)—Wondrous Willie Mays, t h e San Francisco Giants' great center fielder, won the National League's Most Valuable Player Award for the second time Wednesday, o u t d i s t a n c i n g Los Angeles' Sandy Koufax and Maury Wills.

The 34-year-old Mays, who first won the MVP Award in 1954, was the only player named at all on 20 ballots cast by two members of the Baseball Writers Association o f America in each of the 10 National League cities.

The former "Say, Hey" kid received nine first place votes, 10 seconds and one third in piling up 224 points in the balloting based on 14 for first, 9 for second etc. Ken Boyer of the St. Louis Cardinals received 243 points with 14 first place votes in winning the honor in 1964 but didn't receive a point this year.

Koufax, who c a p t u r e d the Cy Y o u n g Memorial Award as baseball's top pitcher after a 26-8 record this year, polled 177 points, while Wills, the Dodgers' speedy shortstop, drew 164.

Movie Choices Causing NU Mentor To Worry

. . . COWBOYS LOOK GOOD IN TWO DEFEATS

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Nebraska football c o a c h Bob Devaney frankly admits he is worried about Saturday's game with Oklahoma State at Stillwater and movie selection could be the reason.

The Cowboys have been up and down this season and the movies Nebraska has of the Saturday foe were g a m e s in which they were up—a 13-0 loss to Missouri and a 17-14 defeat to Texas Tech.

"They played tough against Missouri," Devaney warned Wednesday. "The only touchdown Missouri got a g a i n s t them was on a long run by Lane.

While admitting that Oklahoma State is one of the smaller teams the Huskers h a v e met this season, it is t h i s smallness that also is causing concern.

"They are a quick team and those are the kind of teams that have caused us trouble in the past," Devaney observed. "Contrary to w h a t some people think, one thing we don't have is a great deal of team speed."

The Huskers also have a history of having trouble with the Cowboys. "They have b e e n real tough for us the last two years," Devaney continued. "I remember two years ago, we had them down by 20-3 and we had to hang on to win 20-16.

"Then last year Walt Garrison ran through us pretty g o o d and they have him back."

The status of linebacker Mike Kennedy remained extremely doubtful for Saturday. The defensive captain was released from the h o s p i t a l Wednesday and watched t h e practice in street clothes.

Devaney has indicated that if he is unable to work out today, Kennedy will be left off the travel squad that will leave Friday for Stillwater.

Tickets Available

A limited quantity of tickets are available for the Oklahoma game Thanksgiving Day, NU ticket manager Jim Pittenger said Wednesday.

The tickets became available when Oklahoma returned a quantity that they had been unable to sell. The tickets may be purchased at the NU ticket office.

Devaney Mum On Bowl Bid

. . . NU ACCEPTANCE RUMORED

Nebraska c o a c h Bob Devaney Wednesday night declined to confirm or deny that his Cornhuskers have committed themselves to meet Alabama New Year's night in the Orange Bowl at Miami, Fla.

Devaney commented after the Birmingham, Ala., news carried a story q u o t i n g "sources" as saying second-ranked Nebraska and sixth-ranked Alabama have agreed to meet in the bowl.

"We are neither confirming or denying that we have accepted. I don't know where the Birmingham News got its report," Devaney said.

"We will make an announcement after our game Saturday with Oklahoma State."

Similar stories connecting Nebraska and Alabama in the Orange Bowl were carried by newspapers i n Tuscaloosa, Ala., where Alabama University is located, and in New Orleans, La., h o m e of the Sugar Bowl.

In Tuscaloosa, A l a b a m a school officials denied t h e Crimson Tide has agreed to compete in the Orange Bowl.

Under Southeast Conference rules, a team cannot announce a bowl acceptance until Nov. 20. The Birmingham News said Alabama would announce that day.

In Miami, C.J. Baldwin, chairman of the Orange Bowl Selection Committee, s a i d, "We would like to have both of these great teams. We are interested in both of them."

Baldwin did not elaborate.

The Orange Bowl, which last New Year's night drew 72,172 fans, is already sold out except for 20,000 seats which will go to competing teams.

The last Orange Bowl game netted $437,000. This go-round will be the second time the contest will be played at night.

Orange Bowl Stadium Sold Out For Jan. 1

Miami, Fla. (AP) — The Orange Bowl Stadium already has been sold out for the New Year's night football game, although neither t e a m has been selected.

The sellout last year w a s not achieved until Dec. 10. That game, between Texas and Alabama, drew 72,174 and a gross gate of $437,040. Each team received $207,000.

Dainard Paulson AFL Defensive Player Of Week

By Associated Press

Dainard Paulson still plays with a cast on his right arm to protect a hairline fracture of the wrist suffered in early season, but the New York Jets' strong safety continues to make the big plays.

Paulson, a 28-year-old Oregon State product, made two i m p o r t a n t interceptions, helped Willie West block a field goal, and contributed seven t a c k l e s. He a l s o knocked down a pass and protected well a g a i n s t three bombs in a 13-10 victory over Kansas City Sunday.

Spartans, Notre Dame Top Nation In Rushing Defense

. . . HUSKERS RANK 6TH IN TOTAL DEFENSE

New York (AP)—Top-ranked Michigan State and fourth-ranked Notre Dame will rely on stonewall defenses as well as high-powered offenses in their crucial football game Nov. 20.

The Spartans of Michigan State are the major college leaders in defense against rushing for the second straight week while the Irish have moved up from third to second place according to statistics released later Wednesday by the NCAA's S e r v i c e Bureau.

Michigan State has allowed but 50.4 yards per game on the ground while Notre Dame has yielded only 65.5 yards. In addition Michigan State is third in total defense with 181.1 yards per game and first in scoring defense with 5.8 points per game. Notre Dame is the highest scoring team with 35.7 points per game.

Southern Mississippi, with a yield of only 154.5 yards a game, leads in total defense for the third straight week. Toledo topped the field in pass defense, 56.4, for the third consecutive week.

Substitute Teacher-Sharing Plan OKd

Substitute proposals for Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA) Title 1 funds were authorized Wednesday by an advisory committee to the schools in an effort to sidestep the teacher-sharing plan said illegal in an opinion by the State Justice Department.

The action of the Title I Advisory Committee directed Mrs. Anne Campbell, administrative assistant for government services, to rewrite the Lincoln project application seeking funds to provide remedial reading and speech education to children from low-income families.

Lincoln's proposal originally called for teachers paid by federal tax money to hold classes in certain private schools in the city which the Justice Department said violated the state constitution.

'Real Problem'

"It has become a real problem to write a proposal which satisfies state law and still maintains the intent of the federal legislation which requires equal aid to all children," Vice Supt. Arzell Ball said.

Committee members, including public and parochial school officials and community representatives, endorsed new guidelines for the remedial program expanding in-service teacher training, maintaining the idea of a Lincoln speech and reading center for teachers, but offering clinics in two public schools for the children instead of classes in several public and private schools.

Ball proposed to the committee that a secondary clinic at Whittier Junior High an an elementary clinic at Elliott operate during the school year for diagnostic and treatment purposes for severe cases of reading and speech deficiencies.

The clinics, he said, would test a child and set up a plan for treatment which may be handled on an individual basis, in small groups or perhaps even by the classroom teacher.

The $244,000 Title I proposal also included a summer school program, although this portion of the application is not affected by the Justice Department ruling because parochial school children would be enrolled in public schools, Ball explained.

Favored

Dual enrollment, which seems to be favored by state officials, would not be practical at this time for Lincoln, Ball said, noting that the schools hoped to have the program approved and under way by Jan. 1.

School officials and committee members agreed that too much time would be wasted transporting private school sudents to public schools for the remedial classes in addition to creating scheduling problems.

Dual enrollment might be more feasible next year if the project is renewed, Ball said, when scheduling can be arranged from the first of the year.

Workshops

Discussing the new proposal, advisory committee members expressed approval of the extended in-service training time for teachers, including the possibility of hiring a remedial reading specialist. They also suggested the possibility of intensive workshops in the summer.

The Title I Advisory Committee will review the written proposal before it is presented to the Board of Education, according to Ball.

Secret Service Changed

Washington (AP)—Chief James J. Rowley received the title of director Wednesday and Rufus Youngblood, head of the White House detail, became major realignment of the Secret Service.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler said the purpose of the reorganization is to provide "a more effective means of supervision over a service that is expanding in size and changing in methods."

The administration also reportedly wanted to enhance the image of the service that guards the President. Rowley's new title is the same as that of the head of the FBI, J. Edgar Hoover.

Strong Rivalry

In the past, there has been strong rivalry between the two services, but officials repeatedly have denied there is any friction. There have been strenuous efforts since the assassination of President John F. Kennedy to increase exchanges of information.

Asked about the new title for Rowley, a treasury official said Rowley preferred it and that it is the designation normally used for heads of intelligence organizations.

The first indication of the changes was a report from the temporary White House in Johnson City, Tex., that Youngblood would no longer supervise the White House detail.

Over-All Charge

Youngblood still will be in over-all charge of protective services for the presidential family in his higher post. He also will supervise the protection of the vice president, former Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower and Harry S. Trumen, and Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy.

Youngblood was commended for his quick action in Dallas during the Kennedy assassination.

Fowler also announced creation of three other assistant directors.

Three New Jobs

Walter H. Young will be in charge of protective intelligence, the section which seeks to ferret out potential assassins. Thomas J. Kelley, now an inspector, was named assistant director in charge of investigations of counterfeiting and forging of government checks. An assistant director for administration as yet to be appointed.

Thomas Lemuel Johns will succeed Youngblood as special agent in charge of the White House detail.

Bids On Striping Machine To Be Studied By City

Bids received Wednesday for a new paint striping machine to be used by the city traffic engineering department will have to be studied before any recommendation of acceptance can be made, according to Purchasing Agent Wayne Harvey.

Walt Industries Inc., of Huntingdon, Pa., submitted three bids of $11,500, $15,100 and $18,500, while Anderson Equipment Co., of Lincoln submitted a total bid of $14,386.

The city also took bids on individual items of a paint striping machine with the idea that the city might build its own, but no decision yet has been made, Harvey said.

Bids were also taken on cast iron pipe but each was on an individual item basis.

Red Guerrillas Kill 10 On Boat In Daikku, Burma

Rangoon, Burma (AP) — Communist guerrillas killed 10 passengers and wounded 8 when they attacked two launches at Daikku, a fishing town 100 miles northwest of Rangoon, the newspaper Mirror reported Wednesday.

The Mirror said the two launches were caught in an ambush Tuesday. The rebels retreated when government reinforcements arrived.

Nebraska Offering Hunters Great Variety Of Shooting

If variety is the spice of life, then Nebraska, the nation's mixed-bag capital, offers sportsmen some pretty spicy shooting.

Seasons are in full swing, with the exception of wild turkey, and reports from conservation officers across the state are bright with good predictions. While final turkey success is not yet known, the Game Commission estimates success at 50 per cent. This is higher than last year's split-season ratio. The turkey season ended Nov. 7.

Riflemen are making good use of their record number of deer permits (24,150). Hunter success is excellent so far, and the majority of gunners report seeing their elusive quarry, if not bagging it.

One hunter, Berni Medinger, of Alma, was certainly rewarded for his efforts. The Alma check station reported a white tailed buck weighing in hog-dressed at 225 pounds. The nine-day statewide season runs through Nov. 14, after which bowmen reclaim the field until Dec. 31.

On the bird front, pheasant hunting is picking up. The birds are plentiful, but hunting pressure has been light. With the harvesting well under way, and colder weather moving in, hunters should find Mr. Ringneck an easier quarry. Quail are abundant, and duck hunters better hustle to take advantage of the cold weather action.

A capsule report by area:

Northeast: Quail hunters will find their favorite sport is excellent in Madison County. Numerous quail and ducks were also spotted on the Platte in the Schuyler area. Large groups of hunters are still the best bet when after pheasants. Deer hunting is good in Knox, Cedar, and Madison Counties.

Sandhills: Cover is still heavy, but if hunters are willing to work for their pheasants, then Custer, Valley, Boyd, and the southern part of Garfield Counties are the choice spots Hunter success is expected to increase with snow or rain. Duck flights should arrive soon in this area, and two large flocks of Canada geese are heading south now. Deer are plentiful throughout the region. Turkey checks showed 61 from Valentine, and 35 from Bassett.

Panhandle: Turkey season, now over, was the big news here. Check stations showed Chadron, 141; Crawford, 407; Harrison, 153, and Rushville, 74, for a total roundtop unit count of 775. The Wildcat Hills unit count was Scottsbluff, 9, and Bridgeport, 5. Whitney Reservoir is hosting 5,000 mallards and some pintails. Walgrin Lake has about 7,000 mallards. Fishing is not over by any means. Trout are after spinners in the upper end of Red Willow. They are also biting good on trout eggs and worms at Nine Mile Creek.

Southwest: Ducks are moving into this region, and some geese have been sighted at Lake McConaughy. Fall fishing is good in the Platte River sand pits, Lake McConaughy, and bay areas of the reservoirs.

Southeast: About 3,000 mallards moved into the Dodge and Saunders Refuge. Pheasant hunters are bagging some birds, but the cover is heavy along the Platte River in Douglas and Sarpy Counties. Quail hunting is the main focal point for this area.

Hunter's Clock

Readers are reminded that shooting hours for all upland game birds and small-game animals are from one-half hour before sunrise to sunset. Shooting hours for big game are from one-half hour before sunrise to one-half hour after sunset. Waterfowl and other migratory birds may be taken between sunrise and sunset. The following applies to shooting at any point in Nebraska that is due north or due south of each of the cities and towns. For each 13 miles west of each city add one minute, and for each 13 miles east subtract one minute.

Valentine and Scottsbluff schedules are Mountain Time. All others are Central Time. Hunters should set their watches according to the time zone in which they are hunting.

AFL Draft Set For November 20

New York (AP)—The American Football League set its annual draft of college players for Nov. 20 Wednesday and promptly touched off another controversy with the rival National Football League.

Commissioner Joe Foss of the AFL announced his league's draft date, which comes one week before the last big Saturday of the college season.

ARCHER ROCKS RAY ROBINSON

Pittsburgh, Pa. (AP) — Young Joey Archer dropped Sugar Ray Robinson in the fourth round and rocked the 45-year-old ex-middleweight champion repeatedly Wednesday night in winning a unanimous decision in a 10-round bout witnessed by 9,023 fans at the Civic Arena.

The crowd gave the faded Sugar man an ovation for a gallant effort, but he could not handle this 27-year-old challenger, who expects to step over Robinson to a title fight with middleweight champion Dick Tiger of Nigeria.

Guarantee Posted For WBA Champ

The guarantee was contained in a contract submitted to the Illinois State Athletic Commission by promoter Irv Schoenwald, who said he might "go up to a half-million dollars" as guarantee for Clay or Patterson to face Terrell.

The WBA which previously stripped Clay of its version of the heavyweight title has approved the Clay - Patterson match at Las Vegas, Nev., Nov. 22 with a proviso the winner faces Terrell.

Hebron Blanks Wymore For Conference Crown

. . . BEARS INFLICT 28-0 LOSS ON ZEPHYRS

The Zephyers held Hebron through most of the second quarter until Lange set-up another touchdown with a 19-yard run to the five. Bob Buller took it over on the next play with just 2:10 left in the half.

But the Bears weren't through. After Wymore gained some offensive momentum, Hebron held and took over on a fourth-down play with just seconds remaining in the half.

The Bears added an insurance tally nine minutes into the third quarter when Lange bolted over the middle for four yards.

From there it was give-and-take.

Wymore, which also lost to Hebron in last year's playoff, failed to take advantage of three Bear fumbles deep in Hebron territory, and lost its second game against seven wins and a tie for the season.

—HAVE 25-MINUTE DRILL—

O-State Gridders In Good Condition

Stillwater, Okla. (AP) — A 25-minute contact drill and a 45 minute workout in sweat clothes Wednesday ended heavy practice for Oklahoma State footballers who are host Saturday to Big Eight rival Nebraska.

Iowa State

Ames, Iowa (AP)—Clay Stapleton, Iowa State's football coach, said Wednesday he is not taking downtrodden Kansas State lightly, and warned his players they'd better not either.

"We have had six tough games in a row," he said, "but we are getting ready for Kansas State just the same as for any other opponent."

Kansas State

Manhattan, Kan. (AP) —Doug Weaver, Kansas State coach, said Wednesday getting ready for Iowa State's offense is a job that is always different, and this year is no exception.

Kansas

Lawrence, Kan., (AP)—Halley Kampschroeder, a quarterback and a defensive halfback, shifted to split end Wednesday to take the place of Sim Stokes, who quit the Kansas football team.

Wally Hinshaw, another quarterback, was shifted to running back behind Dan Miller. Dave Waxes moved ahead of Bill Lynch as roving linebacker.

Oklahoma

Norman, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma's football squad, with the exception of starting linebacker Carl McAdams, was reported Wednesday to be in good physical shape for Saturday's Big Eight game with Missouri.

A decision was expected Thursday whether McAdams would be able to play.

Missouri

Ray West, the Tigers' No. 1 punter, was back on duty Wednesday after missing Tuesday's drill because of a back injury. Halfback Johnny Roland, slowed by a bruised leg, appeared to be rounding into shape.

Hill Rise Withdrawn From Laurel Race

Laurel, Mo. (AP) — Hill Rise, one of the three United States horses in the field for Thursday's $150,000 Washington, D. C., International at Laurel, was withdrawn Wednesday when he turned up with a 103-degree temperature after a workout.

George A. Polk Jr., owner of the 4-year-old who was the second choice for the 1½-mile race, made the decision after Hill Rise had worked three-eights of a mile in the good time of 56 seconds flat.

NU Holds Monopoly On Big 8 Statistics

. . . HUSKERS HAVE SUBSTANTIAL LEADS IN ALL OFFENSIVE CATEGORIES

Kansas City, Mo. — There is a new leader in the Big Eight Conference's passing-defense race, but Nebraska, seeking the first sweep of the league's six team statistical categories, didn't win its missing top spot.

Instead, it was Kansas State that won the honors. Nebraska had its chance in a head-on meeting with Kansas, the season-long leader in pass defense, but managed to only cut the gap a little — and knock the Jayhawkers off the pedestal.

Kansas State held Cincinnati to only 21 yards via the aerial route to slip into the lead by a narrow two-yard margin over Kansas. The Wildcats' average is now 83.1. Kansas has allowed 83.4. Translating this to yards, it's Kansas State 665 to 667. Nebraska moved a little closer with its 96.3 average, which leaves it 105 back after the eight games.

Time may also be against the Nebraskans in this missing defensive lead. However, on the offensive side, they are destined to become the team with the most well-balanced offense to win the Conference's team total-offense title. Maintaining a 100-yard a game passing average will assure this.

Kingpins in all three offensive categories, with substantial leads in all, Nebraska will probably become the first team in league history to gain over 4,000 lengths in a 10-game season without getting at least 3,000 on the ground. This, even though the Nebraskans are the nation's rushing-est team.

By retaining their current average of 416.5 a game, the Huskers will grab the second spot on the all-time list. However, the total will be well off Oklahoma's record 481.7 pace in 1956. Then the Sooners averaged 391 rushing. In rushing, Nebraska now has a 287.4 standard. Its passing mark is 129.1.

The only real challenger to any of the Nebraska leads is Colorado. Last week, the Buffaloes were pushing the Nebraskans for the rushing-defense lead. Missouri helped the Huskers protect the lead with the second biggest ground total against Colorado this year.

Three Consecutive Wins

Indianapolis (UPI) — Only three drivers have scored consecutive victories in the grueling Indianapolis "500" auto race. The repeaters were Wilbur Shaw in 1939-40, Mauri Rose in 1947-48 and Bill Vukovich in 1953-54.

1-Box Hunt Scheduled At Broken Bow

Broken Bow (AP)—The annual One-Box Pheasant Hunt will be held Saturday.

Five-man teams made up of shooters from seven states and the Panama Canal Zone will participate. The winner will be the team bagging the most pheasants with one box of shells.

1. Take a small pinch of wintergreen flavored Skoal between your thumb and forefinger.
2. Place the Skoal between cheek and upper or lower gum.
3. Tuck it in comfortably with your tongue, and just leave it there. Skoal releases its rich tobacco pleasure slowly, without chewing. Every can is dated for freshness.
How can you know till you try it?

Grossart's Stop In McCook Fortunate Event For Junior College

. . . SUCCESS SURPRISING TO JUCO GRID COACH

By JOHN LEE
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

McCook—Something over two years ago Rex Grossart was on his way to see Colorado Coach Eddie Crowder about an assistant football coaching job. He never got to Boulder.

He stopped to visit in McCook, where he had once coached high school ball, and ended up with a contract in his pocket that said "McCook Junior College football coach and director of athletics for the school system."

Everyone—with the probable exception of Crowder—has been glad for the stopover.

And that includes the 4,000-plus fans who turn out to watch the Indians home games in this city of 9,000.

Grossart has kept them happy, particularly this season, by:

—A national No. 2 rating for six weeks running.

—Heading for the school's first undefeated season, with only Norfolk standing in the way.

While looking over preliminary inquiries for three post-season games—Pasadena's Junior Rose Bowl, Bakersfield, Calif., Potato Bowl and the National Junior College Bowl in Savannah, Ga.,—he admits this successful season "came as a surprise."

With only eight lettermen returning to start the campaign, and a "long and lean" front wall averaging 195 pounds, Grossart "didn't plan on a season like this."

And that they've been. After whomping Fairbury JC 60-0 last week, Fairbury coach C. L. Grovert said, "They're just too fast for us."

And the Indians have more than survived. They've racked up 337 points against 53 for the opponents and become the first junior college to beat Air Force's junior varsity.

"We've got a bunch of kids that care and have a little bit of pride," says Grossart.

Citing a few of his comparative lightweights, who explode from a winged-T or double-slot formation, he points out halfback Roger Nitsch from Hayes Center, who was the nation's third leading scorer last week with 66.

But Roger's alternate, Scottsbluff freshman Doug Hollinger, caught him last week at 72, and "I don't know where they'll be this week."

Hollinger, a 155-pounder, works out with the second unit on offense, but first string defense—and has picked up five of his touchdowns defensively.

Bradshaw halfback Bob Goodridge, the team's third-high scorer, "is going to be a pro some day," predicts Grossart, and defensive guard and tri-captain Robert Roberts of North Platte is McCook's prime JC All-American candidate with 111 tackles.

The other tri-captain, along with Nitsch and Roberts, is Grand Island grad Ron Virus, who goes both ways for the Indians at tackle.

Alternating as scrambling quarterbacks are Wally Agnew of Turtle Creek, Pa., and Mike Reed of Ft. Wayne, Ind., two of the dozen gridders from outside Nebraska. Which points up another Grossart policy.

"When I came," he said, "it was the other way around—35 out-of-state and nine Nebraskans. But we don't recruit out of state now."

His Beef State products have handed him 21 wins and six losses during the three seasons he's been here and have never dropped a contest to a junior college foe.

One of the non-Nebraskans is a Detroit boy named Mel White—yep, Freeman's little (6'1", 175-pound) brother, who's worked up to first unit defensive end this season, but Grossart chides, "He can't catch a cold in Alaska. When Mel catches a pass, everyone cheers."

Recognized as one of the nation's experts in weight training and body development, he wrote and lecturd on the subject all over the West Coast during four years at Bakersfield Junior College, helped that football team to three bowls during that time and coached the track team to an equally-outstanding record.

"We have isomtrics before and after each practice," he pointed out. "I'm a great believer in it."

Crude bars are set up beside the practice field, and the boys have to strain against them as hard as they can for 10 seconds in each of five positions.

"The kids have to condition themselves," Grossart explains. "And they're pretty religious about it."

"I think we matched the Air Force in physical conditioning, and that's pretty fantastic to be able to watch them."

He also takes modest credit for starting basketball star Wilt Chamberlain on weights during four years as football and track assistant at Kansas University.

Grossart is enjoying the job at McCook, where he started his coaching career in the high school. He went to York and Alliance before moving up to college ranks at KU.

-OUTDISTANCES KOUFAX, WILLS-

SF's Mays Named NL's Most Valuable

Boston (AP)—Wondrous Willie Mays, the San Francisco Giants' great center fielder, won the National League's Most Valuable Player Award for the second time Wednesday, outdistancing Los Angeles' Sandy Koufax and Maury Wills.

The 34-year-old Mays, who first won the MVP Award in 1954, was the only player named at all on 20 ballots cast by two members of the Baseball Writers Association of America in each of the 10 National League cities.

The former "Say, Hey" kid received nine first place votes, 10 seconds and one third in piling up 224 points in the balloting based on 14 for first, 9 for second etc. Ken Boyer of the St. Louis Cardinals received 243 points with 14 first place votes in winning the honor in 1964 but didn't receive a point this year.

Koufax, who captured the Cy Young Memorial Award as baseball's top pitcher after a 26-8 record this year, polled 177 points, while Wills, the Dodgers' speedy shortstop, drew 164.

Mays became only the fifth player since 1931 to win the coveted MVP Award more than once.

New York (UPI) — Notre Dame has found out how to make its offense pay in the most important way this season — on the scoreboard.

The Irish offense doesn't rank among the top 10 teams in yardage gained per game, but it is unsurpassed in scoring with a total of 250 points in seven games for an average of 35.7.

Notre Dame, which has gained 346.1 yards per game, is only the third team to ever lead the nation in scoring while being unlisted among the top 10 in yardage.

Nebraska, which leads in rushing offense, is second in scoring with 34.9 points average in eight games. The Cornhuskers have rolled up 287.4 yards per game on the ground. They also rank second in total offense with 416.5 yards per contest.

The Tulsa Hurricanes appeared headed for the passing championship once more with 344.8 yards averaged in eight games. Tulsa has completed 234 of 403 passes for 25 touchdowns while gaining the No. 1 passing spot. Tulsa also leads in total offense with 425.0 yards per game.

Southern California is second in rushing offense with 249 yards averaged, and Texas Western is second in forward passing with 144 completions in 318 attempts for 16 touchdowns and 341.1 yards averaged.

Movie Choices Causing NU Mentor To Worry

. . . COWBOYS LOOK GOOD IN TWO DEFEATS

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Nebraska football coach Bob Devaney frankly admits he is worried about Saturday's game with Oklahoma State at Stillwater and movie selection could be the reason.

The Cowboys have been up and down this season and the movies Nebraska has of the Saturday foe were games in which they were up—a 13-0 loss to Missouri and a 17-14 defeat to Texas Tech.

"They played tough against Missouri," Devaney warned Wednesday. "The only touchdown Missouri got against them was on a long run by Lane.

While admitting that Oklahoma State is one of the smaller teams the Huskers have met this season, it is this smallness that also is causing concern.

"They are a quick team and those are the kind of teams that have caused us trouble in the past," Devaney observed. "Contrary to what some people think, one thing we don't have is a great deal of team speed."

The Huskers also have a history of having trouble with the Cowboys. "They have been real tough for us the last two years," Devaney continued. "I remember two years ago, we had them down by 20-3 and we had to hang on to win 20-16.

"Then last year Walt Garrison ran through us pretty good and they have him back."

The status of linebacker Mike Kennedy remained extremely doubtful for Saturday. The defensive captain was released from the hospital Wednesday and watched the practice in street clothes.

Devaney has indicated that if he is unable to work out today, Kennedy will be left off the travel squad that will leave Friday for Stillwater.

Tickets Available

A limited quantity of tickets are available for the Oklahoma game Thanksgiving Day, NU ticket manager Jim Pittenger said Wednesday.

The tickets became available when Oklahoma returned a quantity that they had been unable to sell. The tickets may be purchased at the NU ticket office.

Devaney Mum On Bowl Bid

. . . NU ACCEPTANCE RUMORED

Nebraska coach Bob Devaney Wednesday night declined to confirm or deny that his Cornhuskers have committed themselves to meet Alabama New Year's night in the Orange Bowl at Miami, Fla.

Devaney commented after the Birmingham, Ala., news carried a story quoting "sources" as saying second-ranked Nebraska and sixth-ranked Alabama have agreed to meet in the bowl.

"We are neither confirming or denying that we have accepted. I don't know where the Birmingham News got its report," Devaney said.

"We will make an announcement after our game Saturday with Oklahoma State."

Similar stories connecting Nebraska and Alabama in the Orange Bowl were carried by newspapers in Tuscaloosa, Ala., where Alabama University is located, and in New Orleans, La., home of the Sugar Bowl.

In Tuscaloosa, Alabama school officials denied the Crimson Tide has agreed to compete in the Orange Bowl.

Under Southeast Conference rules, a team cannot announce a bowl acceptance until Nov. 20. The Birmingham News said Alabama would announce that day.

In Miami, C.J. Baldwin, chairman of the Orange Bowl Selection Committee, said, "We would like to have both of these great teams. We are interested in both of them."

Baldwin did not elaborate.

The Orange Bowl, which last New Year's night drew 72,172 fans, is already sold out except for 20,000 seats which will go to competing teams.

The last Orange Bowl game netted $437,000. This go-round will be the second time the contest will be played at night.

Orange Bowl Stadium Sold Out For Jan. 1

The sellout last year was not achieved until Dec. 10. That game, between Texas and Alabama, drew 72,174 and a gross gate of $437,040. Each team received $207,000.

Dainard Paulson AFL Defensive Player Of Week

By Associated Press

Dainard Paulson still plays with a cast on his right arm to protect a hairline fracture of the wrist suffered in early season, but the New York Jets' strong safety continues to make the big plays.

Paulson, a 28-year-old Oregon State product, made two important interceptions, helped Willie West block a field goal, and contributed seven tackles. He also knocked down a pass and protected well against three bombs in a 13-10 victory over Kansas City Sunday.

His performance earned him recognition as The Associated Press' defensive Player of the Week in the American Football League.

NWU Seventh Choice For Regional Playoff

Abilene, Tex., (UPI)—Pecan Bowl officials said Wednesday North Dakota State University is the Northern team favorite for the NCAA Midwest Regional championship game her Dec. 11.

Spartans, Notre Dame Top Nation In Rushing Defense

. . . HUSKERS RANK 6TH IN TOTAL DEFENSE

New York (AP)—Top-ranked Michigan State and fourth-ranked Notre Dame will rely on stonewall defenses as well as high-powered offenses in their crucial football game Nov. 20.

The Spartans of Michigan State are the major college leaders in defense against rushing for the second straight week while the Irish have moved up from third to second place according to statistics released later Wednesday by the NCAA's Service Bureau.

Michigan State has allowed but 50.4 yards per game on the ground while Notre Dame has yielded only 65.5 yards. In addition Michigan State is third in total defense with 181.1 yards per game and first in scoring defense with 5.8 points per game. Notre Dame is the highest scoring team with 35.7 points per game.

Southern Mississippi, with a yield of only 154.5 yards a game, leads in total defense for the third straight week. Toledo topped the field in pass defense, 56.4, for the third consecutive week.

AFL Draft Set For November 20

New York (AP) — The American Football League set its annual draft of college players for Nov. 20 Wednesday and promptly touched off another controversy with the rival National Football League.

Commissioner Joe Foss of of the AFL announced his league's draft date, which comes one week before the last big Saturday of the college season.

His NFL counterpart, Pete Rozelle, then accused the AFL of failing to honor requests from collegiate authorities.

Baltimore blew all but four points of a 20-point advantage built through six minutes of the third period, and twice the Hawks came within four points in the final session before the Bullets pulled out the victory.

ARCHER ROCKS RAY ROBINSON

Pittsburgh, Pa. (AP) — Young Joey Archer dropped Sugar Ray Robinson in the fourth round and rocked the 45-year-old ex-middleweight champion repeatedly Wednesday night in winning a unanimous decision in a 10-round bout witnessed by 9,023 fans at the Civic Arena.

The crowd gave the faded Sugar man an ovation for a gallant effort, but he could not handle this 27-year-old challenger, who expects to step over Robinson to a title fight with middleweight champion Dick Tiger of Nigeria.

Guarantee Posted For WBA Champ

The guarantee was contained in a contract submitted to the Illinois State Athletic Commission by promoter Irv Schoenwald, who said he might "go up to a half-million dollars" as guarantee for Clay or Patterson to face Terrell.

The WBA which previously stripped Clay of its version of the heavyweight title has approved the Clay - Patterson match at Las Vegas, Nev., Nov. 22 with a proviso the winner faces Terrell.

Hebron Blanks Wymore For Conference Crown

. . . BEARS INFLICT 28-0 LOSS ON ZEPHYRS

Wymore — Hebron uncorked its four strong backs often here Wednesday night to earn a 28-0 victory over Wymore in the Southern Nebraska Conference playoff.

The Bears seventh ranked in Class B stepped off 208 yards rushing in the first half to earn a 21-0 halftime lead while keeping Class C Wymore at bay.

Ron Lange started things off with a 62-yard run with just 32 seconds left in the first quarter to set the tone for the rest of the chilly evening.

The Zephyers held Hebron through most of the second quarter until Lange set-up another touchdown with a 19-yard run to the five. Bob Buller took it over on the next play with just 2:10 left in the half.

But the Bears weren't through. After Wymore gained some offensive momentum, Hebron held and took over on a fourth-down play with just seconds remaining in the half.

After two passes missed Lange went 39 yards to the 25 and Loren Peithman hustled around right end for the score and a substantial halftime margin.

The Bears added an insurance tally nine minutes into the third quarter when Lange bolted over the middle for four yards.

From there it was give-and-take.

Wymore, which also lost to Hebron in last year's playoff, failed to take advantage of three Bear fumbles deep in Hebron territory, and lost its second game against seven wins and a tie for the season.

Coach Ted Mills' Bears finished the season 8-1-1.

—HAVE 25-MINUTE DRILL—

O-State Gridders In Good Condition

Stillwater, Okla. (AP) — A 25-minute contact drill and a 45-minute workout in sweat clothes Wednesday ended heavy practice for Oklahoma State footballers who are host Saturday to Big Eight rival Nebraska.

The team was reported in good condition with the exception of two members still suffering bruises.

Iowa State

Ames, Iowa (AP)—Clay Stapleton, Iowa State's football coach, said Wednesday he is not taking downtrodden Kansas State lightly, and warned his players they'd better not either.

"We have had six tough games in a row," he said, "but we are getting ready for Kansas State just the same as for any other opponent."

Stapleton was referring to the Wildcats 0-8 record.

Kansas State

Manhattan, Kan. (AP) —Doug Weaver, Kansas State coach, said Wednesday getting ready for Iowa State's offense is a job that is always different, and this year is no exception.

Kansas

Lawrence, Kan., (AP)—Halley Kampschroeder, a quarterback and a defensive halfback, shifted to split end Wednesday to take the place of Sim Stokes, who quit the Kansas football team.

Wally Hinshaw, another quarterback, was shifted to running back behind Dan Miller. Dave Waxes moved ahead of Bill Lynch as roving linebacker.

Oklahoma

Norman, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma's football squad, with the exception of starting linebacker Carl McAdams, was reported Wednesday to be in good physical shape for Saturday's Big Eight game with Missouri.

A decision was expected Thursday whether McAdams would be able to play.

Missouri

Bates is still hobbled by a sprained ankle. A cast will be removed from Washington's injured knee Thursday.

Ray West, the Tigers' No. 1 punter, was back on duty Wednesday after missing Tuesday's drill because of a back injury. Halfback Johnny Roland, slowed by a bruised leg, appeared to be rounding into shape.

Guard Don Nelson still was hospitalized with the flu, and guard Mike Eader and fullback Carl Reese were withheld from work because of injuries.

Hill Rise Withdrawn From Laurel Race

Laurel, Mo. (AP) — Hill Rise, one of the three United States horses in the field for Thursday's $150,000 Washington, D. C., International at Laurel, was withdrawn Wednesday when he turned up with a 103-degree temperature after a workout.

George A. Polk Jr., owner of the 4-year-old who was the second choice for the 1½-mile race, made the decision after Hill Rise had worked three-eights of a mile in the good time of 56 seconds flat.

Nebraska Offering Hunters Great Variety Of Shooting

If variety is the spice of life, then Nebraska, the nation's mixed-bag capital, offers sportsmen some pretty spicy shooting.

Seasons are in full swing, with the exception of wild turkey, and reports from conservation officers across the state are bright with good predictions. While final turkey success is not yet known, the Game Commission estimates success at 50 per cent. This is higher than last year's split-season ratio. The turkey season ended Nov. 7.

Riflemen are making good use of their record number of deer permits (24,150). Hunter success is excellent so far, and the majority of gunners report seeing their elusive quarry, if not bagging it.

One hunter, Berni Medinger, of Alma, was certainly rewarded for his efforts. The Alma check station reported a white tailed buck weighing in hog-dressed at 225 pounds. The nine-day statewide season runs through Nov. 14, after which bowmen reclaim the field until Dec. 31.

On the bird front, pheasant hunting is picking up. The birds are plentiful, but hunting pressure has been light. With the harvesting well under way, and colder weather moving in, hunters should find Mr. Ringneck an easier quarry. Quail are abundant, and duck hunters better hustle to take advantage of the cold weather action.

A capsule report by area:

Northeast: Quail hunters will find their favorite sport is excellent in Madison County. Numerous quail and ducks were also spotted on the Platte in the Schuyler area. Large groups of hunters are still the best bet when after pheasants. Deer hunting is good in Knox, Cedar, and Madison Counties.

Sandhills: Cover is still heavy, but if hunters are willing to work for their pheasants, then Custer, Valley, Boyd, and the southern part of Garfield Counties are the choice spots. Hunter success is expected to increase with snow or rain. Duck flights should arrive soon in this area, and two large flocks of Canada geese are heading south now. Deer are plentiful throughout the region. Turkey checks showed 61 from Valentine, and 35 from Bassett.

Panhandle: Turkey season, now over, was the big news here. Check stations showed Chadron, 141; Crawford, 407, Harrison, 153, and Rushville, 74, for a total roundtop unit count of 775. The Wildcat Hills unit count was Scottsbluff, 9, and Bridgeport, 5. Whitney Reservoir is hosting 5,000 mallards and some pintails. Walgrin Lake has about 7,000 mallards. Fishing is not over by any means. Trout are after spinners in the upper end of Red Willow. They are also biting good on trout eggs and worms at Nine Mile Creek.

Southwest: Ducks are moving into this region, and some geese have been sighted at Lake McConaughy. Fall fishing is good in the Platte River sand pits, Lake McConaughy, and bay areas of the reservoirs.

Southeast: About 3,000 mallards moved into the Dodge and Saunders Refuge. Pheasant hunters are bagging some birds, but the cover is heavy along the Platte River in Douglas and Sarpy Counties. Quail hunting is the main focal point for this area.

Hunter's Clock

Readers are reminded that shooting hours for all upland game birds and small-game animals are from one-half hour before sunrise to sunset. Shooting hours for big game are from one-half hour before sunrise to one-half hour after sunset. Waterfowl and other migratory birds may be taken between sunrise and sunset. The following applies to shooting at any point in Nebraska that is due north or due south of each of the cities and towns. For each 13 miles west of each city add one minute, and for each 13 miles east subtract one minute.

Valentine and Scottsbluff schedules are Mountain Time. All others are Central Time. Hunters should set their watches according to the time zone in which they are hunting.

Issue Of Indulgences Divides Prelates Attending Vatican Council

Vatican City (UPI) — Prelates at the Vatican Council divided over the surprise issue of indulgences Wednesday. Lawrence Joseph Cardinal Shehan threw American support behind the traditionalists.

By a 2,201-to-2 vote, the council also gave final approval to a decree bolstering the role of the laity in the Catholic Church.

Indulgences are granted to repentent sinners to reward prayers and good works, and sometimes attendance at solemn papal ceremonies, with remission of punishment due them for their misdeeds.

They have been gravely abused in the past, as when they were sold, and they antagonize Protestants as well as confusing Catholic theologians as to their value.

Cardinal Shehan of Baltimore said the U.S. hierarchy found a decree drafted by a small circle of Roman curia traditionalists for the renewal of indulgences in the church "generally acceptable."

The cardinal added, however, that many of the Americans felt "a discussion of indulgences at this time was not opportune."

NU Holds Monopoly On Big 8 Statistics

. . . HUSKERS HAVE SUBSTANTIAL LEADS IN ALL OFFENSIVE CATEGORIES

Kansas City, Mo. — There is a new leader in the Big Eight Conference's passing-defense race, but Nebraska, seeking the first sweep of the league's six team statistical categories, didn't win its missing top spot.

Instead, it was Kansas State that won the honors. Nebraska had its chance in a head-on meeting with Kansas, the season-long leader in pass defense, but managed to only cut the gap a little — and knock the Jayhawkers off the pedestal.

Kansas State held Cincinnati to only 21 yards via the aerial route to slip into the lead by a narrow two-yard margin over Kansas. The Wildcats' average is now 83.1. Kansas has allowed 83.4. Translating this to yards, it's Kansas State 665 to 667. Nebraska moved a little closer with its 96.3 average, which leaves it 105 back after the eight games.

Time may also be against the Nebraskans in this missing defensive lead. However, on the offensive side, they are destined to become the team with the most well-balanced offense to win the Conference's team total-offense title. Maintaining a 100-yard a game passing average will assure this.

Kingpins in all three offensive categories, with substantial leads in all, Nebraska will probably become the first team in league history to gain over 4,000 lengths in a 10-game season without getting at least 3,000 on the ground. This, even though the Nebraskans are the nation's rushing-est team.

By retaining their current average of 416.5 a game, the Huskers will grab the second spot on the all-time list. However, the total will be well off Oklahoma's record 481.7 pace in 1956. Then the Sooners averaged 391 rushing. In rushing, Nebraska now has a 287.4 standard. Its passing mark is 129.1.

The only real challenger to any of the Nebraska leads is Colorado. Last week, the Buffaloes were pushing the Nebraskans for the rushing-defense lead. Missouri helped the Huskers protect the lead with the second biggest ground total against Colorado this year.

Three Consecutive Wins

Indianapolis (UPI) — Only three drivers have scored consecutive victories in the gruelling Indianapolis "500" auto race. The repeaters were Wilbur Shaw in 1939-40, Mauri Rose in 1947-48 and Bill Vukovich in 1953-54.

Sure beats smoking!

Here's how to enjoy it most:

1. Take a small pinch of wintergreen flavored Skoal between your thumb and forefinger.
2. Place the Skoal between cheek and upper or lower gum.
3. Tuck it in comfortably with your tongue, and just leave it there. Skoal releases its rich tobacco pleasure slowly, without chewing. Every can is dated for freshness.

How can you know till you try it?

Erhard Planning Fifth Visit With Johnson In December

Johnson City, Tex. (AP) — Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, who wants a share in nuclear defense for West Germany, is coming to this country in early December for his fifth meeting with President Johnson.

The Texas White House announced Wednesday the two leaders will meet Dec. 6-8, but didn't say where.

Asst. Press Secretary Joseph Laitin ruled out any Johnson trip abroad to meet Erhard, but left open the question of whether they would confer in Washington, the LBJ Ranch, or elsewhere in this country.

Erhard told the West German parliament Wednesday members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization "must share in the nuclear defense according to the degree in which they are threatened and the degree of their burdens." He said West Germany should not be deprived of a nuclear defense because it is part of a divided country.

The issue of nuclear arms for West Germany, certain to be among the topics of the Johnson-Erhard discussions, is a sore spot with the Soviet Union. Moscow has blocked negotiations for a treaty to prevent the spread of nuclear arms.

—Continued to keep posted by phone with the latest developments in the massive power blackout on the East Coast. The reports he got included the role of the armed forces in alleviating the situation, such as emergency power needs of some hospitals. He stayed up until after midnight, and Laitin said he was up early Wednesday and back on the phone for the latest information.

—Studied a report from Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor on a "bridges of trade" mission to Romania and Poland in September and October. O'Connor's report said the mission found the people of the two countries interested in U.S. products and willing to make appropriate trade concessions to get them.

Lincolnite Is Crushed Between Rolls Of Paper

A Lincoln man, Terry A. Rohn of 3845 So. 19th, was in fair condition at Bryan Memorial Hospital after being crushed by about three tons of paper, police said.

The accident occurred at the Great Plains Container Co., 6600 Fletcher Road.

Witnesses said Rohn was trapped between two 3,000-pound rolls of paper when another workman drove a forklift carrying one of the rolls too close to Rohn, police said.

Izvestia Has A Field Day

The newspaper managed to work into its account reports of nuclear war hysteria, fear of looting, National Guard troops patrolling streets, FBI investigators seeking saboteurs and police breaking in walls to get at people stuck in elevators in the Empire State Building.

Izvestia's New York correspondent said jokes on New York streets asking whether nuclear war had started "smelled from the well-known aroma of hysteria."

He said President Johnson immediately called Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and "expressed fears on the strategic readiness of the country."

Morrison Will Speak At KLNE-TV Dedication

Holdrege—Governor Frank B. Morrison will be the principal speaker Friday at a luncheon in Holdrege marking the dedication of the state's second educational television broadcast facility, KLNE-TV, Channel 3. The luncheon is set for 12:45 p.m. in the Oriental Room of the Hotel Dale.

Governor Morrison will also be on hand for the noon dedicated ceremonies formally opening the station which is located five miles southwest of Holdrege near Atlanta. The governor along with members of the Nebraska Educational Television Commission, will then inspect the station which will be serving the estimated 275,000 residents of south central and southwestern Nebraska.

KLNE-TV is the second link in the state's proposed seven-channel educational TV network. The station, which has been on the air since early September, will function as a satellite of KUON-TV, Channel 12, Lincoln, rebroadcasting that station's 72½-hour weekly programming schedule.

Two other speakers are also scheduled to participate in the dedication luncheon: Dr. Theron B. Maxson, president of Hastings College, and a member of the Nebraska ETV Commission; and Dr. Glenn A. Lundstron, president of the Nebraska Council for Educational Television, Inc.

A public meeting of the ETV Commission will be held immediately following the luncheon, according to commission secretary Jack McBride.

Prices Drop Slightly In Stock Mart

New York (AP) — The stock market declined Wednesday for the fourth consecutive session but the loss was minor.

Volume fell below recent levels because of a 65-minute delay in the opening of trading on the New York and American Stock exchanges. They were unable to begin operations at the usual 9 a.m. CST time because power had not been fully restored after Tuesday night's blackout.

The power blackout had little effect on utilities issues. Most were mixed.

Of 1,372 issues traded, 585 fell and 502 rose. New 1965 highs exceeded new lows 54 to 33.

The loss by the averages was held down by advances of ⅞ to 57⅝ by Westinghouse and 1⅝ to 115⅝ by General Electric.

Corporate bonds were mixed and traesuries advanced.

Holdrege 'Venture A Success'

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Holdrege—The balance of a 1961 debenture bond issue which financed construction of a $250,000 local plant is being retired 11 years prior to maturity.

The announcement of the Dec. 15 redemption was made by Willard G. Kluge, president of the parent Artistic Weaving Company of Pompton Lakes, N.J. Holdrege's 27,500 square foot plant is the newest of three which comprise the world's largest manufacturer of woven labels.

"The move is being made as a result of a capital reorganization," the president stated. "Among other things, it reflects the fact that our venture in Holdrege has proved to be an unqualified success."

It was also disclosed that the local operation, Artistic Woven Labels Incorporated, will be brought to full capacity within the next year. Highly automated the factory now has approximately 40 employes.

'Aid To Future'

Wilber S. Aten, attorney and director of the Holdrege Industrial and Development Corporation, described the advance redemption as "testimony to the solidity" of the firm. He added that the move "can easily lift Holdrege into a more impressive future."

"We've known all along how solid Artistic is and this should make us want to work even harder to keep Holdrege on the move forward," he said.

Right-Wing Arms Drill

Trenton, N.J. (AP) — State Atty. Gen. Arthur J. Sills said he has been informed that a right wing organization has been carrying on guerrilla warfare practice and small arms drills in New Jersey.

Issue Of Indulgences Divides Prelates Attending Vatican Council

Vatican City (UPI) -- Prelates at the Vatican Council divided over the surprise issue of indulgences Wednesday. Lawrence Joseph Cardinal Shehan threw American support behind the traditionalists.

By a 2,201-to-2 vote, the council also gave final approval to a decree bolstering the role of the laity in the Catholic Church.

Indulgences are granted to repentent sinners to reward prayers and good works, and sometimes attendance at solemn papal ceremonies, with remission of punishment due them for their misdeeds.

They have been gravely abused in the past, as when they were sold, and they antagonize Protestants as well as confusing Catholic theologians as to their value.

Cardinal Shehan of Baltimore said the U.S. hierarchy found a decree drafted by a small circle of Roman curia traditionalists for the renewal of indulgences in the church "generally acceptable."

The cardinal added, however, that many of the Americans felt "a discussion of indulgences at this time was not opportune."

Erhard Planning Fifth Visit With Johnson In December

The Texas White House announced Wednesday the two leaders will meet Dec. 6-8, but didn't say where.

Asst. Press Secretary Joseph Laitin ruled out any Johnson trip abroad to meet Erhard, but left open the question of whether they would confer in Washington, the LBJ Ranch, or elsewhere in this country.

Erhard told the West German parliament Wednesday members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization "must share in the nuclear defense according to the degree in which they are threatened and the degree of their burdens." He said West Germany should not be deprived of a nuclear defense because it is part of a divided country.

The issue of nuclear arms for West Germany, certain to be among the topics of the Johnson-Erhard discussions, is a sore spot with the Soviet Union. Moscow has blocked negotiations for a treaty to prevent the spread of nuclear arms.

In addition to announcing the dates for Erhard's visit, Johnson Wednesday:

—Continued to keep posted by phone with the latest developments in the massive power blackout on the East Coast. The reports he got included the role of the armed forces in alleviating the situation, such as emergency power needs of some hospitals. He stayed up until after midnight, and Laitin said he was up early Wednesday and back on the phone for the latest information.

—Studied a report from Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor on a "bridges of trade" mission to Romania and Poland in September and October. O'Connor's report said the mission found the people of the two countries interested in U.S. products and willing to make appropriate trade concessions to get them.

Lincolnite Is Crushed Between Rolls Of Paper

A Lincoln man, Terry A. Rohn of 3845 So. 19th, was in fair condition at Bryan Memorial Hospital after being crushed by about three tons of paper, police said.

The accident occurred at the Great Plains Container Co., 6600 Fletcher Road.

Witnesses said Rohn was trapped between two 3,000-pound rolls of paper when another workman drove a forklift carrying one of the rolls too close to Rohn, police said.

Izvestia Has A Field Day

The newspaper managed to work into its account reports of nuclear war hysteria, fear of looting, National Guard troops patrolling streets, FBI investigators seeking saboteurs and police breaking in walls to get at people stuck in elevators in the Empire State Building.

Izvestia's New York correspondent said jokes on New York streets asking whether nuclear war had started "smelled from the well-known aroma of hysteria."

He said President Johnson immediately called Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and "expressed fears on the strategic readiness of the country."

Morrison Will Speak At KLNE-TV Dedication

Holdrege—Governor Frank B. Morrison will be the principal speaker Friday at a luncheon in Holdrege marking the dedication of the state's second educational television broadcast facility, KLNE-TV, Channel 3. The luncheon is set for 12:45 p.m. in the Oriental Room of the Hotel Dale.

Governor Morrison will also be on hand for the noon dedicated ceremonies formally opening the station which is located five miles southwest of Holdrege near Atlanta. The governor along with members of the Nebraska Educational Television Commission, will then inspect the station which will be serving the estimated 275,000 residents of south central and southwestern Nebraska.

KLNE-TV is the second link in the state's proposed seven-channel educational TV network. The station, which has been on the air since early September, will function as a satellite of KUON-TV, Channel 12, Lincoln, rebroadcasting that station's 72½-hour weekly programming schedule.

Two other speakers are also scheduled to participate in the dedication luncheon: Dr. Theron B. Maxson, president of Hastings College, and a member of the Nebraska ETV Commission; and Dr. Glenn A. Lundstron, president of the Nebraska Council for Educational Television, Inc.

A public meeting of the ETV Commission will be held immediately following the luncheon, according to commission secretary Jack McBride.

Prices Drop Slightly In Stock Mart

New York (AP) — The stock market declined Wednesday for the fourth consecutive session but the loss was minor.

Volume fell below recent levels because of a 65-minute delay in the opening of trading on the New York and American Stock exchanges. They were unable to begin operations at the usual 9 a.m. CST time because power had not been fully restored after Tuesday night's blackout.

Business continued to feel the disruptive effects of the power failure in the northeastern section of the country and brokers said transactions by institutions and individuals had been restricted.

The power blackout had little effect on utilities issues. Most were mixed.

The Associated Press 60-stock average dipped .2 to 353.1 with industrials off .4, rails up .2 and utilities off .4.

Of 1,372 issues traded, 585 fell and 502 rose. New 1965 highs exceeded new lows 54 to 33.

Steels, motors, aircrafts, non-ferrous metals, chemicals, airlines and tobaccos declined. Oils, building materials and drugs advanced.

The loss by the averages was held down by advances of ⅞ to 57⅝ by Westinghouse and 1⅝ to 115⅛ by General Electric.

Prices declined on the American Stock Exchange. Volume contracted to 2.51 million shares from 2.73 million Tuesday.

Corporate bonds were mixed and treasuries advanced.

Holdrege 'Venture A Success'

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Holdrege—The balance of a 1961 debenture bond issue which financed construction of a $250,000 local plant is being retired 11 years prior to maturity.

The announcement of the Dec. 15 redemption was made by Willard G. Kluge, president of the parent Artistic Weaving Company of Pompton Lakes, N.J. Holdrege's 27,500 square foot plant is the newest of three which comprise the world's largest manufacturer of woven labels.

"The move is being made as a result of a capital reorganization," the president stated. "Among other things, it reflects the fact that our venture in Holdrege has proved to be an unqualified success."

It was also disclosed that the local operation, Artistic Woven Labels Incorporated, will be brought to full capacity within the next year. Highly automated the factory now has approximately 40 employes.

'Aid To Future'

Wilber S. Aten, attorney and director of the Holdrege Industrial and Development Corporation, described the advance redemption as "testimony to the solidity" of the firm. He added that the move "can easily lift Holdrege into a more impressive future."

The local promotional president, Clay M. Westcott, also expressed gratification at the early payment.

"We've known all along how solid Artistic is and this should make us want to work even harder to keep Holdrege on the move forward," he said.

Right-Wing Arms Drill

Trenton, N.J. (AP) — State Atty. Gen. Arthur J. Sills said he has been informed that a right wing organization has been carrying on guerrilla warfare practice and small arms drills in New Jersey.

Land For 3 Dams To Be Purchased

Salt-Wahoo Watershed District directors Wednesday authorized the purchase of land for three small dam sites south of Lincoln in the Upper Salt Pilot Project for just over, $100,000.

The sites, 6A one mile northeast of Hallam, 17A north of Martell, and 16A two miles north of Martell, are part of the 25-dam system in the pilot project. Eighteen have already been constructed.

Construction by the Soil Conservation Service (SCS) is expected to begin next spring according to District Manager Hal Schroeder. SCS usually spends about $35,000 building each dam, he said.

$75,000 For Land

Schroeder told directors at their monthly meeting that the Salt-Wahoo district had $75,000 budgeted this year for acquiring land.

But treasurer Byron Dunn indicated that the watershed organization had sufficient funds to meet the remaining $25,000 cost from other sources.

Schroeder outlined the cost for obtaining the dam sites as $32,000 for 120 acres at 6A; $45,000 for 150 acres at 17A; and an estimated $25,000 for 16A.

Salt-Wahoo directors were addressed Wednesday by Allen Kneese of the Resources for the Future (RFF) branch of the Ford Foundation in Washington, D.C., who described his work as conducting research primarily in the social science aspect of resources development.

Severe Problem

Kneese described water quality, beginning to be a major activity in RFF, as the "most severe water problem in the eastern United States" and praised legislation requiring the establishment of water quality standards by states.

The research group also has done some study of flood damage control with reservoir construction and found it has "been quite effective." But, he noted, damages from flooding mount every year.

"Maybe these structures aren't the total answer," he said, adding that control of use of flood plains might be one way to control flood damage.

Washington (AP) — Some 590 miles of the Interstate Highway System were opened to traffic in the July-September period, bringing the total to nearly 20,000 miles.

The Commerce Department said Wednesday night that 49% of the 41,000 mile system was open to traffic on Sept. 30.

Here is the status of the Midwest system in miles as of Sept. 30, the first figure being the total open to traffic and the second the total designated system mileage:

Colorado 431 and 945; Iowa 332 and 709; Kansas 535 and 799! Missouri 664 and 1,119; Nebraska 214 and 478; South Dakota 311 and 679; Wyoming 459 and 917.

Land For 3 Dams To Be Purchased

Salt-Wahoo Watershed District directors Wednesday authorized the purchase of land for three small dam sites south of Lincoln in the Upper Salt Pilot Project for just over $100,000.

The sites, 6A one mile northeast of Hallam, 17A north of Martell, and 16A two miles north of Martell, are part of the 25-dam system in the pilot project. Eighteen have already been constructed.

Construction by the Soil Conservation Service (SCS) is expected to begin next spring according to District Manager Hal Schroeder. SCS usually spends about $35,000 building each dam, he said.

$75,000 For Land

Schroeder told directors at their monthly meeting that the Salt-Wahoo district had $75,000 budgeted this year for acquiring land.

But treasurer Byron Dunn indicated that the watershed organization had sufficient funds to meet the remaining $25,000 cost from other sources.

Schroeder outlined the cost for obtaining the dam sites as $32,000 for 120 acres at 6A; $45,000 for 150 acres at 17A; and an estimated $25,000 for 16A.

Salt-Wahoo directors were addressed Wednesday by Allen Kneese of the Resources for the Future (RFF) branch of the Ford Foundation in Washington, D.C., who described his work as conducting research primarily in the social science aspect of resources development.

Severe Problem

Kneese described water quality, beginning to be a major activity in RFF, as the "most severe water problem in the eastern United States" and praised legislation requiring the establishment of water quality standards by states.

The research group also has done some study of flood damage control with reservoir construction and found it has "been quite effective." But, he noted, damages from flooding mount every year.

Washington (AP) — Some 590 miles of the Interstate Highway System were opened to traffic in the July-September period, bringing the total to nearly 20,000 miles.

The Commerce Department said Wednesday night that 49% of the 41,000 mile system was open to traffic on Sept. 30.

Here is the status of the Midwest system in miles as of Sept. 30, the first figure being the total open to traffic and the second the total designated system mileage:

Colorado 431 and 945; Iowa 332 and 709; Kansas 535 and 799; Missouri 664 and 1,119; Nebraska 214 and 478; South Dakota 311 and 679; Wyoming 459 and 917.
